Judge Enright Believes Lowell Bootleggers Peddle Hooch From Door to Door

Lowell bootleggers are peddling hooch from door to door! This was the opinion expressed by Judge Thos. Enright in the police court this morning, when Christa Busto appeared charged with illegal sale of liquor and was fined $100. The court discussed the advisability of imposing a jail sentence on the defendant, but in view of the fact that it was Busto's first offense, the fine was at length deemed sufficient. However, Busto paid $50 more than the sum of $100, more customarily assessed.

Officers Leahy and Goggin are credited with the arrest. They produced evidence a large bottle of "whites lightning" which they stated was the goods that Busto was disposing of by sale. The defendant explained to the court that he went to a house to collect some money from the woman residing there, and that she "asked me to get some of that stuff."

"But," interpolated His Honor, "your daughter declares that you are making it right along."

"Just for ourselves," insisted the defendant. "I make about a quart or a half-gallon, and use it strictly within my own family." Somehow the proclamation that he made hooch only for his household and yet procured other moonshine to sell to "a woman who asked me if I could get her some of the stuff," didn't seem to impress the court. The fine was imposed at the conclusion of Busto's testimony.

LEGION CARNIVAL OPENS THIS EVENING

Manager Francis J. Roane of the local American Legion post's gigantic Independence day season carnival, slated to open tonight with big municipal ceremonies, this morning opened an office at the South common grounds where the huge midway is going up and acres of canvas. The downtown office of the carnival authorities was set up this morning, and Manager Roane and his staff repaired to the grounds, where a tent was erected. In this tent all further business of the enterprise will be transacted.

Despite the rain, all preparations are going forward to have everything in readiness for the opening this evening. After a parade in which the entire city government will participate, together with the local legionnaires and ladies' auxiliary members, Mayor Perry D. Thompson will throw on a switch that will illuminate the hundreds of booths, tents, and the 18 huge Victory arches on which workmen put the finishing touches today. The equipment of the personnel of Battery B, whose members will act as military escort in the parade, and subsequently will officiate as M. P. at the carnival, has been put in readiness, and they will take part in the parade uniformed and with their horses and field pieces, headed by Capt. W. C. MacBrayne, appointed by Gov. Cox as his official representative at the affair. Mrs. Mary Quinn Marr will lead the members of the ladies auxiliary of the legion in the line of march. The ladies will be attired in white dresses, and will cover the route to the carnival grounds.

MRS. LEARY TAKES OFFICE AS POLICEWOMAN

Mrs. Jeremiah F. Leary, of this city, a woman of wide experience in social welfare work, assumed her duties as policewoman this morning in place of Mrs. Mary M. Hearn, who formally took office as woman probation officer for the local police court. Mrs. Leary has been doing social service work for the League of Catholic Women under the leadership of Mrs. David J. Mahoney. Before marriage she taught school in this section, having graduated from the Lowell high school, and the State Normal school. She has previously taken civil service examinations with success.

Simultaneously with the establishment of the children's bureau at Washington, D. C., under Julia Lathrop, Mrs. Leary received a federal civil

GIANT STILL IN CHICAGO HOUSE

Police Declare it Must Have Cost at Least $25,000 To Build It

May Be Necessary To Dynamite House to Destroy Still—Officers On Guard

CHICAGO, July 1.—A giant still, which police said cost at least $25,000 to build and is so large that it may be necessary to dynamite the house in which it is located to destroy it, was guarded here today by police and federal authorities.

The still has vats in the basement of the house that measure 14 by 18 feet and are six feet deep while the coils run through the entire house. The still was discovered when a passerby saw smoke and turned in a fire alarm. One vat was overheated and was smoking.

No one was found at the house and the proprietors have not been located.

CITY COUNCIL MAY HOLD MEETING IN HOSPITAL

If necessary, the municipal council can hold a meeting in St. John's hospital, where Commissioner John F. Salmon is now confined, it was learned today. If the council should do this, it will be the first time in its history that it will have met outside of city hall except when it met in Memorial hall a few months ago to give a hearing on the question of establishing a slaughter house in the former Harvard Brewing company's buildings in Payton street.

If such a meeting were held, it would have to be a special meeting, because the city charter specifically states that all regular meetings of the council shall be held in city hall. But so far as special meetings are concerned, there is no provision in the charter as to where they shall be held.

The question was brought up this morning when City Treasurer Fred H. Tourne notified the members of the council that the $25,000 sewer loan proposed at last Tuesday's meeting and the $20,000 schoolhouse loan passed by the council on June 10 have been held up by the bankers who had been

Request of Defense That Character Testimony Be Stricken Out Granted

No Evidence Now Exists That Sacco and Vanzetti Were Law-Abiding

DEDHAM, July 1.—By agreement of counsel, District Attorney Katzmann today announced that the prosecution had assented to a request by both defendants that there be stricken from the record of the trial of Nicola Sacco and Bartolomeo Vanzetti for a double murder at South Braintree last year, all evidence that either Sacco or Vanzetti bore reputations of being peaceful and law-abiding. The reason for this request was withheld.

The jury was informed that by agreement of counsel no evidence now exists in the trial record that Sacco

R. R. WAGE CUT NOW IN FORCE

CHICAGO, July 1.—One million, five hundred thousand railway employees went to work today at reduced wages, while 1000 of their union leaders assembled here for conferences that are relied upon to keep transportation channels open and to decide what action railway employees shall take regarding wage cuts.

While union leaders voiced general dissatisfaction toward the United States labor board's decision authorizing a wage cut, there were predictions that they would vote to abide by the order with some formal protest.

A decision on their part to order a walkout would, in any event, not be as such an order would first be submitted to a referendum vote of many organizations that have not yet voted on the question.

Reject Wage Cut
CHICAGO, July 1.—Ninety-five per cent. of the membership of the International Brotherhood of Firemen and Oilers have voted against accepting the wage cut ordered by the United States Railroad labor board on all roads today. Timothy Healy, international president, made the announcement today as 1500 union leaders gathered at the convention.

First Aid Tent On South Common As Precaution Against Accident

Arrangements have been completed for Lowell's municipal observance of the Fourth of July and the details of the celebration which were left in the hands of Mayor Perry D. Thompson by the city council were announced today.

In the first place, His Honor has taken every precaution to make the observance safe and sane. A first aid tent, donated through the courtesy of Battery B, will be erected on the common tomorrow morning and will remain there until late Monday evening.

City Council Straightens Out Eleventh Hour Mixup in Plans for Display

An eleventh hour miscarriage in plans for the municipal display of fireworks on the South common on the evening of July 4th, next Monday, necessitated a special meeting of the city council this morning and threatened to cause the cancellation of the biggest feature of the municipal observance of the holiday.

As in previous years, Mayor Perry D. Thompson had been authorized to make arrangements for the pyrotechnical display and had turned over to James J. Gallagher the contract to secure the exhibition. Mr. Gallagher, in turn, negotiated with the National Fireworks Co., a firm which had given the city complete satisfaction in other years, and all the details had been completed.

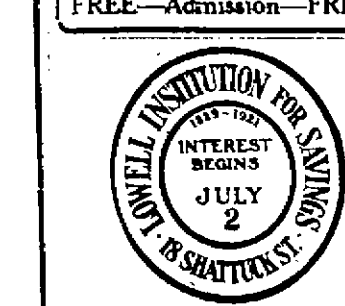

However, Mr. Gallagher yesterday received word from the National company that the surety company to which it had submitted its bond, releasing

Lowell Radio Club Receives Prize Won In Nation-wide Aerial Relay Contest—Club's Activities

Club President

E. STERLING PRATT
Expert Operator

The Lowell Radio club, the first organization of its kind to stage a dance with music by wireless, has given ample evidence during the past week that it stands second to none among the amateur clubs of the country. Wednesday afternoon there was received at the headquarters of the club in the Dartmouth building a very valuable piece of apparatus known in the science of telegraphy as an enclosed spark gap which was awarded to the Lowell boys as a prize in a nation-wide aerial relay contest. Tomorrow afternoon E. Sterling Pratt, an active member of the club, working in cooperation with the Chaffinch company, will announce to the assembled crowds in Merrimack square the details of the Dempsey-Carpenter bout at practically the same instant that they take place in Jersey City.

The event for which the local boys were awarded the prize was a great feat for all relay, which was run throughout the United States and Canada on the night of Feb. 21. An actual count of the answers received showed that over 7240 amateurs sent in reports. The message was one from Mr. Harding, now President Harding. It consisted of 30 words and 14 of them came through from the Atlantic.

PEACE RESOLUTION UP TO PRES. HARDING

WASHINGTON, July 1.—The compromise resolution terminating the state of war with Germany and Austria was expected by senate leaders to be sent to President Harding today. Adopted by the house yesterday it was debated for an hour in the senate and then put over until today with assurances of receiving prompt favorable action.

When the president signs the resolution it is understood that the way will be open for the resumption of diplomatic relations with the former enemy countries.

Runaway Boy Says His Father Hung Him Up By the Feet

Sleeping in a sewer pipe and claiming that he ran away from home because his father hung him up by the feet, a little seven-year-old lad pleaded today not to be sent back to his parents, saying "My father will kill me." He was found by Officer Jeremiah J. Dooley at the depot Thursday after he had been missing since Friday June 22. He was in a sorry plight, bedraggled, with no shoes and his clothes dirty and ragged. Taken in charge by the Lowell Humane society officials, he has been in the care of a woman who provided him with shoes and clean clothing. Today he was provided for during the next month, while

Started Working Too Soon After Wasting Illness

Dorchester, Mass., Man Had Hard Time Getting on His Feet Again.

"Two years ago," writes Mr. R. S. Collett, of 54 Lonsdale street, Dorchester, Mass., "I had influenza and started to work too soon. I always felt tired out. I tried all kinds of tonics to try and get back my strength, but without the results I hoped for. At last I got Wincarnis, and in my opinion it is the best health restorer and strength giver that can be gotten. It put me on my feet again and I shall always swear by it. So will anyone else using it for they will soon know they have found just what they need."

had done for them when they were desperately trying to get back their strength after influenza or other wasting illnesses.

Wincarnis helps those who are sickly, weak and run-down, back to vigorous health, vitality and strength because it exercises a four-fold influence on the system. Being a tonic, a restorative, a blood-maker and a nerve-builder all in one, Wincarnis enriches the blood, invigorates the nerves, promotes nutrition and increases the forces of resistance to disease of the entire system.

Because of these virtues, Wincarnis has been recommended by more than 10,000 physicians. As Dr. G. M. Japinsky, formerly of the Health Department of Philadelphia, has said, "It would be difficult to find a better preparation than Wincarnis for those convalescing after a wasting illness."

Wincarnis is put up in two sizes—$1.10 and $1.55. It is sold in Lowell by all first class druggists. Write for free instructive booklet, "Hundred Per Cent Health, How to Obtain It," Edward Lassar, Inc., Dept. 400, West 23d St., New York, U. S. Agents for Wincarnis.—Adv.

FAREWELL RECEPTION TO REV. AND MRS. DILTS

A reception by the parishioners of the Calvary Baptist church was given last evening to Rev. Asa Reed Dilts, together with Mrs. Dilts, who are soon to depart for Amherst, where Rev. Mr. Dilts will assume the duties of pastor of the Baptist church in that town. A purse of $500, the gift of the congregation, was presented to the resigning pastor, who has been at Calvary Baptist church during a period of nearly twenty-three years. There were speeches appropriate to the occasion by Rev. Charles H. Ellis, of Chelmsford Centre, Rev. York A. King, of Lawrence, and Dr. Edward Dabrock of the First Baptist church.

Many eloquent tributes were paid to the pastor by those who spoke, and he was hailed as a man of high character and a credit to the Christian ministry. Rev. Mr. Dilts responded simply but feelingly.

Somewhat more than 22 years ago, Rev. Mr. Dilts and his wife came to this city, after a call had been received from Northampton, where Rev. Mr. Dilts was at that time officiating as pastor. The church of the congregation was then the Branch Street Tabernacle, now the site of the Notre Dame de Lourdes church, at Branch and Middlesex streets. It is now 12 years since the present edifice was completed and occupied. The Amherst Baptist church, part of whose congregation consists of 1200 Amherst College students, and also undergraduates of the Agricultural college, will be the scene of Rev. Mr. Dilts' new pastorate. In the receiving line last evening with the pastor and his wife were: Deacons Eugene Morrill, William Morgan, Louis Browning, William F. Hillis, Francis Fletcher and Richard Gumb. The last named later introduced the speakers. Rev. Mr. King, who made an address, is evangelistic secretary of the Baptist Home Missions society of New England.

A feature of the program was the recitation of an original poem by Miss Florence M. Lalline. The composition related to the regret felt by the congregation because of the departure of the pastor. Mrs. Fred Harrison also read a poem. An autographed volume, containing the written signatures of every member of the parish was presented by Miss Getha L. Lalline. Deacon Gumb then presented the purse with a few words of sorrow for the pastor's going, and gladness that he is going into a larger field. On the platform were: Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Dilts, Dr. Dabrock, Rev. Mr. Ellis, Rev. Mr. King, Edward Everett Adams, Gladys Green, Deacon Gumb, and Miss Florence and Miss Getha Lalline. The ushers were as follows: Lyman Morris, Glen Holcomb, Anselm Myhr, Ernest Craig, Jr., Herbert Kenyon, William Jones, Charles Lalline, Mrs. Albert S. Haynes, Jr., Ella Clement, Gladys Green, Ethel Gordon, Florence Lalline, Mary Gordon and Mrs. Charles Lalline. The committee in charge of refreshments was as follows: Mrs. Edmund L. Lalline, Mrs. William F. Hillis, Mrs. Bowen, Mrs. Louis Browning, Mrs. William Morgan, Mrs. John Butcher and Miss Mattie Barron.

CITIZENS' MILITARY TRAINING CAMPS

The experience of England in its volunteer system in the world war was a sad one. The opposition against enforcing a draft was so great at home that the English government was compelled to recruit its army by volunteers. The results of this were that during the first three years of war more than 250,000 of the flower of the youth of England became casualties in battle; she gained recruits to maintain and increase the strength of her army by paying exorbitant bounties and by brow-beating individuals to force them to enlist. Her officer material constantly became less efficient because of the fact that the red-blooded young men from whom officers are developed and selected were the ones who had first rushed to the colors.

The citizens' military training camps provide for instruction in elementary military matters which is calculated to give the young man an equal chance in combat with an enemy.

One of these camps will be established for the First Corps Area at Camp Davens, from Aug. 1 to Aug. 31. Any young man of good character, 16 years of age or over, is eligible to attend. There will be no expense to the individual, as the government pays for everything.

Application to attend the camp or for further detailed information should be made to First Corps Area headquarters, Boston, without delay, as the remaining vacancies are rapidly being filled.

The most common letter is "E." Out of 1000 letters it averages 137 times in English, 154 times in French and 175 in German.

PREDICTS GREATEST OF WORLDS GOLD RUSHES

SEATTLE, July 1.—What old timers of the north here foresee as the greatest of the world's gold rushes awaits merely the lifting of political barriers from Siberia—a stampede with their hectic frontier life.

"The gold is there," asserts Captain C. I. Olsen, widely known sounder and explorer, "and the impending rush is as certain as man's lust for yellow metal."

"A great many American prospectors have been quietly searching the creeks, rivers and beaches of Siberia, and they have made big strikes. Some of the finds have been sensational, rich, and as soon as the government of eastern Siberia is stable, the mines will be opened on a large scale."

"This, in turn, will be followed by trade, industry and general development."

"I personally know many of these prospectors. I have seen their metal, and can vouch for the truth of their statements."

"I also have the personal assurance of political leaders of northeastern Siberia that Americans will be given every right and privilege which they themselves enjoy."

Captain Olsen, 23 years prospector, hunter, trader, and explorer in the Arctic, is outfitting for another of his voyages to the west shores of the Behring. Many of his adventurous fellows are also equipping themselves for a quick scurry to the Siberian gold and platinum fields when the propitious hour strikes.

They picture eastern Russia as the mecca for the hardy pioneer.

"Siberia has enormous undeveloped resources in agriculture, stock raising, fisheries, oil and mining of all kinds," says Capt. Olsen. "The southern part is particularly adapted to grains raised in Canada and northern United States. There are millions of acres of the finest grazing lands and immense tracts of fine timber—pine, spruce and hardwoods."

"The northern part is the natural home of the reindeer, of which there are millions. In some places they can be bought for a dollar each. Landed at Seattle, the meat is worth about $50 a head."

"The waters of the whole Siberian coast are alive with food fish. The rivers swarm with salmon and the greatest codfishing banks in the world are in the Okhotsk sea.

"There are coal and iron mines awaiting development."

"Oil pools and seepage indicate there is oil in the interior and on the coast."

"All these resources will be developed eventually and fortunes will be made."

"The people who get up there early and stay with the country cannot make a mistake."

"The Siberian trading post of today will be the city of the future."

"The gas schooner will become the ocean liner."

AMUSEMENT NOTES

By Theatre's Own Press Agents
MERRIMACK SQUARE THEATRE
As delightful and beguiling a comedy as the screen has turned out in many months is "An Unwilling Hero." The new Goldwyn photoplay which is the feature attraction of the current program at the Merrimack Square theatre. The star is Will Rogers and the play reveals the homely comedy in a role somewhat similar to his "Jubilo," one of his greatest successes. "An Unwilling Hero" is a product of O. Henry's pen and Rogers plays the part of a hobo, "The Midlander," featuring Bessie Love, is the other big attraction. This is a colorful romance of the Mississippi valley. A comedy and the International News complete the bill.

THE STRAND

June Elvidge is seen to particular advantage in "Fine Feathers," the special feature showing at "The Strand." The story is a most interesting one and Miss Elvidge and the others of an all-star cast reflect real screen talent. William Russell never fails to please and his work in "The Cheater" ranks with his best efforts. The comedy and Weekly are also good. Don't forget that "It's Always Cool and Comfortable" at the Strand. One thousand seats at 10 cents each. It's money well spent these hot, sultry days.

Expert Surgery Would Make
"The Old Nest" a Masterpiece

MARY ALDEN. HER CHARACTERIZATION OF THE MOTHER IN "THE OLD NEST" IS ON A PAR WITH THAT OF VERA GORDON IN "HUMORESQUE"

By JAMES W. DEAN
NEW YORK, July 1.—"The Old Nest" is a cross-section of that ventricle of a woman's heart in which the maternal pulse beats the stronger. Only imperfect surgery denies this film the praise of being the most human picture ever screened. But the surgeon forgot to cut away the fatty tissues, left loose ends of his stitches and some of his instruments in the incision when he sewed it up. By this it is meant that "The Old Nest" suffers from too much padding, too much extraneous stuff. This, no doubt, was introduced to give the picture imposing length, but it destroyed the sincerity of the story. Dr. Anthony is a small town physician. There are four boys and two girls in the family. Arthur, at 14, is killed in a railroad wreck. Kate, the older daughter, marries a rich New Yorker and leaves. Tom becomes a noted attorney and Frank an artist. Jim is a black sheep. He loaf around poolrooms. He steals from his employer. His father squares the account and orders him from home. Only Emily is left. She visits Kate, falls in love and marries, leaving immediately for Paris. A ten-word telegram tells the mother about it. Mother's birthdays come and go forgotten by the children until they are passed. Then gifts, showing little thought or taste, are rushed. The black sheep returns first. That is because he needs his mother's help. That is a proud moment to her—when she can once more be of service to one of her children. Tom, the lawyer, becomes attorney general of the United States. His father and mother, however, first learn of it in the town paper. He comes home at last to tell them of the honor. Then he surprises them with a family reunion of all the children. The black sheep, too, is there—a success at last, through his mother's help. Well, that's the story, but words cannot tell it as the picture does. Many of the scenes breathe the very breath of life. No more human characterizations were ever played. But that padding! Here are examples: A subtitle tells us Paris is a place of earnest endeavor, of hard work. Then several hundred feet of film introduce a central fantasy to show us how one of the players pictures it. One or two scenes of birds feeding their young would have sufficed to draw the comparison between the bird mother and the human mother. About a dozen are used. In order to introduce a "thrill" the mother chambers out upon a wrecked trestle in a raging storm to save a train from destruction. She plunges hundreds of feet to destruction and then awakes from her dream. The first audience to see the picture at the Astor theatre in New York laughed uproariously at that. Rupert Hughes, the author deserves credit for a story full of human interest. Acting honors go to Dwight Crutten and Mary Alden. The father and mother, and to little Buddy Messenger and Robert Devlin, in child parts. The latter bids fair to outdo Jackie Coogan. The casting director deserves praise. Reginald Barker deserves praise for his direction. But whoever was responsible for

The padding of the picture deserves to be shot at sunrise with celluloid bullets. Extra! Mary Pickford lost a tooth while filming "Little Lord Fauntleroy." "Vanity Fair," Chaplin's next, is a travesty on the weaknesses of the new rich. Dolores Casanelli plays the part of Dolores, Spanish dancer, in "Peter Ibbetson." Buster Keaton has started on the first of six comedies to be made for First National. Agnes Ayres has given up her European trip to start work on her first starring picture. A bronze statue representing Victory, and designed to commemorate the heroism of Australian soldiers, laid for over a year, dust-covered and forgotten in the yard of the Federal Parliament house. The unfortunate oversight has been rectified and Australia's thanks have been sent to the sculptor. The rainfall around the Caspian sea is only 10 inches a year. Elsie Ferguson soon leaves for a vacation in England, France and Italy.

MEXICAN AGRICULTURAL EXHIBIT AT LOS ANGELES

LOS ANGELES, Cal., July 1.—The Mexican government has opened here its first permanent agricultural exhibit in the United States. It consists of a display of Mexican products gathered from all sections of the republic and fills an entire floor of a downtown office building. The exhibit was designed to appeal to the prospective investor in Mexico. Connected with the display, which is similar to the exhibits of a chamber of commerce, are officials to furnish information to those contemplating starting business with or in Mexico. The exhibit was put in through Samuel G. Vazquez, with the Mexican department of agriculture and development. The move is announced as an event.

dence of Mexico's determination to redeem herself as a great productive nation and as one of the first steps in the Obregon administration's program to branch out into commercial centers of the United States and to call attention to Mexico as a land of commercial opportunities and promise. "The average American has the wrong conception of the Mexican people," says Mr. Vazquez, who recently returned to Los Angeles following a two years' tour through his native land. "To him the Mexican is the 'villain' of the motion picture screen, and he attributes all the defects and vices of that character to the entire race. The Mexican thinks that the citizen of the United States is a man with but one aim in life—chasing the almighty dollar. "It is most unfortunate that the two countries could not have been more understanding neighbors, but this is now being overcome by the honest desire of both to unite in closer commercial bonds. "Mexico is once more on her feet. Peace has been attained. Today we are working hard to make up for the time lost during the ten-year revolution. The people of Mexico are uniting to reconstruct the country. Opportunity is now given to competent citizens of our republic, which is attracting more capital than any other nation has ever received. "The great influx of foreign investors is due to the changing sentiment toward our country which is becoming more marked every day." Swinburne is said to be the only red haired poet who ever achieved fame.

STILLMAN SURRENDERS TO CAMERA

James A. Stillman took elaborate precautions to prevent the news photographers from snapping his picture when he went to court at Poughkeepsie, N. Y., to testify in his suit for divorce. He entered the building by a cellar passage leading through the boiler room, and he tried to get out unseen through an alley. But the camera men were too fast for him so he finally gave up and posed. Here's the picture.

Impressive Ceremonies at Baltimore Cathedral—Eulogy by Fr. Hafey

BALTIMORE, July 1.—Preceded by a brief service for the family at the country home where he died last Tuesday, a high requiem mass was sung over the body of Charles J. Bonaparte, former secretary of the navy, and former attorney general, at the cathedral here yesterday. The Rev. William Hafey was the celebrant of the mass and he also delivered a brief and eloquent eulogy.

Rear Admiral William L. Rogers and Commander William J. Rowell represented the navy department. Representatives of all classes of the people of Baltimore filled the edifice.

D'ANNUNZIO ADHERENTS REORGANIZING FORCES

FIGUE, July 1.—Captain Gabriele d'Annunzio's adherents are reorganizing their forces into a contingent which will respond to any emergency which arises here. The war cry has gone out to former followers of the poet-soldier, and they are congregating here and have already organized a body called the "Service Trieste". D'Annunzio has sent out a message to his legionaries saying:

Mlle. Lenglen Retains British Title

WIMBLEDON, July 1.—(By the Associated Press)—Mlle. Suzanne Lenglen retained the British title of women's singles tennis champion by defeating Miss Elizabeth Ryan of California in the challenge round today. Randolph Lycett and Max Woosnam of England defeated H. Roper Barrett of England, and B. L. C. Norton of South Africa in the semi-final round of the men's doubles in the British tennis championship tournament today. 5-6, 2-5, 5-3, 5-4.

With a few exceptions, labors are found only in Africa.

GUILTY OF RIOTING

ROCKLAND, Me., July 1.—Ralph Starrett, Harold Davis, Hartwell Davis and Virgil Morton of Friendship pleaded "not guilty" in the municipal court yesterday to the charge of participating in an alleged riot in Friendship Saturday night, and waived examination.

Judge Frank B. Miller rendered a verdict of "guilty" and sentenced the men to three months in jail, in addition to a fine of $250, the jail sentence to be doubled in default of payment. An appeal was taken and bail was furnished.

Mr. Starrett is postmaster of Friendship and the other young men belong to leading families. The alleged riot consisted of the smashing of a window of Mrs. Estelle Simmons' residence following an assault and battery trial in which the family had figured.

TO DUPLICATE BLOWS USED BY DEMP AND CARP

BENTON HARBOR, Mich., July 1.—Benton harbor fight followers probably will get a more realistic description of the international argument between Jack Dempsey and Georges Carpentier than anyone not actually at Royce's Thirty Acres at Jersey City, for they will see a world's champion duplicating every blow delivered by Dempsey, with another fighter taking the part of Carpentier as the returns are received over a special wire from the New Jersey ring.

Men Like Water—Inasmuch as They Seek Their Own Levels

BY RUTH AGNES ABELING

That he was tired of "living with his equals" is what Mrs. Fifi Stillman is quoted as having said of her husband.

Men, like water, seek their own level. And, like water, they find it. You've watched it work out many a time, right in your own group of friends.

There was Alice for instance—Alice with the soft brown hair and the fine intelligent brown eyes; her fondness for good literature and her love of all things dainty.

Alice said when she married George that she knew they'd get along beautifully because they were so different. But the trouble of it was their difference kept increasing as their wedding day was put farther and farther behind them, until finally it seemed to build an insurmountable barrier.

Alice wanted to read evenings; sometimes she tried to read aloud to George. But George was restless. He wanted to go out with the crowd, seek out a jazz place, and dance.

Alice wanted to see only the best dramas; George couldn't appreciate anything without lively music and girls.

Alice liked plain, but well cut clothes; George wanted a great deal of flash and splurge.

And so it went. George was, as Alice had confided to her friends, before marriage, different, so different that soon he began to seek a plane that was a little bit more like his than was Alice herself. He was restless under the constant friction of tastes. And pretty soon the inevitable came, they went their separate ways. As man and water will—they sought their own levels.

STANDARD OIL CO. CONFIRMS REPORT

NEW YORK, July 1.—Officials of the Standard Oil Co. of New Jersey today confirmed reports that that company had notified the shipping board it would no longer insure Mexican Crude Oil in contract shipments, but would substitute American oil therefor. The company has contracts to supply the board with 18,000,000 barrels of fuel oil.

The change, it was said, resulted from the new Mexican oil taxes, scheduled to go into effect today, which the company characterized as confiscatory.

WILL DEFY DEATH TO EXPLORE LAND OF ICE

BOSTON, July 1.—Donald Baxter MacMillan, noted explorer, with four of the five members of a hand-picked crew, will sail out of Boston harbor Saturday afternoon aboard the Bowdoin, 88-footer, on the first leg of an expedition to Baffin Land. At the final jumping off place in Wiscasset, Me., toward the middle of next month the crew will be completed and the MacMillan expedition, seventh which the commander has taken part in, will be on its way.

MacMillan Tells Plans

The objects of the expedition, and its hazards, the hopes of its commander and the preparations and plans which have been so carefully made for the comfort of the crew were told by the explorer to a reporter last evening at the City club, where MacMillan is staying preparatory to the start. The expedition will be under the auspices of the MacMillan Arctic association, a society of the explorer's friends. Much of the work planned is on behalf of the Carnegie Institute.

No relief party has been arranged for. The Bowdoin's crew expects to do the work it will set out to accomplish within one year, and will be five others will perish, giving their lives for science in the frigid lands of the Arctic.

Two Boston men will be included in the party, comparative youngsters just out of college, and "green men" as Arctic travellers. Both are observers. One is Richard H. Goddard, graduate of Dartmouth this year; the other, Dawson Howell, Trinity college, '17, who has been trained at the Carnegie Institute, Washington, as an observer in terrestrial magnetism.

Others of the party, besides Commander MacMillan, include J. C. Small of Provincetown, who will be mate of the Bowdoin, a companion of MacMillan's on the 1912 trip and again on the four-year expedition from 1913 to 1917, and Harold Whitehouse of Booth-bay, Me., the engineer, and Thomas McCue of Briggs, N. F., the cook.

"The objects of the expedition," said MacMillan, "are to explore the western shores of Baffin Land for 1000 miles, all unknown country, and 150,000 sq. miles of the interior. Also to make observations in terrestrial magnetism for the re-discovery of the North Magnetic Pole, which was discovered by Sir James Ross 90 years ago."

In answer to queries, the explorer explained the difference between the North Magnetic Pole and the North Pole that is generally known as the one discovered by Peary. The former, he said, is the point toward which all compasses tip and is located at 70 degrees north latitude and 99 degrees west longitude. The latter is the end of the earth's axis at 90 degrees north. Provisions for six men for one year will be taken, generally speaking, declared MacMillan. "However, two years' supplies in flour, coal, oil, and dehydrated vegetables will be carried. When those are gone," he paused, but without any display of pessimism—"we must rely on birds' eggs, seal meat, walrus, caribou, and the like. At all events we'll get our meals from the north region from the game of that country."

After leaving Boston, the Bowdoin and her little party will head for Portland, there to take on oil, and from there to Wiscasset. Final supplies will be put aboard there, and on July 16 the expedition will bid farewell to the United States and head toward the regions of snow and ice and low temperatures.

IF YOU ARE WELL DRESSED

In laying covers for dinner you will place the forks at the left of the plate and the knives and spoons at the right. Times of the forks should always be up and should be placed that the fork at the outside is the one used for the first course.

You will never put one plate on another as you finish eating. If an empty plate is in the way and there is no one to remove it simply move it to the side.

Gullible Investors Fell for Considerable Fake Movie Stock During 1920

NEW YORK, July 1.—Fake movie stock kobbled up $50,000,000 from gullible investors during 1920, says a report by the National Association of the Motion Picture Industry, which has a vigilance committee trying to stamp out promoters of wildcat film companies.

Hundreds of such companies, often organized by men who did not even know the difference between a cur-hack and a close-up, not to mention the distinction between an ordinary platonic kiss and the lingering fade-away, were trumpeted by stock salesmen who pointed to great financial achievements by well-known film makers as an assurance that investors would soon receive gobs of dividend checks, the report indicated.

But the vigilance committee discovered that most of these wildcat schemes died without leaving a foot of film to posterity. It then started a campaign of warning to the public.

This, the association claims, has been successful.

"The danger of this sort of investment has been called to the public's attention with such force," its statement said, "that very few, if any, producing companies have attempted to sell stock within the past six months."

PEACE TIME VALUE OF RADIO COMPASS

WASHINGTON, July 1.—A remarkable demonstration of the peace-time value of the radio compass, a war development, was furnished during the recent passage of Battleship Division Five of the Atlantic fleet from Hampton Roads to Boston, according to an announcement at the navy department. The entire voyage was made in a heavy fog and navigation all the way was accomplished by shore radio compass stations, submarine bells and soundings, not a light or fixed aid to navigation being sighted on the trip.

"From the time departure was taken until Boston lighthouse was picked up not a light vessel or lighthouse was seen," says a report from Vice Admiral H. T. Jones, commanding the battleship force. "The fog was so dense that during most of the passage the ships astern of the division flagship were invisible. Had it not been for the radio compass situation, the arrival of battleship division five would have been greatly delayed. This practical demonstration of radio direction finding is a clear indication of the military value of radio compass stations and of the necessity for continued development along this line." Radio compass stations have now been established along the coasts so that vessels at sea in foggy weather can communicate with the stations and in a few minutes establish their correct position. About 2500 ships now receive the service each month, it was announced.

ASKS FOR REPORTS OF ALL LAUNDRIES IN STATE

BOSTON, July 1.—Clerks at the offices of the commission on the necessities of life, at the state house, were busy yesterday sending out to all the laundries in the state requests for full information on their costs and their charges for service, and for any other information which will enable the commission to decide whether or not the public is paying too much for its laundry service.

In all, 150 letters were sent out in which Commissioner Hultman not only asks for information, but suggests that the prices charged throughout the state, as shown by an inquiry already completed by the commission, are "practically uniform," and that an investigation appears advisable. This is generally considered by officials at the state house to be an intimation of the possibility of conspiracy among the laundry owners, who are known to be closely organized.

The importance of this lies in the fact that while there is now no law, federal or state, against profiteering at the expense of the public, there is one against a conspiracy to maintain prices. The letter sent to the laundry men, however, only asks for information, a price list for laundry work in 1920 and 1921, and comparative costs of various elements entering into the service, such as labor, fuel, washroom supplies, boxes, paper, twine, etc.

Commissioner Hultman, however, has made it plain that he intends to give the laundry owners every opportunity of meeting the situation voluntarily by a reduction in charges or by satisfactory proof that their present charges are fair on a basis of the cost of the service rendered. At the meeting of the commission held yesterday it is understood that some members urged immediate action in the form of a public hearing, but that Mr. Hultman insisted on following the precedent of the case of the Brockton coal dealers, where they were first given opportunity to justify their prices or to make them right.

It is expected that a decision as to future action will be made at the meeting July 12.

CARNEGIE ESTATE WORTH $25,933,014

NEW YORK, July 1.—The state comptroller's office yesterday appraised the estate of Andrew Carnegie at $25,933,014 gross and $22,151,011 net. The principal items are securities valued at $11,543,535.

Louis Whitfield Carnegie, the widow, was the chief beneficiary, receiving a total of $11,335,547. The Carnegie corporation of New York was bequeathed $10,653,350.

The will, which was made public in August, 1915, stated that Mr. Carnegie had made ample provisions in his lifetime for his daughter, Margaret Carnegie Miller, and provided that if she outlived her mother, she would receive the principal of a trust fund of $1,612,750.

HISTORY REPEATS ITSELF—IN PERIOD CLOTHES

BY ALICE ROBE
NEW YORK, July 1.—Period clothes, like period furniture, seem to be the final punctuation mark in fashions. History repeats itself in hats for the coming fall and winter. Already Joseph is showing the D'Aragnan or the Musketeer hat of the historic period immortalized by Dumas in "The Three Musketeers." In these revivals there is apt to be a theatre background. While we scarcely look to Doug Fairbanks as an inspiration in ladies' styles, his appearing in "The Three Musketeers" has had something to do with the adaptation of this hat, which combines all the attractive features of a picturesque period of history with the practical. For every well dressed woman feels that she must have a black velvet hopped hat in her wardrobe. The Musketeer hat, now on showing for fall, is simple in outline with the broad brim turned up on one side and a long plume curling around the crown and falling over the brim.

DECLARES JUDGE TOO LENIENT TO AUTOISTS

BOSTON, July 1.—Chief of Police Edward Leavitt of Ipswich will bring no more automobilists before the district court in that town, because he believes that Judge George W. Hayes does not impose sufficiently severe penalties for violations of the automobile laws and town ordinances.

Chief Leavitt made this statement yesterday at a hearing before the department of public works, and said that in the future he will call automobile offenders before him and warn them that he will turn their cases over to the registrar of motor vehicles if they fail to comply with the law.

The hearing was an appeal case of Lawrence P. Dodge, a Boston business man living in Newbury, who was notified by Registrar Frank A. Goodwin that his license has been suspended after a review of charges of speeding brought by Chief Leavitt.

According to testimony at yesterday's hearing, Dodge was discharged by Judge Hayes in the Ipswich court after a hearing on complaint of Chief Leavitt of driving at the rate of 35 to 38 miles an hour on the North Shore road from Hampton beach to Boston.

Chief Leavitt testified that of 15 cases of auto speeding before the Ipswich court in the past three weeks 12 of the defendants were let go with either $2 fines or after their cases had been placed on file. In some of these cases, he said, the charge was that the automobile was being driven at 50 to 55 miles an hour.

Judge Hayes, who was present at the hearing, told the commission that he took the word of Dodge that he was not exceeding the speed limit, against that of the police officer on the ground that it was up to the prosecuting officers to prove their cases conclusively.

John J. O'Connor, the police officer who made the complaint, said that according to his speedometer, Dodge was exceeding the speed limit, but Chairman John N. Cole of the public works department, after questioning the officer, said the testimony of O'Connor was not conclusive.

Chief Leavitt said Judge Hayes had only infrequently asked for his advice as to the filing of cases.

"I found," he said, "that the cases went along better for the prosecution when I did not object to filing," and he then declared that hereafter he will call in the offenders and warn them of his intention to turn their cases over to Registrar Goodwin.

Co. will shut down all its departments tonight, while the greater portion of the Foot Mills will also suspend work tonight. Most of the machinery of the Tremont & Suffolk Mills will stop tonight, the remainder to operate until tomorrow noon. The Massachusetts and Appleton will keep on working until tomorrow noon.

IMPERIAL CONFERENCE

Final Discussion for Present on Question of Renewing Anglo-Japanese Treaty

LONDON, July 1. (By the Associated Press).—The imperial conference met again today for what it was hoped would prove to be the final discussion for the present of the question of renewing the Anglo-Japanese treaty.

A whole week has been consumed in the consideration of this question and the cases for an agreement renewal of the pact have been stated with a frankness which is believed to be responsible for the government's refusal to publish the accounts of the proceedings. Some of the dominion premiers let it be known early in the discussion that they had not come to London to be treated "like schoolboys," as in pre-war days, and told by the "elder statesmen" of Downing street just what they should do.

The course taken by the representatives of the dominions at this conference was to state their cases with force and feeling and to controvert arguments advanced by Premier Lloyd George, Lord Curzon, the foreign minister, A. J. Balfour and other members of the British cabinet when the views of the London ministers were at variance with their own.

MAY BEAT JUNE ONE IN "JAG" CONTEST

The number of drunkenness arrests in Lowell has decreased. It was 100 much of a decrease, however. During May there were 143 arrests, while June's record shows only 142. This is the first time that there has not been a jump since the first of the year. Maybe the bootleggers are going on their summer vacations. Anyhow, here's the official summary for the present year, displaying an unbroken climb, until last month's tally was made by Probation Officer Slatery:

January, 97 men and 7 women. Total, 104.
February, 116 men and 10 women. Total, 126.
March, 116 men and 10 women. Total, 126.
April, 122 men and 9 women. Total, 131.
May, 181 men and 12 women. Total, 193.
June, 135 men and 7 women. Total, 142.
Grand total for the first half of 1921: 772 drunkenness arrests.

IMPOSES TAXES ON COAL

Hullman Urges Proceedings in Behalf of Mass. to Test Recent Penn. Law

BOSTON, July 1.—Proceedings in behalf of the commonwealth of Massachusetts to test the constitutionality of recent Pennsylvania laws which impose taxes on coal mined in that state and intended for shipment elsewhere, were recommended to Attorney General A. Weston Allen today by Eugene C. Hullman, state fuel administrator. The taxes, the fuel administrator contends, would increase the cost to consumers in this state from 30 to 40 cents a ton. The attorney general was asked to consider also whether injunction proceedings might be brought by this state to restrain enforcement of the laws.

FAIR WEATHER FOR BIG FIGHT

(Special to The Sun.)
STATE HOUSE, Boston, July 1.—Fred H. Gilman of 12 E street, Lowell, has been exonerated of blame in connection with the automobile accident in which he was involved April 23, and which resulted in the death of Antonine St. George of Lowell.

Frank A. Goodwin, registrar of motor vehicles, has made a thorough investigation of all the circumstances attending the accident, and as a result of what he learned, has made a finding that the accident "occurred without serious fault on the part of the operator." Accordingly Gilman's license to operate as a chauffeur, suspended immediately after the accident, has been reinstated and returned to him.

The registrar has revoked both the operator's license and the automobile registration certificate of Ralph S. Gross of 295 Branch street, Lowell. This drastic action was taken because he learned that on June 15 Gross was convicted in the court at Palmer on a charge of operating while under the influence of liquor, and paid a fine of $100.

"CHINA AFTER THE WAR"

Comparison of Transportation Roadways in U. S. and China

PEKING, July 1.—President Hsu Shih-chang, discussing railways in his book recently issued, "China After the War," recites that China has 24 railway lines with a total mileage of about 7000, whereas the United States, with an area about the same as China, and with only one-fourth of the population, has 226,000 miles of railway, or sixty times as much. "Many of our lines," he continues, "were at first built with foreign capital. The diversity of foreign interests, has made it impossible to lay out our lines according to some comprehensive plan for the whole country. Such being the case part of the capital seems to have been invested in unimportant routes while many more important regions are without modern means of communication. Since the first construction of railways in China, 40 years ago, no less than $400,000,000 has been expended; yet trunk lines are found only north of the Yangtze river and east of Honan province, leaving the great plains to the south and west practically untraversed. This not only hinders the proper industrial development of the country, but it also sows the seeds of future international complications. Therefore in the interests of all concerned arrangements should be made so as to preclude undesirable possibilities."

"In ancient China well constructed courier roads used to radiate from the metropolis to the provincial capitals and from these to other cities of the country. There were more than 60,000 miles of roads, but nowadays few of them are fit for travelling."

"The United States alone has more than 2,000,000 miles of highways. Sometime ago the ministry of interior promulgated a set of regulations for construction of highways. The program was an ambitious one. Although it is not easy to carry it out, a good beginning will have been made if the old courier roads are reconstructed so that there will be 10,000 miles of good modern roads radiating from the national capital and another 50,000 miles radiating from the provincial capitals."

The mileage of rivers navigable by Chinese junks is over 20,000, and waterways navigable by steamers and steam launches, another 4000 or 5000.

"As to telegraph lines, we have at present not more than 10,000 miles, whereas in the United States there are 1,630,000 miles. The proportion is therefore as 1 to 40."

"Such then is the industrial backwardness of China. In order to remedy the situation we need to establish a stable government, revise the taxation system, encourage technical skill and get together a larger amount of capital. Above all the people should be taught to have a knowledge of international conditions, social, political and above all economical."

ASK PRES. HARDING TO SPARE THE OWL

WASHINGTON, July 1.—The owl can live. The John Burroughs club jury appointed by President Harding when visiting the White House some time ago to consider the question, says so and the jury so reported today in a memorandum filed by the youngsters with George B. Christian, Jr., the president's secretary. The finding of the jury is based upon the club's investigation and upon hundreds of briefs filed with the American Forestry association for the club from every section of the country.

These briefs took up every phase of owl values as pest destroyers to their fabled influence on the lives of human beings. Some of the writers called upon President Harding to get rid of the owls at once if there are any in the White House grounds and predicted all kinds of bad luck for his administration. The John Burroughs club

however, considered only the economic value of the owls, for the question put to them by "Judge" Harding was in regard to birds that preyed on other birds being allowed to live.

The finding of the jury as filed at the White House today follows:

"In spite of the fact that these birds destroy others of their own ilk, they have to their credit and in defence of their lives the fact that they are of much economic value and have certain other qualities in their favor."

"We shall take for instance, the crow, whose value in lessening the number of harmful insects was so great that for a long time scientists working for the government were unable to say whether his bad acts counterbalanced his good deeds."

"Next we take the great horned owl, whose bad habits are well known, but even he kills rats, mice and other rodents."

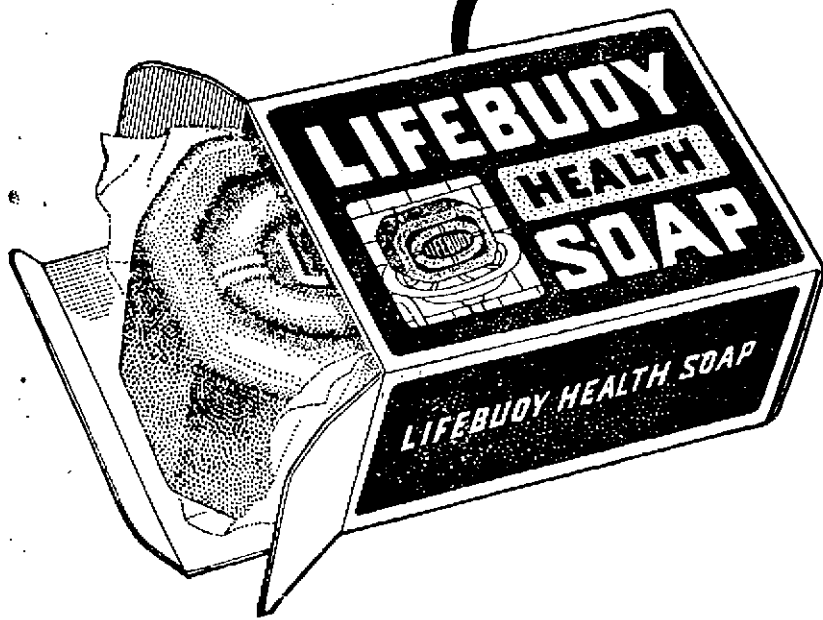

"Finally we come to the coopers and sharp-shinned hawks, who, especially the coopers hawk, have brought wrath and hate upon the heads of even the less destructive birds of prey of the country.

"But then, can we convict a whole class of God's creatures because a few have been known to slaughter their own kind? Can that inexorable law of nature, the survival of the fittest, which has been since the world began broken by us who owe so much to it, even unto our very existence? Do we put a sentence of death on all bears because a few have been known to eat domestic animals? We kill them if we know they are guilty, that is all. If we destroy the feathered murderer we must also pass sentence on the parasitic vine, which encircles and saps the life from the sturdy forest tree!"

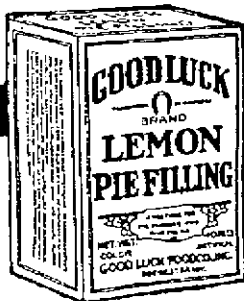

"Nay, it is not for us to do these things; if it were God's will they should perish, it would be unnecessary for us to pit our puny selves against the countless flocks of our nation, therefore we, the John Burroughs club of Force school, wish to state to His Honor, the President of the United States, sitting as a judge in this case, that these birds should not die, but should be allowed to remain alive in their native haunts, with no legislative sentence hanging, a dread menace, over their heads. Signed: Harold V. T. Roach, Edward R. Tindell, Esther J. Rogers, Charles Keene Jr., Hamilton Bradley, Dorothy Shackells, Merrill K. Clementson and James B. Bradley."

PLANS FOR RELIEF OF HOUSING SHORTAGE

CHICAGO, Ill., July 1.—Plans for relief of the housing shortage will be taken up at the annual convention of the National Association of Real Estate boards, convening here July 12. New federal tax legislation to stimulate building will be considered.

President Harding, in a recent conference with Fred E. Taylor, of Portland, Ore., president of the association, said he wished to send a message touching on economic problems. Herbert Hoover, secretary of commerce, who has been studying the housing situation and who will have in his department a bureau to investigate and make public building costs and labor wages, will address the convention. Senator William M. Calder, of New York, chairman of a senate committee which has been conducting hearings in reference to the housing and building situation, has accepted an invitation to lay some specific recommendations for legislation to help relieve the housing shortage before the convention. Charles T. Moffett, of Minneapolis, member of the national tax conference, and other nationally known tax experts are on the program.

Twenty topical conferences on specific subjects will be held the forenoon of July 13 and 14 in place of the usual

Says Pile Remedy Worth $100.00 a Box

"I have had itching piles ever since my earliest recollection. I am 53 years old and have suffered terribly. I have tried many remedies and doctors, but no cure. About 3 weeks ago I saw your ad for Peterson's Ointment. The first application stopped all itching, and in three days all soreness. I have only used one box and consider I am cured. You have my grateful, heartfelt thanks, and may everyone that has this trouble see this and give your ointment. That is worth a hundred dollars or more a box, a trial. Sincerely yours, A. Newth, Columbus, Ohio."

general convention sessions. These conferences are expected to make definite recommendations to the resolutions committee.

Conferences will include the following subjects: appraisals, taxation, rentals, housing, legislation, "Own Your Own Home," city planning, farm interests, state associations, real estate license, apartment and building management, sub-division, publicity and advertising, industrial property, leases, office systems, Torrens system of title registration, multiple listing, and management of sales force.

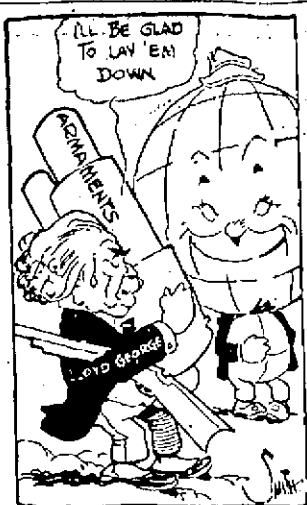

POWDER EXPLOSION KILLS THREE MEN

WILMINGTON, Del., July 1.—Three men were killed in an explosion at the plant of the United States Flashlight Powder Co. at Carrcroft near here last night. The explosion occurred in a blending house when about 500 pounds of powder ignited during the mixing process. The victims were all of Wilmington.

MORE ARRESTS BY LIQUOR SQUAD IN PROSPECT

More arrests by the local liquor raiding squad are said to be in prospect within the coming few days, as the result of evidence secured when officers recently descended on two Summer street places, and on premises at Sullivan's court. At one of the establishments on Summer street, it is stated, drinks were being served merrily, quite in pre-prohibition fashion. Heading flight by occupants heralded the advent of Officers Cooney, Winn, Clark, Kivlan, O'Sullivan and Moore, the members of the vice and liquor squads who participated in the raids. All of these officers have been engaged at the superior court at Cambridge during the past few days, but renewed activity in ferreting out local bootleggers is promised when the liquor cases appeared from the local police court have been disposed by the higher court. Sensational developments, perhaps involving a number of local individuals, may be forthcoming, it is rumored.

SUPERIOR COURT SITTINGS HERE

The following announcement has been made public at the office of the clerk of the Lowell police court, with reference to the sittings of the Middlesex county superior court: "For civil business, at Lowell, on the first Mondays of April and October, and at Cambridge, on the first Mondays of January, February, March, April, May, June, October, November, and December of each year, and at Lowell, on the first Monday of March and on the Tuesday of each year." The notice is based on the Acts of 1921, Chapter 327. These go into effect July 26, of the current year, and are said to place the courts of Middlesex county on the same basis as those of Suffolk county.

VALUABLE HORSE SHOT
Agent Charles Richardson of the Lowell Humane society was forced to shoot a valuable chestnut horse, the property of D. W. Murphy, of Charles street, after the animal had slipped last night about 10:30 o'clock at a watering trough in Mosford square, and fractured its left hind leg. Thomas Dalton, son-in-law of the owner of the horse, was driving it when, after drinking at the trough, the animal slipped on the pavement and fell.

ASKING FOR INFORMATION

MATRIMONIAL MIXUP PUZZLES POLICE

A most complicated question arose in the local police court this morning, when Herve St. Marie and Addie Fisher appeared on charges of improper conduct. According to counsel for the woman, she had been granted a divorce decree nisi, and later went through the marriage form with another man at Nashua, N. H. However, it is understood that she could not legally contract a marriage at the time, as the divorce proceedings had not progressed far enough. Her counsel explained that she did not secure the license for this second marriage, but that the man who went through the form with her did so, specifying that it was her first plunge into the sea of matrimony. This man was with Officers Cooney, Clark and Frawley, when they descended on a Hastings street abode, and, it is stated, arrested the woman in company with a third man.

The case was held over until Wednesday, in order to ascertain exactly what is the matrimonial status of the woman, as the specific charge lodged against her does not hold if she is in fact married at the present time, and a new charge will have to be made. If she was not legally and completely divorced before she went through the marriage ceremony at Nashua with another man, she is not married now, and the present charge stands. But if she was legally single when she contracted a second alliance, it is understood that the second marriage was valid and she is now married, and may be charged with another offence only applicable to married persons. The numerous phases of the matter may be cleared up by Wednesday, when the defendants will again come before the court.

REMOVING TREE LIMBS

The heavy downpour of the past few days has overburdened the limbs and branches of many trees in the city with moisture and has caused them either to fall to the ground or to hang in a dangerous condition. Employees of the park department were engaged today in removing the broken limbs. Among the places where limbs have given way under the weight of moisture on the leaves are the following: 68 Mt. Washington street, 277 Summer street, Middlesex street in Middlesex village, Stevens street, Fairmount street, Mammoth road and Mt. Hope st.

WHAT ABOUT

Meat

It must be confusing to the housewife to determine what she should pay for meats, especially now, because there are so many prices advertised, all of us claiming the finest quality.

The summer months is the time when cattle and lambs are turned out to feed themselves mostly on grass. Grass is not as good feed as corn by a long way, because it does not give the nourishment. So that we now have corn-fed meat and grass-fed meat, the latter being much cheaper in price.

World's Greatest Bridge to Span Hudson

This is how the world's largest bridge will look when completed. It is to connect New York City with New Jersey, running from 57th street, New York, to Weehawken. An office building, 350 by 400 feet, will be built as shown on the New York end. Vehicles will pass through a span 135 feet wide and 80 high. Two side arches for pedestrians and trolley cars will be 45 feet wide. On a lower deck will be 12 railroad tracks. G. Lindenthal is chief engineer and chief architect of the project.

BIG OUTING FOR ORPHANS

Rotary Club Completes Arrangements for Entertainment of Little Guests

The orphans of this city, boys and girls, who will not be out of town Wednesday, July 20, will be given a bang-up time by the members of the Lowell Rotary club, who will entertain them at an outing to be held on the Martha Luther grounds in Tynesboro. Nothing is being spared to make the event a notable one for the little folks and according to present plans they will be given a day of pleasure that they will not soon forget. Every orphanage in town has been visited by members of the committee and except in one or two cases where the children will be out of town on the date of the outing, committee members were assured that the children would be on hand for the big event.

The committee which is composed of Harry Pitts, chairman; William A. Mitchell, Harry G. Pollard, Alvah H. Weaver and Thomas Lees, held a meeting this morning to complete arrangements and according to a statement issued at the close of the meeting, the orphans of Lowell will be treated like princes on July 20. First of all it was stated that arrangements are being made for the accommodation of 628 children and 35 sisters and matrons, who will come from the following homes: St. Peter's orphanage, French-American orphanage, Ayer home and O'Leary home. About 100 automobiles will be needed to transport the excursionists to the outing grounds and members of the club have volunteered the use of their cars for the occasion, for although the affair is in the hands of a special committee, it is said every Rotarian is lending a hand.

Automobiles will go to St. Peter's orphanage, O'Leary home and Ayer home and at 11:30 o'clock all the machines will meet in front of the French-American orphanage in Pawtucket street, where a parade will be formed, headed by a brass band. The cars, with their happy youngsters, will be driven through Pawtucket street to Merrimack, to Central, to Middlesex and to the Princeton boulevard as far as North Chelmsford and then over the Nashua road as far as the outing grounds.

The wives of the Rotarians will also accompany the children and it is understood that each man and woman are to act as father and mother to the little ones they carry in their respective machines. Upon reaching the grounds the little guests will be given lollipops and lunks and in the afternoon they will be entertained at a basket luncheon. In the course of the afternoon punch and Judy shows will be given, magicians will perform and there will also be a number of pleasing juvenile acts. Through the courtesy of the park department arrangements have been made to transport some of the playground paraphernalia such as swings, etc., to the outing grounds for the day and instructors from the city playgrounds will be on hand to help in the entertainment of the little folks. The grounds will also be well lit during the afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Bill have donated enough popcorn for the event to keep the little ones nibbling all day, while 600 Moxie lollipops have also been secured. John McDougall, local representative for the Murray company of Boston, will supply 3000 drinks of the company's famous orangeade, with cups, and in addition there will be 20 cases of Moxie, so it is fair to assume that the children will not go dry. Each child will be supplied with a tag with his or her name on it so that the committee will be able to determine who is who. The homeward trip will be started at 5 o'clock, and the party will return via the Pawtucket boulevard.

IRISH SEND MESSAGES TO HARDING AND LODGE

BOSTON, July 1.—The state director of the Massachusetts council, A. A. R. L. H., yesterday discussed plans for the celebration of the Fourth of July, and John F. Harrigan, state president, sent the following telegram to President Harding and Senator Lodge:

"To Hon. Warren G. Harding.—On the eve of July 4, when we celebrate the greatest event in the world's history, the recognition of and adhesion to the fundamental truth of human liberty, no greater tribute to our forefathers and to the traditions and ideals which have made our country great can be offered to America and to the world than that, by the official recognition by our nation of the Irish republic, we are devoted to the great principles set forth in the Declaration of Independence.

"We urge you to heed this plea for justice to Ireland from American citizens. Thereby you place yourself on a plane with Washington, Jefferson, Webster, Franklin, Patrick Henry, Samuel Adams, Abraham Lincoln and all the other great Americans whose devotion to liberty has assured perpetuation to our great institutions and hope to all struggling and oppressed peoples.

"John F. Harrigan, state president."

"To Hon. Henry Cabot Lodge—Massachusetts Council, American Association for the Recognition of the Irish Republic, representing more than 140,000 citizens of the old Bay State, urges immediate hearing and action on the Senate resolution, No. 25, on Irish attributes and right of Ireland to recognition. No better opportunity than on the eve of July 4 is afforded America to prove her sympathy to our great principles of liberty."

ST. COLUMBA'S WON
The St. Columba's nine defeated the Sharpe's Nobles in a hotly contested game by the score of 7 to 5. The feature of the game was the pitching of Tariff, one of the league's leading twirlers. He had no less than sixteen strikeouts. For Sharpe's, Smith's pitching was the main feature. Saturday afternoon the St. Peter's A.A. will be the opponents of St. Columba's. The game will start at 3 o'clock sharp on the Moody grounds. A hot game is expected.

GRADUATION EXERCISES

Wood's Business College
Graduates Big Class—Exercises in Associate Hall

Six hundred people attended the graduation exercises of Wood's business college which were held last evening in Associate hall. Miss Alice Marie Heslin, vice president of the class, gave the salutatory address in which she took for her subject the class motto: "Aiming to Reach the Goal." There were fifty-four graduates in all.

The principal speaker of the evening was R. McManis, Boston manager of the Gregg Publishing company. The part of his address which contains the kernel of his thought follows: "Keep working conscientiously and with a will for what you want to be and success will surely follow. Progress is made step by step, keep faith. The business man grows as he goes. The graduate still has a world to learn for he now faces the world of human beings. To understand those with whom you come in contact is the greatest thing in life. It is success. The next time you look in a mirror look into your soul and ask, 'Am I the man I should be?' The greatest discovery in the world is the discovery of oneself. Have confidence in yourself and the business man will have confidence in you. If you haven't it, get it. Do not let your studies and with your graduation; the man who studies progresses. You are now going out to make good. Work—and your success is assured."

The class gift, a beautiful picture of the capitol at Washington, was presented to the school by Henry Edward Blackburne, president of the class, and was accepted on behalf of the institution by Principal Elliot F. Wood. Mr. Wood then presented the prizes which consisted of silver loving cups and certificates for proficiency in typewriting. In the day class the first prize went to Miss Madeline A. Paradis, and the second award to Miss Helen J. Meehan. The awards in the evening division were: Miss Ruth J. MacLean, first; Miss Anna M. Lawler, second; and Miss Dora C. Marchand, third. The winners in the typewriting contest were announced as follows: Madeline A. Paradis, 66 words per minute; Mary E. Chittman, 55; Alice M. Boyle, 45; William J. Dore, 43; Cecile M. Desmarais, 42; Margaret M. Murphy, 40; Florence M. Gleason, 36; Alice M. Heslin, 35; Elizabeth R. Wallace, 41; and Helen G. Clifford, 40.

A short speech of congratulation was then given by Mayor Perry D. Thompson, after which His Honor presented the diplomas. The names of the graduates have already been published in these columns.

IMPROVEMENT ASSOCIATION
Plans for the formation of an improvement association for the Centralville district were discussed at a meeting held last evening at the Centralville M. E. church. Invitations to attend the meeting had been sent out by the pastor of the church, Rev. Karl P. Meister, and several residents of the district responded. After considerable discussion it was voted to hold a public meeting at the Greenhalge school next Wednesday night at 7:30 o'clock and the residents of Centralville who are interested in the advancement of their district are invited to be present. Those who spoke at last evening's meeting were Rev. Mr. Meister, Thos. B. Delaney, George H. Taylor and A. L. Hiser.

Slept in Sewer Pipe

an investigation will be made into conditions at his home.
"My father licks me in the morning," said the little chap, whose teachers at the school he attends declare he is one of their brightest pupils. "and he says he'll give me more when I get home. He hung me up by the feet and wouldn't let my mother take me down. My mother had to give me something to eat while he was looking." The little fellow said that he didn't mind his sleeping quarters in one of the conduits used for sewer repairs, preferring this location to his home. But when it grew chilly the other night, he said it "was pretty cold sleeping in that pipe." He had for food hot dogs purchased in lunch carts with pennies given him by kind-hearted people. He told his new-found protectors. He has run away from home several times. "This time father will kill me," he declared, and asked that some one hide him if his parent should come around.
He has been assured that he won't be "killed," and will be well treated by local humane agencies. His father doesn't work, he says, but his mother is employed in a mill. His father "licks her, too," he said, adding "with a strap."

MESSANGER SHOT, SAFE SEIZED

Big Four Train Held Up and Safe Thrown Off Near Covington, Ind.

Messenger Found Shot Through Hip and Leg Under Pile of Packages

Man Found Beating His Way On Train Shot During Search

DANVILLE, Ill., July 1.—Big Four passenger train No. 41 was held up early today near Covington, Ind., the messengers shot and the safe thrown from the train.

The train was robbed by two men who boarded the express car as the train started from Covington at 1:45 this morning. At Veedersburg, the next stop, 12 miles east, Frank Beekman, the express messenger, was found shot through the hip and through the leg with packages of express matter piled upon him. A steel safe weighing about 150 pounds, was missing and had been thrown off about half way between the two stops. The robbers jumped off when the train slowed up in passing through Veedersburg.

Alexander Portner of Indianapolis, who is said to have been beating his way on the train was shot and wounded during the search conducted after the robbery. According to police, Portner was seen running from the train and when he refused to obey a command to halt, one of the officers opened fire. He was held pending investigation.

No Money Obtained

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., July 1.—No money was obtained by the bandits who early this morning held up and robbed Big Four passenger train No. 41 near Covington, Ind., according to officials of the American Railway Express Co. here. The robbers obtained a number of railroad bank drafts and non-negotiable securities, but there was no money in the safe, the officials said. The bank drafts had not been cashed completely.

The officials said the safe was not thrown from the train as first reported, but left in the express car after its contents had been rifled.

American Ship Hits Mine and Sinks

LONDON, July 1.—The American freighter Mohang, from Constantinople for New York, has struck a mine off Bourgas, in the Black sea, and sunk, according to advices received today by Lloyd's. No lives were lost.

The Mohang, 3545 tons gross register, was owned by the U. S. Shipping board and operated by A. H. Bull & Co. She was built at Newark last year. She arrived at Constantinople June 17 with a general cargo from New York.

NAVY WITHOUT FUNDS Beginning of Fiscal Year Finds Senate and House Still Deadlocked on Naval Bill

WASHINGTON, July 1.—The beginning of the new fiscal year today found the senate and house still deadlocked on the annual naval appropriation bill and the navy technically without funds to "carry on." Senate leaders yesterday decided to accept the house reductions in the bill but prospects for an immediate settlement faded when they later experienced a change of heart and decided to bring the whole matter to the floor of the senate today.

With the result of this move in doubt, reports of both houses were prepared to resort to an emergency resolution continuing appropriations of the fiscal year ending last midnight.

MAY ELECT STREET SUPERINTENDENT

One of the important matters which may come up at next Tuesday's meeting of the municipal council is the election of a superintendent of streets to succeed John H. Pershing, who is at present on a 29 days' leave of absence.

Despite reports to the contrary, executive officials at city hall insist that Mr. Pershing's resignation has been received, that they have seen it and that it is now resting in the desk of a city official pending the time that it shall be formally presented to the municipal council. They refrain from coming out openly with details of the resignation because of an agreement entered into when it was received. However, it is candidly admitted that the resignation has been received.

Commissioner Dennis A. Murphy, head of the street department, is expected to be present at Tuesday's meeting and to take part in the proceedings. Mr. Murphy has maintained a wholly uncommunicative attitude on the matter since its inception but is expected to make a statement at next week's meeting. A number of candidates for the position have been mentioned, most prominent among them being Eugene Toomey, at present streetkeeper of the street department, and Henry J. Powers of the city engineer's office.

STATE AID PAYMENTS
The following amounts were paid out today, the first of the month, at the state aid office in city hall: Soldiers' relief, $3,926; state aid, $814; military aid, $297. The total was $5,047.

The first postoffice in America was opened in 1710.

Relieves Maj. Gen. March,
Who Was Given Leave
Effective Until Retirement

First Assignment to Definite
Duty Since Relinquishing
Command of A. E. F.

WASHINGTON, July 1.—General John J. Pershing today became chief of staff of the United States army, relieving Major General Peyton C. March, who was given leave of absence effective until his retirement from active service in November. It was the first assignment to definite duty given the general since he relinquished command of the American Expeditionary Forces in France. Major General James H. Harbord, who was his principal staff assistant in France, is his assistant in the new office.

Under plans approved by Secretary Weeks, General Pershing will be relieved by his assistant of all routine duties and will be free to direct the larger operations, particularly those of the national guard and militia reserve forces, and be prepared personally to assume command of field forces in case of emergency.

HELD LADIES' AND CHILDREN'S DAY

After two postponements because of inclement weather, the ladies' and children's day of the Vesper Country club was held at the club grounds in Fyngsbury today and despite the almost unrelenting drizzle which fell, there was a fair-sized crowd on hand to enjoy the various attractions arranged by the committee in charge.

Coffee was served in generous quantities to shelter the various attractions on the grounds so that they could be enjoyed just as though it were a fair day. There were all sorts of amusements for the children this afternoon. This evening there will be a dinner for the adults and later general dancing will be enjoyed.

Clothesline Thieves Active

valued at $2. The case was put over to July 7.

According to the story of Officer John Murphy, who made the arrest in the small hours of this morning, he saw the man park his bicycle at the curb near North and Rogers streets, and go behind a garage a yard. A clothesline reel was then seen spinning around by the officer. Murphy accosted the man as he came out again to the sidewalk, asking him what he had under his vest. The reply was: "Nothing. I'm just going home." Officer Murphy says that he then pulled open the stranger's vest and found a pink silk garment secreted there, with four clotheslines attached to it. He took the man into custody, but he was hailed out again.

The narration of the defendant varies considerably from this interpretation. He says that while he was riding homeward from his evening's work, the garment blew against the wheels of his bicycle. He stopped to examine it, and when the officer appeared he became confused and shoved it under his coat. Officer Arthur Kelley is also credited in connection with the arrest.

During the past two months complaints have been coming in at headquarters relative to losses of expensive clothing from clotheslines. The officers on the night routes have been warned to keep a careful lookout for sneak thieves, and Officer Murphy states that his suspicions were immediately aroused when he saw a bicycle parked by the sidewalk at 2:15 a. m. He saw the vehicle was directly under a street light.

A woman on Huntington street reported a few days ago that two pairs of silk stockings had been taken from her yard, while another instance was reported at The Sun office about two weeks ago, when several expensive silk shirts were taken from a line in the Belvidere district. Some time ago the story of widespread clothesline depredations was discredited at police headquarters, but it is known, nevertheless, that several have occurred.

May Hold Meeting in Hospital

asked to supply the money or who will be asked to supply it in the case of the sewer loan. The bankers balk because the finance laws of 1913 say that every loan must be authorized by a two-thirds vote of the entire city council. In Lowell this would mean a fraction over three votes or four.

Commissioners Murphy and Salmon have not attended any meetings of the city council for several weeks and inasmuch as the money under both loans will be needed at once, the other members of the council were wondering just what steps could be taken to get four votes.

Mayor Thompson then looked at the charter and said he could find nothing to prevent the council from holding a special meeting, anywhere it pleased. A regular meeting, however, must be held in city hall.

It is probable that Commissioner Murphy will attend next Tuesday's council meeting and if so the difficulty will be solved, but if neither he nor Mr. Salmon are able to come to city hall in the near future, the council may meet either at the hospital or in Mr. Murphy's home.

STORM NETS MORE THAN THREE INCHES OF RAIN

The officials of the Locks and Canals announced this morning that the rainstorm which started Tuesday evening and which has continued intermittently until today has resulted in the second largest fall of rain in years.

The actual figures compiled at the office of the company show that 3.018 inches of moisture has fallen upon the parched earth since Old Jude Pluvius first got busy with his watering can four days ago. Folks who were hollerin' for rain a week ago are now beginning to wish for a letup. Meanwhile, the farmers are joyously welcoming the downpour for it brings much needed relief to the crops, which had suffered grievously for weeks under the torrid glare of the withering sun.

At the Pawtucket dam the water stands five and a half feet above the stone part of the structure, which is quite some record, although nothing approaching a freshet proportions. Temporary flashboards have been put into place which will hold the water in check.

PAUL KITTREDGE COUNCIL

A committee from Paul Kittredge council, A. A. O. U. E. R., met at the home of Mrs. John O'Neill in Concord street last night to make arrangements for an automobile trip to the beach in the near future. After the business part of the meeting, refreshments were served and a general good time followed. This council is very busy and will play a prominent part in the field day which will take place under the auspices of the local council of the association in September. Mrs. Craven was elected chairman and Miss Clark secretary of the committee at last night's meeting.

LEATHER SEATS LOST

Richard S. Phillips of Pine street, reported last night at police headquarters that two black leather seats had been taken out of the rear of his Studebaker six machine near John street, between 10 and 11:30 o'clock. The thief, who the car was very quiet, and the seats were found and returned to their owner. They had apparently been abandoned by the culprits.

HARRY KOPP DEFAULTED

Harry A. Kopp, charged with unlawfully conveying an automobile, failed to put in an appearance in the police court this morning when his case was called, and was defaulted by order of Judge Thomas J. Enright. A capias warrant was issued for his arrest.

or Vanzetti were peaceful and law-abiding.

Yesterday the defense introduced character witnesses for both men. The chief of police of Plymouth and a patrolman there testified that Vanzetti was regarded as peaceful and law-abiding, and two former employers of Sacco testified similarly for him.

The district attorney objected to the character witnesses, whispering to Judge Thayer his grounds for objecting, and long conferences of counsel and court followed. The result came today when all this character testimony was ordered stricken out.

Giuseppe Androsio, a former employee of the Italian consulate at Boston, in a deposition received from Italy filed on the part of the defense today, declared that Nicola Sacco appeared at the consulate between 2 and 2:15 p. m., April 15, 1920, the day of the double murder at South Braintree for which Sacco and Bartolomeo Vanzetti are on trial. The murder was committed about 2 p. m.

Murder Defense Broke

BEDFORD, July 1.—Announcement that the organization defending Nicola Sacco and Bartolomeo Vanzetti, on trial for a double murder at South Braintree last year, was flat broke has brought in two days' advances of nearly three thousand dollars from Mrs. Elizabeth Glendower Evans, a wealthy resident of Brookline, who has been active in labor and social welfare circles.

Fred H. Moore, chief counsel for the defendants, made known last night that Wednesday, with only one dollar left for expenses, Mrs. Evans gave him two checks totalling $1500. Yesterday she provided an additional $1500. Mrs. Corise Carmen Jack of Walpole added her check for another $1500.

The reason for the heavy drain on funds, Mr. Moore explained, was the fact that the defense was summoning its own witnesses and paying their expenses and regular fees without recourse to the court agencies available provided the defense would give the clerk of the court the names and addresses of the persons wanted.

Judge Thayer made known that the court stood ready to aid the defense financially if it would declare itself destitute. In that event, he said, he would approve a reasonable bill for witness fees and expenses, including a moderate amount to cover expert testimony. The law says that no blank summonses shall be issued by the court, he said.

the city from liability in case of accident or injury, had refused to accept the bond because it was not signed properly by certain officers of the company. Accordingly, the National company canceled its contracts for municipal displays all over Massachusetts and Lowell was one of the cities affected.

Mr. Gallagher immediately went to Boston and got in touch with the American Fireworks Distributing Co. and this firm agreed to furnish a display here Monday night, but it insisted that a contract between a representative of the city government and it, self be drawn up rather than between Mr. Gallagher and the company. The National Co. had always been willing to do business with the city indirectly through Mr. Gallagher as an agent, but the other concern wanted to do business directly.

Mayor Thompson was notified and this morning he called the city council in special session to authorize him to enter into a contract with the American Co. at the cost of the display to be $1000. Accordingly, the fireworks exhibition will be given as per schedule Monday evening and a most elaborate program is planned. Mr. Gallagher has directed the company not to overdo the noise-making pieces but rather to give more of the colorful set pieces which make an exceptionally pretty and attractive display.

Suspend Senate Probe of R. R. Situation

WASHINGTON, July 1.—Senate investigation of the railroad situation was suspended today by Chairman Cummins of the Interstate Commerce committee until the middle or latter part of August. This was taken to mean that there would be no railroad relief legislation at the present extra session of congress. Chairman Cummins said suspension of the inquiry was deemed advisable in view of the inclination of the senate to take a summer recess. The investigation to date has developed the views of the railroad executives and security owners, though the latter have not completed the presentation of their case. Representatives of labor and shippers are yet to be heard from. The original plan contemplated a committee report and possibly the proposal of legislation for consideration at the present session of congress.

To Decide Action to Take On Wage Cut

CHICAGO, July 1.—Final decision whether the railway employees of the country shall accept or reject the wage decrease which went into effect today will be referred to a committee of five representing the 16 railroad unions. Executives of the unions reached this decision today and instructed the committee to receive reports from the various group meetings now in Chicago and formulate general recommendations to the union membership.

Demand Retraction By V. Pres. Coolidge

BISMARCK, N. D., July 1.—The state board of administration has wired Vice President Coolidge demanding retraction of statements in an article "Enemies of the Republic" published under the vice president's name in the June issue of the Delinquent. The message declared the vice president had made an untruthful and unwarranted attack upon the board of administration of North Dakota and offered to furnish testimony taken under oath to contravene statements made in the article.

She has completed a university course in civics, and at present is taking a special course in advanced civics, under the personal supervision of Mrs. Truworthy White, of Boston, civic director for the Massachusetts League of Women Voters. This course is especially designed for women dealing with the problems of woman and child welfare. It is also concerned with welfare measures and bills now before the legislature.

YOUNGSTERS FACE SERIOUS CHARGE

Two fourteen-year-old youngsters were arrested last night at the Wigginsville railroad station by Officers Clyde Aldrich and Nelson, charged with tampering with railroad signals, which it is understood is a state's prison offense. This morning the pair were heard in the juvenile session of the police court, and their cases continued to July 8, when their parents, realizing the serious nature of the charges, asked for time to secure counsel. Officer Aldrich stated that he, accompanied by Officer Nelson, visited the station last evening disguised in plain clothes, as a result of complaints that hoodlums were causing damage and disturbance there. The officers watched while there was an effort made to fool with the signals, they declared, and one of the young defendants is said to have been at the top of a ninety-foot pole tinkering with the mechanism when arrests were made. According to Officer Aldrich, the two defendants adopted a defiant and carefree attitude when taken into custody, but it is understood that this nonchalant behavior underwent a sudden change when it was appreciated that the gravity of the offense warranted a term at the state's prison. It is also stated that the defendants, with others, are held responsible for committing nuisances at the station and otherwise making themselves objectionable.

TAFT CONFIRMED
CHIEF JUSTICE

Senate Approves Pres. Harding's Nomination to U. S. Supreme Court

Four Members Opposed Nomination — Taft Declares Life's Ambition Realized

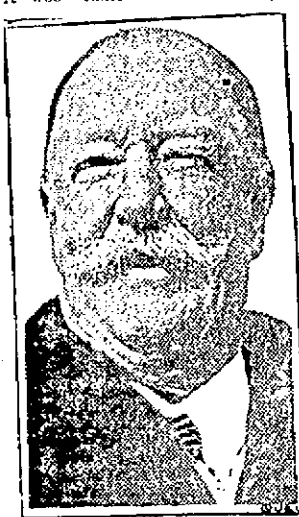

WASHINGTON, July 1.—Former President William Howard Taft was nominated late yesterday by President Harding to be chief justice of the United States and his nomination was confirmed by the senate in executive session.

The nomination was not confirmed without opposition, however, and a roll call was demanded. The opposition was understood to have been voiced by Senators Borah, Idaho; Johnson, California; and La Follette, Wisconsin, all republicans, who were said to have criticized Mr. Taft's record and his nomination.

On the roll call, however, only four votes were cast against confirmation. These were by Senators Borah, Johnson and La Follette, and Senator Watson, democrat, Georgia.

The final vote was 60 to four. An agreement was reached not to make public the roll call.

It was indicated that President

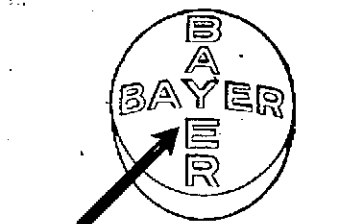

WILLIAM H. TAFT

Harding had acted so far in advance of the winter term of the court because he felt that the new chief justice should have ample time to reorganize the court's business before the reconvening, Oct. 1.

Mr. Harding is understood to have been advised by legal officers of the administration that the federal courts were so congested that prompt action during summer recess was necessary in order to expedite litigation as much as possible.

Mr. Taft has not been apprised of his appointment by the president, it was stated at the White House, and the first news he is expected to have of it, it was stated, will come from the press. The former president is now in Montreal aiding in a railway arbitration for the Canadian government and is expected to return to the United States soon to familiarize himself with the work of the court.

High administration officials emphasized the former president was the one outstanding figure among those who might have been considered for the place.

Two Signal Honors

Mr. Taft is the first man in the nation's history to be chosen for the highest office in both the executive and judicial branches of the government. For more than 30 years prior to his retirement from the presidency in 1913 he had been almost constantly in public service.

Through all of his career a hope

"CAPITALISTIC PLOT" TO CONTROL SUGAR

HAVANA, July 1.—The newspaper La Discusion has published a charge that a "capitalistic plot" to dominate the Cuban sugar industry has been formed and that all the Cuban sugar centrals will be owned by foreigners. The newspaper asserts that "when the Cuban sugar business is found in foreign hands, it is almost certain that the price of sugar will rise as it by magic and that the business will be on an even more stupendous scale than now."

"When American capitalists began an invasion to secure control of Cuban centrals," the paper continued, "they foresaw an era of prosperity and bought, without sparing, their millions as many sugar properties as were for sale. The price of the product rose to 23 cents, then it was seen that a good part of the crop remained in Cuban hands and that the Cubans aspired to obtain the highest possible price. Then the price fell like an avalanche from 23 to 3 cents."

"First, a bank crisis, then a currency crisis. There was no money to pay for refining, nobody to buy this year's crop from the Cubans."

"Our sugar men now find themselves owing large sums of money to the banks. They have not been able to sell their crops. With the termination of the moratorium will disappear the restriction against sending commercial obligations. The sugar men will have to pay for a bankrupt. The banks are not interested in holding sugar centrals."

"On the other hand, there exists much idle foreign capital which is anxious to make a killing. Right now a powerful company is being formed to acquire every central and plantation where owner cannot pay. The properties secured, the debt will be paid. So what is worth from five to ten is required for one. A case of opportunity."

DISCARDED DIRIGIBLES ARE GOING BEGGING

LONDON, July 1.—Dirigible balloons appear to be in little demand here. A number of them that cost the British government a mint of money to build are now practically going begging.

The air ministry announced some time ago that it was prepared to give up balloons if they were not taken over by private persons for commercial purposes. It now states that it has been decided that unless an offer that amounts to something is received before August 1, all its airship activities will be discontinued.

The airships, stations and material will then be handed over to the disposal board to get rid of, as the air ministry. It is stated in the official report, "Does not feel justified in continuing expenditure on this service."

The air ministry offers to sell its R-50, R-42, R-38, R-37 and the former German airships L-71 and L-64.

GOLD RUSH STARTING IN NORTHERN CANADA

THE PAS, MAN., July 1.—Gold fever has temporarily displaced excitement here incident to the rush to the oil fields, and prospectors are leaving daily for the scene of the reported rich mineral strike.

Reports of ore bodies rich in gold content having been uncovered come from several sections, but the richest is reported at Elbow Lake in the Athapuskow Lake mineral area and east of the famous Gordon Dyke, discovered last summer. Elbow Lake is about 200 miles northeast of The Pas.

Mining men who have visited the spot have returned here with an account of a vein sixty feet wide, wherein free gold is freely seen. Until it is stripped, they declare, however, it is possible only to approximate the value and tonnage.

Other prospectors who visited the region following the report of the strike declare that a mineral body 40 feet wide and traced for 350 feet in length has been uncovered, throughout which free gold is heavily deposited. One prospector had two pounds of ore, of which the gold content was estimated at not less than 2 per cent. These samples are considered the richest ever brought here.

Another strike, the exact location of which is vague, also has thrown peace river into the throes of gold fever. The cause of the excitement was the recent arrival of a party who investigated a claim which furnished an old Indian trapper, about 70 miles northeast of here, with a number of small nuggets.

EDMONTON, Alta., July 1.—A geological party has left Edmonton for the northwest territories to make a thorough examination of the structural formations of the north in the interest of a big syndicate representing British, Canadian, American and European capital.

The services of a topographer, surveyor and the necessary assistants to carry out a schedule of research work which has been mapped out have been secured, but no details are available regarding the destination of the party.

Dr. J. J. O'Neill, well known geologist, who recently returned to Canada from Burma, accompanied the party.

MERRIMACK PARK

"One Grand and Glorious Fourth Planned at Merrimack Park on the Banks of the Merrimack"

Merrimack park, the new amusement resort located on the boulevard just half way between Lowell and Lawrence, announces one grand and glorious Fourth of July celebration with something doing every minute from midnight July 3, until 11:30 p. m. the night of the Fourth. The Fourth will be ushered in with a monster bonfire at the park which will be set off at midnight of the 3d. A band will provide music for the occasion and numerous novelties will be introduced which will prove new and entertaining. Quite a program has been arranged by the park management for the Fourth. There will be boat races for both motor and canoes and there will also be jumping, running and the old-fashioned sack races during the day and at night a grand display of fireworks, said to be far greater than any display of pyrotechnics that has been seen in this section in many a day will be the big feature. Prof. John Broderick's famous 10-piece orchestra will furnish a program of snappy dance music with just enough of the jazz element in it to make dancing a pleasure. The street car company has promised ample transportation and you can buy a special round-trip ticket for 25 cents which will carry you to the gates of Merrimack park and are now on sale at Green's drug store, the Crown Confectionery and at the Bay State shoe shining parlor.

20,000 Ex-Service Men Cannot Vote

MOBILE, Ala., July 1.—Approximately 20,000 ex-service men in Alabama, it was estimated today, are disqualified from voting and rendered ineligible to hold positions under state, county and municipal governments by a decision of the supreme court at Montgomery. The court held yesterday that the voters of Alabama never legally ratified the constitutional amendment exempting soldiers and sailors of the World war from payment of poll taxes if they served four months or more.

Taft Confirmed Chief Justice

that he might some day become chief justice is said by Mr. Taft's friends to have been the aspiration nearest his heart. It is said that he always has felt himself better fitted by temperament to serve in the judiciary than in the executive branch of the government and that when in 1910, fortune brought him the opportunity to appoint a chief justice he would gladly have changed places with the man he selected and now succeeds.

It also is told of Mr. Taft that he hesitated several times at what he considered the parting of pathways that lead in the opposite directions of the presidency and the chief justiceship. When he was secretary of war under Roosevelt he is said to have been offered a choice between remaining in the cabinet and taking a vacancy on the court, an alternative that caused him many hours of anxious consideration. President Roosevelt is understood to have counseled against acceptance of the justiceship, feeling that his secretary of war would become a logical successor to the presidency.

As president, it became Mr. Taft's duty not only to choose a chief justice, but to make two other appointments to the highest court. Of the men he selected, only two, Justices Vandewater and Pitney, remain to serve with him on the bench.

Although he came to the presidency as a citizen of Ohio, he now is selected chief justice as a citizen of Connecticut. Soon after he left the White House he made New Haven his legal residence, accepting a position he still holds as professor of law at Yale university from which he was graduated in 1878. He prepared for the practice of law at the Cincinnati law school, where he was graduated two years later.

All of his earlier traditions pointed to a legal career. His grandfather, Peter Taft, left the bench to serve as attorney general in the cabinet of President Grant. At the age of 23, the future president became assistant prosecuting attorney at Hamilton, O., and after that for 32 years he was given a succession of public offices which left him little time for the practice of his profession.

Among the prominent cases in which Mr. Taft will not participate follows: Coronado Coal case in which the United Mine Workers of America are appealing from a verdict holding that organization liable under the Sherman laws, for $500,000 damages resulting from a strike. The legal issue involved—whether a national labor organization can be held liable for damages caused by the activities of an affiliated local—has been declared by labor leaders to be the most important in the history of organized labor.

American hardwood case, involving the right of some 400 lumber dealers to continue co-operative selling methods, with exchange of production and sales data.

The Wisconsin rate case which with other suits now pending in the lower courts, will determine the authority of the interstate commerce commission to supervise state rates over common carriers.

Life's Ambition Realized

MONTREAL, July 1.—"It has been the ambition of my life to be chief justice," William H. Taft declared last night, "but now that it is gratified I tremble to think whether I can worthily fill the position and be useful to the country."

"I have received telegrams announcing that the president has nominated me to be chief justice of the United States and that the senate has, at once, confirmed the nomination," said Mr. Taft in a signed statement, commenting on his appointment as chief justice. "I am profoundly grateful to the president for the confidence he has thus shown that I can discharge the important duties of the exalted office. I sincerely hope and pray that I may be able to show that this confidence has not been misplaced. I highly appreciate the immediate confirmation by the senate."

"The argument in the Grand Trunk arbitration in which I am one of the arbitrators, will be concluded Wednesday, July 6th, and I expect to be in Washington on July 11th to take the official oath, to confer with the attorney general and to pay my respects and thanks in person to the president."

The supreme court adjourned on June 30th until Oct. 3rd, so that I shall have no court duties until October. After my visit to Washington when I plan to look about for temporary quarters for next year, I expect to visit New Haven to make arrangements for closing up my connection with Yale university. Then I shall return to Canada at Murray Bay, Que., to study the record of the Grand Trunk arbitration proceedings with a view to joining in an award in August.

"I shall have in the near future to resign my professorship of federal constitutional law at Yale; the presidency of the League to Enforce Peace and my position as occasional editor on the staff of the Public Ledger of Philadelphia."

REPUBLICAN BUNGLING

The republican party in congress has reached the point of introducing the general tariff bill to take precedence over the emergency tariff law passed recently and now in force.

Until that shall have been adopted, and there will doubtless be a great deal of wrangling over it, the business of the country will have to suffer from further suspense and uncertainty.

The republican party returned to power with such a sweeping majority, is proving a great disappointment to the people. It will be admitted, of course, that it was confronted with great problems from the beginning; but it seems that if a strong hand were at the helm, much more progress might have been made.

Profuse and glowing were the promises made in the national campaign, but they have not been followed by corresponding performance. Much time has been given by congress to delving into war contracts which are dead issues, while industries struggling for existence have been allowed to suffer from intolerable freight rates, lack of foreign demand and the suspense arising from allowing so many vital issues to remain unsettled.

We are to have a "technical" declaration of peace on July 4; but whether that will improve conditions is problematical. It is not a novel suggestion upon the issues involved, such as a treaty would provide and may be a disappointment so far as it may be regarded as restoring peaceful relations between this nation and Germany and Austria.

The "Association of Nations" to preserve peace, which the president promised during his campaign, exists only as a dream, and may never come to a reality. On the contrary, President Harding has fallen in line with the disarmament movement headed by Senator Borah, despite the fact that Secretary Weeks declares that while rival nations are preparing for war, we should not reduce our armaments.

In addition to other drawbacks, our merchant marine seems in a fair way to be scrapped, although it is greatly needed as a medium of conducting our commerce with foreign nations. But perhaps the one thing that presses most heavily upon the industries and the people of this country is the unjust and burdensome system of taxation which has been well termed "a tax upon production." Until it is revised so as to remove some of its worst features, the industries of the nation must continue to languish, although they may show more vigor than at present. Even republican newspapers are criticizing the republican administration and expressing disappointment with the leadership of the president. The situation is not at all creditable to the republican party which was wont to boast of its alleged business capacity and to criticize the democrats as impractical theorists.

Here are the things that are most urgently demanded by the interests of the nation at large:

Settlement of the tariff issue.
Revision of the taxation system.
Reduction in freight rates.
Extension of our export trade.
Resumption of diplomatic relations with Germany and Mexico.

It will probably be well on in September before the tariff issue will have been settled; and then, congress will probably spend several months on the question of taxation. While these issues are being threshed out, foreign nations will have stolen our trade in the export market, so that when we get back to normal production, we shall still lack the demand for our products.

The situation presents many difficulties, but the republicans do not seem to be dealing with them with the intelligence, foresight and promptitude that the occasion demands.

WORLD'S GREATEST BRIDGES

Almost every day brings to light new triumphs of engineering skill, new achievements demonstrating the steady advance of human ingenuity as applied in solving the great problems of overcoming some of nature's barriers and putting up a new black mark for movement or to challenge his power.

Bridging great rivers and branches of the ocean, or tunneling beneath their surface, has brought out the most wonderful feats of engineering known to the world and in such achievements the progress made is simply astounding.

Another great enterprise of this kind is planned in the new bridge to be built across the Hudson river at New York, which in size, in height, in length of span and in boldness of conception will be more than twice as great as any other bridge in the world.

Before dealing with its proportions let us refer briefly to another great bridge in progress of construction at Philadelphia—a joint enterprise of the states of New Jersey and Pennsylvania and the city of Philadelphia. This new bridge, the Philadelphia-Camden, is to be the longest in the world and to be opened July 4, 1926. Up to the present time, the bridge across the Pirth of Forth in Scotland has held the record for having the longest span—1,710 feet—but the new structure at Philadelphia will have a span of 1,760 feet. The cables will be strung from towers 350 feet high, which will give the roadway a clearance above water of 125 feet. The bridge roadway will be 125 feet wide and will have six vehicular lanes in a single roadway, four trolley tracks and two upper deck footways. The cost is estimated at $24,521,000.

But a bridge of these proportions is a small affair compared to the stupendous bridge planned to span the Hudson. Its central span will be 3,240 feet in length. On this span three of the biggest ships afloat, the Olympic, the Leviathan and the Aquitania, could rest end to end and have 400 feet to spare.

This span will be suspended from chain cables let down from towers 850 feet high and the bridge will extend from Battery place to Grand street on the opposite side, a length of 1,460 feet. The anchorage on either side calls for vast piers with a resisting force of 25,000 tons, which will be sufficient to meet the greatest strain likely to be exerted at those points.

and the anchorage towers will be 500 feet high.

The roadway will be 220 ft. in width. The upper deck will have a broad automobile and motor truck roadway 155 feet wide, together with two trolley line tracks and two 17 foot walks for passengers. On the lower deck will be ten trunk railroad tracks.

This bridge, it is calculated, will serve the purpose of 20 separate tunnels and be capable of bearing the strain of the heaviest continental freight and passenger trains. It will be one of the wonders of the world made necessary to accommodate the traffic of the greatest city in the world. The cost will be but $110,000,000. To provide equal facilities for traffic of all kinds by tunnel would cost three times as much and then there would be the greater risk of accidents and the unpleasant dread that seems to beset most people while passing through in undersea tunnel.

The engineer who planned this wonderful structure is Gustav Lindenthal, who came here a poor boy and started work as a plasterer. Could there be any greater example of the opportunities within reach of young men of talent in this country?

TEACH WOMEN TO SWIM

In a measure the city of Lowell is responsible for the death of every native citizen drowned within her borders because of inability to swim. It is the duty of every city to teach its school children to swim so that they will leave school with that protection at least against drowning accidents.

It is only when some serious drowning accident shocks the community that people realize the remissness of the city in having failed to provide opportunities for all the people, young and old, to learn to swim.

The time has come when ability to swim should be made a condition of graduation at the grammar schools. Much time is spent on physical exercise, sometimes with doubtful results; but if the proper convenience were provided, all the children should be taught to swim before finishing the grammar school course.

We do not know that any such rule is enforced in any other city; but the lack of precedents does not lessen the importance of the proposition nor in the slightest degree argue against its necessity, its expediency and its benefits in case of accident in which the ability to swim may offer the only escape from drowning. Every well equipped city should provide such instruction for its children. Boys are quick to learn to swim. They only need a hint at the rules and they grasp the opportunity. There is no doubt that girls would show almost equal facility if placed in charge of women instructors in a pool or tank suitable for the purpose.

The public bathhouse on the river bank offers ample opportunities for boys and men to learn to swim; but not for girls and women. It remains for Supt. Kernan of the park department to make arrangements to provide facilities for teaching girls to swim. All that is needed is to fix the hours when the women will have the exclusive use of the bathhouse under female instructors. The male life guards, of course, would be required to guard against anybody getting out too far in the river. We venture to say, that such an experiment would prove very popular and would bring a very large crowd of girls and women to the bathhouse.

THE FIGHT

The odds are on Dempsey and will so remain until the men enter the ring. Dempsey is the heavier man. Carpenter is the quicker and more active. So far as personality goes, the American public is already well disposed toward Carpenter; and if he should win the fight, he would be heartily applauded on his victory by nine-tenths of the American people, minus those who laid bets on Dempsey.

It is wonderful what keen interest can be worked up for an event of this kind and how much money will be paid for seats in the arena in addition to what will change hands on bets. In addition to his ability to give telling blows, Carpenter is a master in ability to dodge the attacks of his adversary. Carpenter, although twenty pounds lighter than Dempsey, is a hard hitter and has marvelous agility. Dempsey must force the fighting and Carpenter, unless stunned by blows, will be able to jump all around him.

Some fight fans declare that the best of the world champions were of the dark type and they say that this forebodes defeat for Carpenter, who is a blonde. There is nothing in that assumption, however, as there have been many notable exceptions. Joe Choynski was a blonde and Bob Fitzsimmons was red-headed. Yet both were champions in their day.

In tomorrow's contest, if Dempsey fails to knock out Carpenter, his title to the championship will be put under a cloud, whereas if Carpenter holds out for the twelve rounds he will be hailed as a winner and will be a world celebrity.

So far as The Sun is concerned, we may say the best man win.

There is a prospect that the motor-ists who drive their own cars to the fight will have difficulty in finding parking space. It is estimated that the number of autos that will be driven to the fight from all directions will cover a large portion of the state of New Jersey.

Big Bill Haywood is coming back to the United States from Moscow. Evidently he would rather be in prison here than in full enjoyment of the Bolshevik-soviet-proletariat brand of freedom as it now prevails in Russia.

What an earth will our poor mortals do for miles of real live interest when the big fight and the Stillman divorce shall have been registered with past events?

Let us hope there will not be such difficulty in settling who won the Dempsey-Carpenter fight as who won the World War.

The United States mint is coining silver dollars for the first time in seven years. Silver dollars are heavy in the pocket, but cleaner than paper money. Some paper money is so dirty few persons would pocket it if it were anything but money. Contrast

When you are far away no golden streams
Of sunlight waters flow—no happy dreams
Take my sad heart for their own resting place
And all in vain I look for your dear face.
I listen vainly for your gentle voice,
Whose music made me glad and glad to rejoice.
But like a weighted year seems each dull day—
Each night and noon, when you are far away.

When you are near, Joy folds her eager wings
To rest awhile, and all the glad world sings
A happy song that charms away all care
And sunlight shines and birds fly through the air,
And slow across the sea of sapphire sky
Like tiny ships, the cloudlets wander by.
And all is fair and bright, and life is dear,
And heaven's very close—when you are near.

White Man's Burden

When Captain John Smith effected his permanent settlement at Jamestown, and the Pilgrim Fathers reached their precarious foothold on Plymouth Rock, says Dr. William E. Barton in an article written for the N.E.A. of which The Sun is the only local representative, this continent belonged to the Red Man and the buffalo. At that same time, Africa, to quote the picturesque language of Artemus Ward, was famous for its roses and the red rose, the white rose and the negroes. Asia was at that time dominated by the yellow races and the brown. Europe was the only white spot on the map of the world. Now the white people of the earth are about one-third of the whole population, but they control about nine-tenths of the habitable globe. There are supposed to be about 63,000,000 square miles of habitable territory on this planet; at the present moment the white race control or dominate more than 46,000,000 square miles. Is this a permanent or a transitional phase of racial life? There is reason to believe that this may not be the permanent status of the earth's political condition. If so, the white races have a grave responsibility in deciding to whom they are to delegate some part of the responsibilities which now, either temporarily or permanently, they hold. Something of this kindling had in mind when he wrote "The White Man's Burden." That burden is to act as steward of the future good order of the globe. It is not simply the problem of military supremacy; that is but a part of it. It is economic and an educational and an ethical problem.

"Take up the White Man's Burden," the cruel wars of peace, Fill full the measure of famine, and bid the weak kneel to the strong.
And when your goal is nearest, the goal for others sought, Watch, death and heathen folly bring all your goals to naught."

I venture to remind the nations of Europe and the United States that a careful study of the world map will suggest that the white races would do well to stop killing each other. There are not too many white men in proportion to the job they have ahead of them.

MAN ABOUT TOWN

The proposition to build a new and modern school in place of the Edson and Colburn schools, suggested by School Committeeman James E. Markham, has a great deal of merit to it if the finances of the city will warrant it. Mr. Markham, like his brother, Rev. Dr. Markham, and many other prominent Lowell men and women, are graduates of the old Edson school and anyone who has been there will agree that Mr. Markham is quite right when he says a new building is needed in that locality. The Edson is one of the few schools in the city without a hall and it is indeed time to remedy matters. It is unfortunate that one of the high school buildings is not located on the Edson lot. I think it would be a fine idea for Mr. Markham (I mention Mr. Markham because he is an alumnus) to suggest that some school in this district be named after the late principal, Calvin W. Burbank, whose life work was bound up with the Edson school. Those of us who were under the spell of Mr. Burbank will agree that he was a schoolmaster of the old type, an expert instructor in mathematics and a strict disciplinarian, but one who got results. Some school in the district ought to be named for him in testimony of his many years of service to the school department and the people of Lowell.

Here's a way you may save your skin a bit of coin, if you have a dog. Get him licensed. Cattle, a few local residents come before the police court from time to time for failure to secure the proper permit to keep a dog. It means a fine, and then you have to get the license anyhow. If said canine happens to bite anyone while frolicking about sans his permit to exist within the city limits, it may mean additional complications for you. Besides, if Fido hasn't a license, it may not only cost you money; it may cost you Fido himself. There's a "gas box" at the police garage, where in many a cat, dog and other domestic animal is put away for the last, long sleep. An unlicensed dog stands an excellent chance to be one of the dear departed.

A column in a contemporary newspaper bewails the dreary cheapness of the movies. Welcome to our ranks, fellow mourner! For many moons, weeping here, we have presented digests of our experiences with the shifting pictures. Occasionally, seized with new hope, new illusions, we have entered some local screen exhibit-palace. What vain expectations have ours almost invariably been! On one occasion we were regaled by the act of "picking up" a girl performed by one of the sub-heroines of a film. First there were sly glances and smiles, then half-collared. Finally, after a lapse of possibly three minutes, the acquaintance was consummated. An inspiring thing, my brethren! And then the eternal round of infidelity, to sweethearts, wives, husbands. Are all men weak beasts, all women mad seekers for new, shoddy thrills? In the movies they seem to be either this, or else demigods, beyond all human temptations, allying glowing creatures to make the audience gasp with admiration—or rage, if I happen to be the person in question.

There is a certain young lady in one of the offices at city hall who has been doing a lot of wondering lately. It seems that she was invited the other day to preside at one of the stands to be erected on the South common in connection with the big carnival being staged under the auspices of the American Legion. The invitation came by telephone and was extended in a sweet, feminine voice that was nothing if not sincere. At least, it seemed to ring true. It was supposed to have come from the office of the committee in charge of the carnival. The young lady in question had been sought out because she is employed by a department that is closely connected with the legion—in the carnival arrangements and it was thought only fitting that this department be formally represented. However, the young lady didn't take to the idea very enthusiastically and said that she didn't believe she could fulfill the duties. Regrettably the voice on the other end of the line asked if there was any other young woman in city hall who might be suggested for the job. The city hall young lady couldn't think of anyone off-hand who would be suitable. It was then suggested that if she did think of anyone to call up a certain number, presumably that of the carnival committee headquarters, and give the name. This she agreed to do. The next morning she called that of the Old Ladies' home in Fletcher street. I don't know whether she called this number or not; at any rate, she won't admit to her friends that she did. But it has dawned on her that she was the victim of a joke and now she is casting suspicious glances at all her fellow clerks at city hall. The perpetrator is still gleefully at large.

Too, too often the men in charge of buildings, public and private, exhibit a sour outlook upon life. They resent the intrusion upon the premises under their sway of anyone whatever, to all seeming. If one inadvertently drops a slip of clean cloth upon the floor, or whistles a flippant pencil elsewhere, than in the properly appointed waste basket, one receives a terrifying glare. One feels that one is being watched at all times. One is in a constant panic lest one unthinkingly do something which will arouse the fury, and provoke the resentful glances of these guardians. Of course one cannot blame this attitude. I feel quite confident that in a like situation I should be a foe of all mankind. My disposition would resemble a porcupine's fur, I feel certain. But, nevertheless, when one encounters a custodian who experiences no such fierce sentiments, who greets with civility all his verminous, one is filled with a deep and continual admiration. Such an admiration is experienced by all who enter the precincts of the police court.

Here rules Omer J. Smith. He never frowns. He never gives a short word to the least of men, as far as I have been able to discern. He is never annoyed, whatever his trials may be. If you meanly whistle on the floor, he smilingly offers to sharpen your pencil for you in the machine—and he actually sharpens it, and sharpens it well. If you spray paper scraps upon the floor, he directs your attention, still with a pleasant smile and untroubled voice, to the nearby waste receptacle. He has never been known to have a grouse on "whatever the occasion be." When I get to heaven, I fully expect that the angel in charge of the golden mansions of the blessed will bear a striking resemblance to Omer J. Smith.

A one-hundred-thousand-dollar exchange building in Wichita, Kansas, is threatened with destruction by horde of ants, driving upward from the earth through mud tubes. Oaken lumber stored under the building has been practically consumed and the ants have tunneled as far as the second floor following the pipe lines. Fly paper placed in the path of the ants was bridged with dirt by the insects.

LOWELL MAN SAYS HE THOUGHT HE WAS BEING SMOTHERED TO DEATH

Mr. Thos. Willett of 75 Worthen St., Lowell, Says CINET Is the Greatest Remedy That Was Ever Produced and Tells the Public As To Its Great Good

MR. THOS. WILLETT

"The proof of the pudding is in the eating," is an old adage, but it is true nevertheless and we will change it to fit the case to "The proof of a medicine is the results we get." This will apply to the Tonic CINET and we want the reader to know that it is not up to the standard in health to try CINET and apply the proof. It will not disappoint you. Mr. Willett says:

"I have had a lame back and very weak kidneys and had to get up nights many times owing to my bladder and would be unable to get to sleep for hours and finally would fall off into a doze and get severe smothering spells. In fact, so bad that I was afraid that I would never come out of them."
"My stomach would bloat and puff out so you could see the place that the gas was located in and I would get dizzy and my eyes would get blurred. I have been a resident here for 35 years and know lots of people and wish to go on record as indorser of the Tonic CINET."
"CINET is for sale in Lowell by Dow's Drug store, Merrimack square, and is for sale by druggists everywhere."

COLORADO GIRL HEADS CLASS AT SIMMONS

BOSTON, July 1.—Miss Constance Bouck of Leadville, Colo., a freshman at Simmons college, is announced as head of her class in general intelligence. The decision was reached through the application of mental tests originated by Dr. A. A. Roback, instructor in physiology at Harvard university and at Simmons.

"The 12 parts of the Roback tests, with the exception of the analogy, hard opposites and direct tests, which were based on familiar principles, were devised by Dr. Roback with the college student in mind." It was explained in announcing the award.

"One of the most interesting of the test questions is the problems test, designed to gauge capacity to grapple with a practical situation. One of the problems, for example, asks: 'If you were on the seventh floor of a department store in a hurry to get to the ground floor and two elevators came at the same time, one attracting a large crowd and the other only two passengers, which would you take and why?' The person of under-average and some of average intelligence answer at once. The elevator with two passengers, because it is easier to get in and out of. It takes the superior intelligence to reason that the full car will in all probability express to the ground floor, whereas the almost empty one would stop on the way down at each floor to take on more passengers.

"The relations test was another poser: 'If two first cousins were to marry, what would be the former and the new relationship of Miss A's sister husband to Mr. X's? Answer, former relation, first cousin by marriage; new relation, brother-in-law. Of Mr. X to Miss A's mother? Answer, old relation, nephew; new, son-in-law. Of Miss A's brother to Mr. X's sister? Answer, first cousin and brother's brother-in-law. Of Mr. X's father to Miss A's brother? Answer, uncle and sister's father-in-law. Mr. and Mrs. X's child to Mr. X's brother's child? Answer, second cousin, first cousin.

"There were ten others besides the relations and the problems tests to be answered inside of three hours.

"The six highest scores were obtained by American girls of American parentage. It was added.

A green parrot swinging in a tree in Evanston, Illinois, jammed traffic for blocks by calling out, "Not so fast—go slow! Stop!" The same squad of officers who captured the parrot rounded up an organ grinder who had a monkey trained to climb into second-story windows and pass out articles of value. When captured, the monkey had a valuable vase and a bottle which he had stolen from a bedroom.

RUPTURE EXPERTS IN LOWELL

Demonstrate the Famous

Rice Method Free

To Callers at Hotel

If you are ruptured, your big opportunity has now arrived. If you would like to be free from the slavery of coughing, pinching, chafing trusses that make life a burden, then HERE! and NOW is the time to act.

A. S. Dewar and Mrs. M. J. Hudson, experts in rupture cases, trained under the personal direction of W. S. Rice, of Adams, N. Y., the famous discoverer of the Rice Non-Surgical Rupture Method, will be at the Richardson Hotel, Lowell, Mass., July 5 and 6.

Mr. Dewar and Mrs. Hudson are here to personally demonstrate to all ruptured people what the Rice Rupture Method can accomplish. You have, no doubt, heard and read much about this famous method and the cures which thousands have reported from it. Now, you have the chance to find out all about it—to have it demonstrated to you and to see what it can do in YOUR OWN case. Just call at the hotel and these experts will give you their personal attention, best advice and complete demonstration absolutely without charge.

Are you tired of that binding, hampering, uncomfortable truss? Would you like to be free from it forever? Then investigate this Rice Method and find out the possibilities it holds out. Surely a Method that could cause so many thousands of former rupture sufferers to report cures must be worthy of your full and complete investigation.

The Rice Method is different from anything else. It is modern, up-to-the-minute, abreast of the latest scientific developments. It is the one Method that you are not asked to take on faith alone—the one Method that is positively demonstrated to you, right on your own person, without any charge whatever. You do not spend a penny unless, after having a full and complete demonstration, you decide that this is the Method for you. And you—you alone—are the sole judge of that.

In justice to yourself, come in and see Mr. Dewar. Remember, he will be here only two days, then your opportunity will be gone. Grasp it NOW. It may prove to be the wisest thing you ever did, and anyway, it costs you nothing to find out.

Remember, come to the Richardson Hotel, any day from 9 to 12 forenoons, 2 to 5 afternoons, or 7 to 9 in the evenings. The dates are July 5 and 6.

Don't let this opportunity get away from you.

MODEL COAL MINE AT EXPOSITION

CHICAGO, July 1.—A model coal mine built under the supervision of government experts and illustrating the very latest form of labor-saving mining machinery, will be one of the unique features of the National Exposition of Mines and Mining equipment arranged for by the American mining congress in connection with its 24th annual convention to be held in Chicago, Oct. 17-22.

From the cutting machines to the ventilating fans keeping the air fresh and free from gas, every form of modern coal mining machinery will be seen operating under actual working conditions.

The visitor will have an opportunity of seeing a real coal mine and of exploring its recesses. He may come to an open shaft, enter an elevator, and slowly go down seemingly hundreds of feet. At the bottom he may step out into a black tunnel with miners' lamps flickering here and there. Farther on he can enter into a mine room to observe the cutting machines at work, watch the loaders pick up the mined coal, place it into dump cars and see an electric locomotive hook up the cars and pull them up to the conveyor which lifts the coal to the mouth of the mine.

According to Secretary John Burns, the American Mining Congress at its exposition with the help of the United States government and through the construction of this model mine, hopes to be able to bring about a better understanding on the part of the public of the various coal factors entering into the production of coal and at the same time to give to the mine operator a chance to study improved methods which will assist him in bringing about a lower price at the mines.

CLIFF DWELLERS

Did Not Come Northward From Mexico

CANYON, Tex., July 1.—That the Pueblo cliff dwellers of New Mexico were originally buffalo hunting and nomadic Indians of western Oklahoma and northwestern Texas and that they gradually developed their architecture and their arts as they moved westward, finally settling down to permanent habitations in New Mexico, has been definitely established by archaeological investigations made in Texas Panhandle and Eastern New Mexico by Warren K. Moorehead, geologist of Andover, Mass., and J. T. Thorburn, representing the Oklahoma Historical society.

This is an announcement important to science, as formerly it was generally supposed that the cliff dwellers came northward from Mexico.

The explorations of Mr. Moorehead and Mr. Thorburn carried them along the courses of the Canadian and Cimarron rivers in the Panhandle of Texas and thence eastward into New Mexico as far as the Mora valley. In Mora valley eight or ten typical Pueblo ruins were found in a fairly good state of preservation. From the Mora valley eastward to the Oklahoma line the stone buildings of the Indians become smaller, more primitive and less important until they finally disappear.

Upon completion of the work done preparatory to this announcement, Messrs. Moorehead and Thorburn delivered addresses on the subject before the West Texas Normal school at Canyon. It was here that the first definite announcement of this important discovery was made.

This was his second archaeological exploration trip Mr. Moorehead has made to this part of the country, in connection with the tracing of the origin of the cliff dweller culture.

32 AMBUSHES IN IRELAND LAST WEEK

DUBLIN, July 1.—Ambushes in Ireland last week numbered 32 and the casualty list was 25, according to the weekly review issued from Dublin today. Both the number of ambushes and the total of casualties were lighter than the previous week. The police casualties were two killed and seven wounded, while of the military nine were killed and

GOLD BRICK
Doping a running horse by the purchase price doesn't pay percentages. A few weeks ago two promising runners changed hands.
Sam Hildreth, trainer of the Bancroft stables, paid $25,000 for Knobble and $115,000 for Playfellow.
Both horses have raced twice. Knobble won his two starts. Playfellow, who cost Hildreth nearly four times as much, lost his.
The colts were bought with an idea they would develop, of course. Playfellow may yet be worth his price. But to date he is a gold brick.

BEARDED PUGS AND BANDBOX PUGS

BY JOHNNY KILBANE
Featherweight Champion
One of the compensations Jack Dempsey gets out of his title is that he doesn't have to shave. And Jack doesn't when he's fighting. Just as soon as he settles down in camp to train for a big battle he declares a boycott on the razor stuff.
The friends which Dempsey has made in his detours out into society, where he keeps himself slicked up to the minute, will get a shock when he climbs into the ropes at Jersey City on July 2.
He'll wear a thick black growth of beard two or three days old. In this he gives a direct contrast to Carpentier, who shaves every day and looks as slick as if he had come out of a band box when he fights.
I have known some fighters who let their beard grow for the express purpose of using it as a sort of weapon against the tender shoulders of opponents during infighting.
But this isn't why Dempsey lets his grow. The champ seldom gets that close to an opponent. He's bounding them away from him continually with his crushers.
Dempsey wears the facial camouflage for two reasons.
Shaving makes his face tender. He wants his skin to be as tough as sole leather when he's taking a chance on being smashed with an eight-ounce glove.
Also a beard makes him look more formidable to his opponents.
When Carpentier looks into the black-mailed face of the champion he will appreciate something he has never yet fully realized.
He'll say to himself in French: "This is the stylishly dressed, well-groomed fellow I met in New York last winter, who greeted me so warmly and whom I invited to visit me at my chateau in Paris."
And Dempsey won't be the same kind of fellow in the ring as he was that other day, either.
When the Marassa mauler climbs to his corner he changes from a boy-man into a tiger.
He scowls. He stares. He sets his jaws.
Jack has his own personal way of conducting himself before his battles.

BIG INTERNATIONAL SOCCER MATCH

The city of Lynn will surely be on the map for fair when a picked team from the whole state will represent the General Electric United against the greatest club team of Scotland in an international soccer match at Little River playground, West Lynn on Tuesday, July 12. Kick at 6:30 p. m. The city of Lynn was given preference over Fall River in regards to dates. The Third Lanark appearing there July 21st, they then sail for Scotland on the 22nd. This is the most expensive game ever staged in this part of America. It will cost almost $2000 before the game is started. Just look over a few of the notables who have made soccer famous not only in Scotland, but in the whole British Isles. Jimmie Brownlie, Scotland international goal tender for years. Jimmie Gordon, R.H.B., claimed to be the greatest player in that position in Britain. Willie Mac Andrew, C.H.B., a player who has distinguished himself with the Queen's Park Clyde and Third Lanark, a great player. Alex. Bennett, R.F., who used to partner Jimmie McMenemy when both played for Celtic, was considered the greatest wing in Scotland. Alex has lost none of his great touch yet. Watch Alex and McMenemy on the ball. Jimmie McMenemy, J.H.F., looked upon as the greatest I.R.F. who ever kicked a ball. He was a great factor in Celtic's Thistle winning the Scottish cup last season. He has been christened Napoleon by the Canadians. Andrew Wilson, C.F., the greatest center forward of all time and the most talked of player in the world today. Andrew has made a host of friends in Canada by his wonderful playing. Andrew has a wonderful foot and has scored 32 goals in his Canadian tour. He has been a bigger drawing card in Canada than Babe Ruth. Willie Rankin, J.H.F., another grand player and one who has had a great season with Motherwell in his original position as I.R.F.
Up to the time of writing the Scottish stars have not met with a defeat here. Scored 50 goals against 5. Some record.
The Scottish stars are being royally entertained in every Canadian city that they have appeared in.
The rest of the team is made up with a bunch of first class players, namely: Bulloch, R.B., Orr, L.B., a dandy defence; Brown, L.H.B., makes a wonderful combination with Gordon; MacAndrew, C.H.B., a crack little man, make a n ideal partner to Rankin.
Lowell will be represented in the game by the team of the city of Lynn, who are in all possibility with Harold Hulse. These two players represent the Abbot Worsted. There will be a trial game at Sullivan Square tomorrow with Motherwell, between two all star teams.

AMATEUR BASEBALL

The Textile Cadets are looking for games any day this week at the City Campus in Moody street. Call 2125-M.

The Barelay A.C. challenges any 15 and 18 year old team to the city for a game Saturday afternoon. We are also looking for a game for Sunday. The Willie Stars or the Liberty A.C. preferred. Please call 4413-J. Manager MacStanley.

The Red Sox A.A. have an open date July 3 and would like to arrange for a game with some fast 17 or 18 year old team. Belmonts or Aberdeens preferred. Answer through this paper.

The pugs like to gabble a lot, but you never hear of one who wants to hold the floor.

RAWLINGS TRADED TO GIANTS
BOSTON, July 1.—John Rawlings, for several seasons a substitute infielder of the Boston Braves, returned to his field today, this time as second baseman for the Giants. He was transferred to that club yesterday in a trade with the Phillies. Manager McGraw planned to have Rawlings play second base for the Giants regularly, and to shift Frisbie from second to third base in place of Patterson.

Rawlings came into general use in the 19th century; stirrups, three centuries later.

JOCK IS SCOTCH TO THE CORE

Scotch to the core, Jock Hutchison, winner of the British open golf title, indicates the argument that "blood will tell."
Golf is a Scottish game. Hutchison's game is decidedly Scotch.
He was born in a small cottage near

St. Andrews' golf course a little over 30 years ago.
Serving as a caddy boy there before he came to America to make his home he got his initial first-hand from the inventors of the game at which he now leads all other stars.
His hair is sandy. Big brown freckles are mounted on his finely cut face that is always smiling.
Deep set wrinkles that have imprinted themselves above his eyes give him the appearance of being much older.
Jock was the most popular star at St. Andrews even before he showed up the world's greatest at golf.
The Scots pulled harder for him to win than they did for the now deposed champion—George Duncan, who is also Scotch.
They wanted Jock to win because they had seen him in the role of a caddy years ago.

LOOK OUT, JACK

A chest expansion contest for two-year-olds on the beach at Atlantic City was settled when little Larry Vozzi, 21 months old, put his lungs into high gear and threw out his chest. Young Larry is thinking of challenging the winner of the Dempsey-Carpentier scrap.

COUGHLIN HAS STRONG LINEUP FOR TOMORROW

With Eddie Goode and Jocko Conlon of this season's Harvard college team, Rionel of the Italy Cross pins, Eddie Cawley, formerly of Colby "Nig" Lynch, and while Duke star, and the other notable in the line-up that Manager Nixey Coughlin has assembled to meet the fast Bennett A.A. of Somerset, a Spalding park tomorrow afternoon looks like one of the best of the season.
Goode pitched for the locals against the Pere Marquette K. of C. team last Saturday and he turned in a very creditable exhibition. Conlon at short a week ago was a revelation, and he'll be back at the old stand tomorrow. Rionel is said to be a flash. He can play the infield and outfield with equal effectiveness, and will appear in left field tomorrow. Cawley will be at the hot corner. Walter Foye, who has done all the catching for the K. of C. this season, will again be behind the bat. Pat McGowan will play first, Ray Reynolds, second, Lynch, Ray Foye, Coughlin, and Dillon will fill the other outfield positions.
The Bennett A.C. comes here with a wonderful record and those who saw the team play the Abbot Worsted aggregation at Graniteville over that the knights will have to travel to hold them in check.
On Monday the knights will play the Boston professionals.

PUPIL SEEKS TO BREAK TEACHER'S RECORD

BY DEAN SNYDER
Miss Charlotte Boyle, swimmer, took Miss Ethelida Bleibrey as a pupil and built her up into championship swimmer. Now Miss Bleibrey, just back in New York after a successful series of contests in Hawaii, has announced that she is going to try to wrest away from her one-time instructor the world record of 1 minute 40 seconds for the 150-yard freestyle.
Miss Boyle thus may be figuratively cutting her own throat.
But she knows as a good sportsman know, that sports thrive only on competition and that rivalry will enable her to outdo her own former efforts.

FOUR COMEBACKS

The uncertainties of baseball are always reflected in the reversal of form of teams.
21 organized leagues in the United States and Canada, but four of last year's pennant winners are out in front at this stage of the race. They are Cleveland of the American League, the Texas and London of the Michigan-Ontario League.
Pittsburgh of the National, San Francisco of the Coast and Hartford of the Eastern league came in fourth in 1920, but are now leading their respective organizations.
Four teams which were second division clubs last year are now in the lead.
You can't do a baseball machine until after it starts clicking.

POCKETBOOK GLASS

National league umpires are now doctoring the baseball instead of the pitchers. They're experimenting with a new chemical to take the shine off the ball. The new dope has the same effect as rosin, only it isn't sticky.
League officials once stormed about pitchers using dope on the ball. They found that the general lambasting of the ball had hurt attendance, they rushed to the rescue.
They'd rather take the gloss off the ball than off their pocketbooks.

CHANGE AIDS LEE

PHILADELPHIA, July 1.—Switching Phil Lee from the Pirates to the Phillies beat him out of a good chance to share in pennant money this year, but he isn't kicking. He was substitute catcher for the Pirates. He is playing outfield for Donovan and has developed into a terrific slugger.

CANT COME BACK

Walter Johnson, famed fireball pitcher of the American league for 14 glorious years, has been trying to come back.
"I never had a sore arm in my life until I pitched a night ball game. I pitched against Boston last year, but was not the game that caused it. I took cold in the muscle. It got hard and knotted and pained a lot," says Johnson, explaining the first trouble his pitching arm ever gave him.
If Walter's arm was in 1913 form, the Senators would come close to walking into the pennant this year.
But his wonderful arm will never come back. He is too old.

GREATEST TRAINER

Pat Moran is one of the most human and the best trainers of ball players in the big leagues.
Whether he climbs the ladders any higher in the race or not, he has every player's respect.
His rules are simple but effective—are: no liquor, plenty of sleep, eat before 12, moderate eating, no gambling, the cultivation of a proper frame of mind and exercise (meaning morning practice).

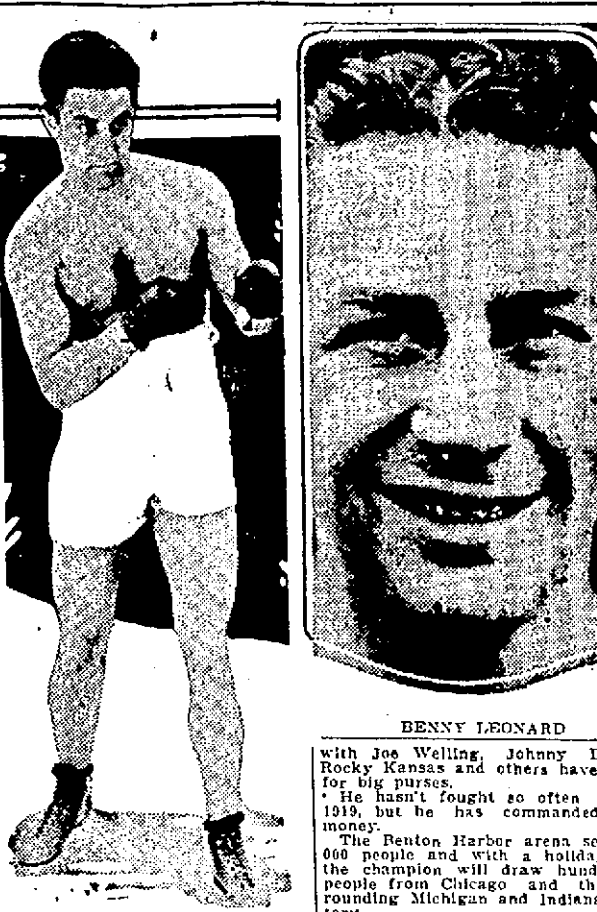

ABBOT WORSTED AND ROXBURY K. OF C.

The Abbot Worsted Co. nine will play another strong team tomorrow afternoon in Graniteville when it will line up against the Hayes council, K. of C. team of Roxbury. The latter outfit has defeated some of the best and fastest semi-pro teams of Boston and the Abbots will have to exert themselves to the limit to bring home a victory. Hart, who will pitch for the visiting team, has just returned from the Southern league. He is said to be an exceptionally clever twirler. Williams and Liston will once more do the battery work for the Abbots.

GAME CANCELLED

The C.M.A.C. of this city will not play the Owls of Lawrence tomorrow afternoon as scheduled. Several of the Lawrence players had planned to spend the week-end out of town and that reason their manager was forced to cancel the game.

Benny's Challenger Is Mere Boy

BENNY LEONARD

with Joe Welling, Johnny Dundee, Rocky Kansas and others have been for big purses.
He hasn't fought so often as in 1919, but he has commanded more money.
The Benton Harbor arena seats 20,000 people and with a holiday date the champion will draw hundreds of people from Chicago and the surrounding Michigan and Indiana territory.
Freedman is a Chicago boy and has a large following.
His chances with the greatest champion the lightweight division has ever had are admittedly slim even by his closest friends. But when two men are fighting in the same ring that one chance out of a hundred may come to any contender.
Freedman is just 21. Leonard is 25. White, Johnny Dundee and Tondler showed that he has plenty of class to entitle him to a shot at the title.
He has a reach of 72 inches, an advantage of three and one-half inches over the champion. His arms and legs have a club-like bulk.
The bout will take place in the afternoon. Both fighters will weigh in at 135 the morning of the fight.
Fitzsimmons has made arrangements to have Jack Dempsey rush from the Jersey City battle scene to referee.
This, in addition to a ten-round bout between Frankie Mason and Jimmie Kelly, will be the added attraction to the holiday card.
While Leonard will be risking his title it takes a spyglass to see the "risk" angle of it.

We lay this union to our soul—
We won at Polo, anyhow!

They gave John Bull no chance

His top-notch team was forced

BASEBALL LEADERS EXPLAIN HITTING

CHICAGO, July 1.—Here are reasons advanced by some of baseball's leaders in explaining the increased long distance hitting:
Tris Speaker, manager of the world champion Cleveland Indians: "Ineffective pitching is the cause. They've barred the delivery ball, the splitter and all the old embers. The pitchers haven't anything left but a glove and a prayer and they work the prayer overtime."
Ty Cobb, manager of the Detroit Americans: "Baseball moves in cycles. We had the cycle of great base-running, the cycle of great pitching and now we have the cycle of heavy hitting. We won't last long."
Johnny Evers, manager of the Chicago Cubs: "It's the lively ball. The ball is so fast the players can't handle it and the force that used to be used in bunting now puts the ball out of the infield. The fast ball is crippling infielders and spoiling the game."
John Heyler, president of the National league: "Babe Ruth caused it. Babe made every one think it was easy to hit homers and now the batters swing their hardest. Everyone takes a full swing at the ball; result, more long hits than ever."

KLOBY'S WORK MAKES HIT WITH FANS

SALEM, July 1.—Tommy (Kloby) Corcoran, who is down to battle Edie Shevlin on the Circus Grounds Arena July Fourth, is electrifying the on-lookers at his training quarters here. Kloby cuts loose and his form is perfect, according to some of the boys who served with the Y.D. camp overseas and who saw him in the championship of the welter class. These boys are confident that the idol of the Yankee Division will take Shevlin just like Grant took Richmond.
"Kloby has been idle since Nate Seigal of Revere won the New England title from him. When the Shevlin match was made he went about his work like a true fighter and the first two weeks were spent in road work. When he thought that he needed gymnasium work he informed Joe Sullivan that he would like to come to Salem to finish his training and the ring was secured. Invitations were publicly announced through the newspapers that anyone wishing to see him train could do so. The result was that big crowds have been on hand every afternoon for the past two weeks. Local fans who have watched him in training are of the opinion that Shevlin is in for another artistic lacing despite the Dartmouth professor's science and cleverness. Kloby is in the pink of his condition and he has developed a left hand punch that Shevlin will have to watch out for.
Carp went to a Long Island lawn (the other day but forgot and went without any money. No matter. He would have come back that way even if he had taken a million.

GETAWAY DAY FOR DEMPSEY

Before Nightfall Champion
Will Be Secluded In Private Residence In Jersey City

Phonographic Music to Keep
Carp's Mind Off Tomorrow's Battle

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., July 1.—This is getaway day for Jack Dempsey, world's heavyweight champion. Before sundown this evening, the grim, determined Dempsey will be sequestered in a private residence in Jersey City, perhaps to face a night that may seem endless; there to remain until he faces Georges Carpentier in the battle of his life tomorrow afternoon.

Everything is in readiness for the champion's departure. The exact hour, however, has not been divulged, nor has Jack Kearns, Dempsey's manager, revealed the railroad over which the champion and his party will travel. Where Dempsey will sleep in Jersey City tonight, also is a guarded secret. The location will not be revealed even to Dempsey himself, as Manager Kearns is taking every precaution to have him rest in absolute quiet, away from the eyes of the curious thousands.

Released from the close confinement of two months' training, the fighter is happy in this liberation, and more like a boy brimming over with anticipation than a heavyweight champion facing the most important battle of his career.

Dempsey revealed his happy, care-free state of mind yesterday when he sat on the front porch of his house and for more than two hours took part in a conversation that included a variety of subjects. While a driving rain beat down on the huge field surrounding his camp, Dempsey laughed heartily and joked with a small circle of friends, frequently taking a friendly snap at whoever might be within range.

Yesterday the driving rain prevented all exercise except a long walk in the morning with "Mike" Trent, the Chicago detective sergeant, who will act as his body guard in and out of the arena tomorrow.

Dempsey went to bed at 9:30 o'clock and Trent is authority for the statement that the champion slept soundly for nearly nine hours.

Dempsey is an unusual champion in at least one conspicuous respect. Virtually on the eve of his engagement with Carpentier, he is displaying none of that gruffness and unapproachability that traditionally has come to be regarded as the conclusive proof of a fighter being on "edge" for an important battle.

Battling Nelson, who predicted the downfall of Jess Willard at Toledo two years ago, predicts that tomorrow's contest will be the shortest and most vicious fought in the heavyweight history. Nelson will not be surprised if Dempsey wins in the first round.

"I look for the battle to end before either Dempsey or Carpentier gets warmed up," Nelson said today. "They are terrific fighters, and one of them will drop in short order. Of course, I am sticking to Dempsey. He looks better to me than when he fought Willard. He's got more class.

LYNCH MEETS YOUNG MONTREAL JULY 4

WOONSOCKET, R. I., July 1.—Ban-lam Champion Joe Lynch and Young Montreal of Providence have each posted $500 as a guarantee for weight and appearance in connection with their 12-round whirl here Monday afternoon. The weight is to be 118 pounds at 3 o'clock. Set by his setback at the hands of Abe Friedman in Boston last Monday, Montreal is working union hours at his training camp at Spring Lake, 10 miles from here, and promising to win back his lost prestige by decisively beating the champion. It will be their third meeting, the first going to an even break, while sport writers gave the second to Montreal.

N. Y. HOTELS CROWDED WITH FIGHT FANS

NEW YORK, July 1.—New York hotels were crowded today and in the lobbies, dining rooms or hallways, there was a buzz of conversation in which the names of Dempsey and Carpentier predominated.

Fully 5000 out-of-town folks registered yesterday who announced their intention of seeing the championship bout tomorrow at Jersey City, and some 20,000 were expected to show in today from every quarter of the continent. Those arriving yesterday included residents of cities from Medicine Hat to Miami and from Bangor to El Paso.

BRAVES SEEK NEW PLAYERS
BOSTON, July 1.—The Braves, third in the National League race, are leaving no stone unturned in their effort to obtain greater strength. Jack Slater, Harvard baseball coach, has been engaged to tour the southern states during the next few weeks on a scouting trip for players. A left handed pitcher and a reserve infielder, are especially sought.

Knows more "stuff" and is a better and more polished boxer."

Day of Peace For Carp

MANHASSET, N. Y., July 1.—Only light exercise was on the work program of Georges Carpentier today, and to keep his mind off tomorrow's battle. Trainer Wilson prescribed phonographic music, a walk through the woods and a long automobile ride.

This of all days, Trainer Wilson said, was to be a day of peace for the challenger and he was not to be bothered even by personal friends.

All members of the camp were busy getting things in order for tomorrow. Everybody was impatient but the only display of real nervousness was on the part of Manager Descamps. He appeared to be "up in the air" because of a number of telephone calls. He said there had been no less than 75 up to noon, and that he had been asked all the foolish questions imaginable.

Some fellow who said he was going to bet on Carpentier wanted to talk to the challenger himself, and ask his advice. A woman thought Descamps rude because he refused an invitation for the challenger to attend an ice cream social tonight.

Although he declined to say what plans had been made for after the fight, Descamps intimated that the camp here would be retained. Trainer Wilson will be placed in charge and will condition Charles Ledoux, the French bantamweight champion, and Paul Journee, the big French heavyweight. It is also probable that Marcel Deas, the French lightweight, will train here under the supervision of Wilson. Should Georges win his fight with Dempsey, it is almost certain that he will come to this country later and make Manhasset his headquarters, if only temporarily.

POLICE TO PROTECT FIGHT SPECTATORS

NEW YORK, July 1.—The crowd attending the Dempsey-Carpentier bout, the largest in the history of the sport, also will be the most orderly that has witnessed a heavyweight title bout. Police officials of the Metropolitan district promised today.

Elaborate preparations for the protection of spectators from pickpockets have been made by Jersey City police. Most novel is the plan to prevent confusion with the establishment of a "dead line" extending approximately four blocks on all sides of the arena. Bluecoats stationed at intervals of a few yards on this boundary will bar admittance to all persons who do not possess tickets or other proper credentials.

The issue of bogus tickets in many sections of the country has added to the problems confronting Promoter Tex Rickard and the police authorities. Persons presenting such tickets will be held in the effort to chase down the counterfeiters. A "dozen or less" composed of a dozen or more engravers will be furnished by Rickard, before which persons with counterfeit tickets will be taken for expert decision as to the worth of the questioned pasteboards.

JOSH WISE ON THE BIG FIGHT

A word from Josh Wise: A lot of fighters know the ropes from hanging on 'em.

You hear so much about Carpentier's "perfect" fight, it would be much of a surprise if Flo Ziegfeld signed him.

One of Dempsey's friends says Jack knows he never will be as popular as John L. Sullivan was. Humpf! Even Napoleon was never that popular.

Jess Willard says he is too busy to go to the fight. So is John D. Rockefeller.

Some New Jersey Elks gave a loving cup to Dempsey. Giving a loving cup to anybody these days is like giving a comb and brush to a bald-headed man.

A Holoken astrologer says the stars say Dempsey will win. Which ones—the Barrymores boys?

We had hoped Judge Landis would be picked as referee. He added dignity to baseball and he might add a little to prizefighting.

We lamp in one of the public prints that a sport ed says Dempsey is a polished gentleman. He may be, but the most highly polished gentleman we ever heard of was Jess Willard at the end of the Toledo fight.

Dempsey's auto is an $18,000 limousine. Go to school, boys, and study hard. As Charles M. Schwab said, "It's brains that count."

All the big pugs use heavy sparring partners—heavy on their feet.

GAME ON NORTH COMMON

A strenuous game is scheduled for the North common tomorrow afternoon at 3:30, when the snappy Fletcher Reds and the Lamson company tennis club. The Fletcher Reds will rely upon Curry and Farrell for their battery, while the Lamson company management has decided not to announce theirs until play is called. Bob Ganley will officiate as umpire.

The world's heaviest brain was said to be that of the Russian author, Turgenov. It weighed 2012 grams.

WAR VETERANS HISS DEMPSEY'S NAME

DETROIT, July 1.—San Francisco was chosen as the 1922 meeting place of the Disabled American Veterans of Foreign Wars at the final session of the organization's first convention here today. Cincinnati was named as the permanent headquarters of the organization and Judge Robert S. Marx of Cincinnati was re-elected national president.

A resolution condemning expressions attributed to members of the socialist party, that Wednesday ended its national convention here, was adopted here yesterday at the convention of disabled veterans.

The resolution, drafted by Ralph A. Horn of Seattle, who Wednesday accompanied a delegation of veterans to the socialist convention and addressed it, placed the veterans on record against a statement said to have been made by certain delegates to the socialist convention to the effect that as for the communists we will fight only under the red flag of international socialism.

Col. C. R. Forbes, director of the Bureau of War Risk Insurance, told the convention today that all "red tape" was to be eliminated from his bureau and that the bureau would be on a current basis by July 21.

Samuel D. Lamkin, who retires today as director of the federal board for vocational training, advocated that all wounded naturalized American citizens who served in allied armies, and widows and children of war dead be given vocational training. He also advocated a plan to give all ex-service men and women, whether wounded or not, an opportunity to obtain training.

The name of Jack Dempsey was greeted with hisses when it was mentioned on the convention floor by Judge Marx. Declaring he understood Dempsey was an honorary member of the western organization of veterans, Judge Marx said:

"Dempsey is the last man we would want as an honorary member of this organization."

COLLEGE STUDENTS TO WORK AS LABORERS

PRINCETON, July 1.—Twenty undergraduates of Princeton university will spend their summer vacations or part of them in attending the great university of American industry—that is they are going to work wherever they can get a job in order to study the conditions of wage earners and their relations with their employers.

They intend to live, eat and sleep as other laborers and wage earners. Every week they will meet in groups to discuss the things they have learned and prepare a report to be given to other college men and future employers. One of the purposes is to see if they can discover means of improving the conditions of the wage earners.

For six weeks before the university closed, 60 Princeton men voluntarily attended a course of lectures in which they listened to speakers alternately representing the standpoint of labor and capital. They studied books on industrial conditions to equip them for their effort to deal with what they regard as perhaps the greatest problem facing America and Europe today. They say they do not hope to revolutionize the conditions of the wage earners but they do hope to be able to make to employers and capitalists a few suggestions gained from first-hand knowledge of conditions in American industries.

The plan was suggested by Sherwood Eddy, a Young Men's Christian association secretary, who lectured here on social problems.

Some of the Princeton men already are at work in New York, Philadelphia, Denver, Minneapolis and other cities. They agreed that none of them should accept a job if by so doing he threw out of employment another man. The committee in charge secured positions for more than one-half of the applicants and these were given in the way they were working their way through college. The rest are seeking their own places.

Princeton is not the only college to adopt the plan but is taking one of the most active parts in carrying it out. Last summer a group of California students worked in Denver, following a plan something like that which the Princeton men will attempt.

Challenge Round of Tennis Tournay

WIMBLEDON, England, July 1.—(By the Associated Press)—Miss Elizabeth Ryan, a native of California, and since 1913 a prominent figure in international tennis met Mlle. Suzanne Lenglen, women's champion, in the challenge round of the British turf law tennis tournament here today. The contest was considered as one between the best players in their class.

"SCOUT-ING"

Mrs. Jane Deeter Ripplin, national director of the 104,000 American Girl Scouts, has sailed to represent the United States at the international conference of Girl Scout commissioners in London, July 26.

PAL REED WINS DECISION OVER TOMMY ROBSON

BOSTON, July 1.—Pal Reed, the Natick middleweight, won the decision over Tommy Robson of Malden in their 10-round bout at the Armory A. A. show in Mechanics' building last night. Robson did too much stalling, and in a number of the rounds he made little effort to stop Reed's punches.

In the first couple of rounds it looked as if Robson was going to be the winner. He jabbed Reed often in the face with his left and stepped away from the most of Reed's blows. Reed was the aggressor about all the time and he caught Robson some stiff left hooks in the stomach and face, and a number of times landed the right on the head.

Robson in most of the rounds during the latter part of the battle made no attempt to do any fighting till the last minutes of the rounds. Then he would cut loose with rights and lefts on the jaw.

In a few of the other rounds Robson landed the right on Reed's jaw and staggered the latter. Then Robson would start stalling. Instead of following up his advantage, Robson had a few rounds weight on Reed. They had a few rounds weight on Reed. They had a few rounds weight on Reed.

Reed was a 2 to 1 favorite.

BAY STATE MAN NAMED

Capt. Loughlin Chosen by Sec. Weeks as One of Ten
Experts To Go To France

BOSTON, July 1.—Captain James F. Loughlin of the Massachusetts national guard has been notified of his selection by the secretary of war, as one of the 10 expert rifle shots to represent the United States in the international competition in France next month. Loughlin was captain of the Bay State rifle team which last year won the national shooting in New Jersey and established a new world's record of 1785. He holds the New England individual marksmanship titles at various distances up to 1200 yards.

A twelve-foot box constricter, a stowaway from some tropical port, recently arrived in New York harbor where he was stunned by a fall caused when the Hoboken workmen tore away his resting place. He was boxed up and sent to the zoo. Floods have been prevalent in the tropics and it is thought he crawled through a port-hole from a drifting tree.

Several times Reed complained that Robson was stepping on his right foot, but it did not look intentional. Harry Silva won the decision over Billy Woods in 10 rounds. Denny Glinn won from Newman Reagan in eight rounds. Lenny Mullins stopped Joe Reardon in three rounds. John Brassell was referee; Jimmy Winston and Louis Sullivan, judges, and Snap Cohen, timer.

TO CLEAR UP DOUBTFUL POINTS IN TARIFF BILL

WASHINGTON, June 30.—The average duty in the administration's permanent tariff bill, introduced yesterday in the house, will range between 18 and 20 per cent, according to unofficial estimates as compared with 18.65 in the Payne-Aldrich bill, Chairman Fordney of the ways and means committee declared today. The Underwood average rate, he added, was 6 per cent, and the Dingley average 26 1/2 per cent.

"But when we are able to work out accurately the correct figures, it will be found that the new bill will run slightly below the Payne-Aldrich measure," he said. "On manufactured wool our rate is less than schedule K. He is preparing the statement in advance of his formal report which he expects will clear up many doubtful points in the bill.

Under a change of plans today the measure will not be considered by the full committee until Wednesday. It will be reported Wednesday. Democratic members of the committee already are at work on a minority report in a hope of submitting it along with the majority views.

The bill repeals the Canadian reciprocity agreement which has been operative since 1910. The president, under the new powers given him by the measure, is able, however, to proceed immediately after passage of the bill towards making new reciprocal trade arrangements with any country with which such an agreement would be profitable to the United States.

Many other repealing provisions are contained in the bill, but most of them deal with technical matters. The measure also alters in a more or less degree about half of the customs laws covering the actual passage of commodities through customs houses, methods of assessing duties and other administrative provisions for the guidance of the customs force.

In connection with the appraisal of values of shipments, the bill introduces a new feature in authorizing customs officers to obtain verified statements of production costs where such is deemed necessary.

No machinery is provided for the purpose, however, other than that the officers can demand affidavits covering the information they seek.

Another feature of the draft is the inclusion of many commodities not listed in previous tariff bills. A majority of these, however, are the products of recent inventions and of development since the Underwood act was passed in 1913.

WASHINGTON, June 30.—Lapses of funds for the navy was threatened today. American Woman On Way To Be Cannibal Isle Queen

MRS. LOUIS LANDROCK, A VIEW ON HER ISLAND IN THE FIJIS.
AND MAP SHOWING ITS LOCATION

(By Newspaper Enterprise)

OMAHA, Neb., July 1.—From civilized life in an American city to "queen" of a "musical comedy island," with cannibals as next door neighbors. It would be a startling change—even in fiction.

But Mrs. Louis Landrock of Omaha is making the jump. She is on the Pacific ocean, en route to Ngau, one of the Fiji Islands, and the town of Poutianak, in Dutch Borneo.

She expects to settle down, almost in the center of the Fijis, as part owner of a $10,000,000 estate.

One of the most eccentric wills in history is responsible for it all. Way back in 1664, Prince Wolfert Webber of Holland became disgruntled with his daughter, Princess Anneka, for marrying out of royalty. He willed her share of his extensive island holdings to the seventh generation of her descendants.

Field In Trust

The Dutch government has held the property in trust since that time—waiting for Anneka's great-great-great-great-grandchildren to put in appearance.

The princess, in the meantime, moved to New Amsterdam, where she told the story of the island kingdom to her children. They repeated it to their children and their children's children.

From the princess there were two distinct lines of descent, for after her first husband was lost at sea, she married Everardus Bogardus, second pastor of the New Amsterdam church in New York.

Some of the descendants preserved complete records of their lineage.

Mrs. Landrock, daughter of Mrs. Augusta Gardner Keeline, only child of the almost "run out" family, was taught from early childhood that she, with her sisters, Nona and Lillian, was to have the promise of wealth fulfilled.

Her Life Secret

All through her life Mrs. Landrock guarded the story well.

"This is America," she said, just before sailing. "People would only have tapped their heads, had I told them of it."

The lineage chart, which Mrs. Landrock has kept complete, has traveled back and forth between Holland and Omaha dozens of times, and was drafted in its final stage at a cost of $4000. It dates from 1664 to 1915.

For five years Mrs. Landrock has had a representative in Dutch Borneo and the Fijis. He has been kept busy, she says, looking after crops of coffee, pineapples, coconuts, rubber, etc.

In a recent letter this representative told of a man in his employ who had been killed by cannibals.

But Mrs. Landrock—with a dictionary of the Malay language under her arm—is soon to set foot in the Fijis as the seventh descendant of Princess Anneka.

R. R. MEN WON'T DO ANYTHING RASH

CHICAGO, July 1.—Hundreds of railway union leaders gathered last night in preparation for meetings today, which will take up the acceptance or rejection of the wage reductions ordered by the railroad labor board, which are effective today.

Votes have been taken by a number of the organizations, and while no official announcement will be made public until today or Saturday, it has been unofficially reported that the votes in some cases show a majority against acceptance of the cuts.

"The stationary engineers and others have voted 94 per cent against acceptance of the wage cuts," declared Timothy Healy, international president of the organization.

"There will be no nation-wide strike unless the men are forced into it," said R. Jewell, president of the Railway Department of the American Federation of Labor. "Our men will accept any reasonable adjustment. They are not going to do anything rash or unreasonable."

"There is nothing to be alarmed over in the situation," said W. S. Carter, president of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen.

L. J. Lührsen, president of the American Train Dispatchers' Association, said his organization had not taken a vote on the wage reduction. "To the members of our organization it has seemed to be simply a question of obeying the law as declared by the labor board," he said.

T. C. Cashon, new president of the Switchmen's Union of North America, also expressed optimism regarding the situation. "We are not looking for trouble," he declared. "The rank and file of our organization is taking a level-headed view of the labor board's decision. They will do what is right."

The union leaders, most of them general chairmen of the four big brotherhoods, probably will be in session several days.

COMMONS VOTES GRANT TO COAL MINERS

LONDON, July 1.—The house of commons today approved the plan submitted by Prime Minister Lloyd George for a grant of $10,000,000 to the coal miners in pursuance of the strike settlement program. The money will be applied in helping tide the men over the next few months, during the process of wage reduction.

The passage of this legislation completes the action necessary to make effective the settlement of the coal strike reached early this week.

NEW TRIAL FOR MAN CONVICTED IN 1920

PORTLAND, Me., July 1.—A law court rescript handed down by Associate Justice Charles Dunn yesterday granted a new trial to Jesse C. Scott, who was found guilty, with William Pomeroy, of the murder of Robert C. Moore in Piscataquis county.

The two men were convicted in September, 1920. A motion for a new trial for Scott was made following the conviction, but was denied by the presiding justice, and then an appeal was taken.

Associate Justice Dunn in the rescript held that whatever the relation of Pomeroy to the crime, Scott was in no way related, except by his presence in the house at the time.

He reviewed the flight and silence maintained by Scott after capture, and said that silence was but a circumstance and flight might weigh with other evidence.

Scott had claimed that what he had was through fear of Pomeroy. Justice Dunn held that Scott's guilt was not established beyond a reasonable doubt and that his conviction, therefore, constituted a miscarriage of justice.

CHARACTER EVIDENCE AT MURDER TRIAL STRICKEN OUT

May Be Forced To Dynamite Chicago House To Destroy Giant $25,000 Still

CHICAGO, July 1.—A giant still, which police said cost at least $25,000 to build and is so large that it may be necessary to dynamite the house in which it is located to destroy it, was guarded here today by police and federal authorities.

The still has vats in the basement of the house that measure 14 by 18 feet and are six feet deep while the coils run through the entire house. The still was discovered when a passerby saw smoke and turned in a fire alarm. One vat was overheated and was smoking.

No one was found at the house and the proprietors have not been located.

ALL SET FOR CARNIVAL

Opening of Big Event May Be Postponed If Rain Continues

Manager Francis J. Roane of the local American Legion post's gigantic Independence day season carnival, slated to open tonight with big municipal ceremonies, this morning opened an office at the South common grounds where the huge midway is going up amid acres of canvas. The downtown office of the carnival authorities was given up this morning, and Manager Roane and his staff repaired to the grounds where a tent was erected. In this tent all further business of the enterprise will be transacted.

In the event of rain, Manager Roane stated this afternoon, the formal opening will be delayed to 1 p. m. tomorrow. "We want to open right," said Mr. Roane, "and, although we are going to have the parade go through whatever the weather, if it is raining this evening at 8 o'clock, the booths and attractions will remain closed until tomorrow afternoon, so that they can start in bang-up fashion." Mr. Roane did not declare definitely that the fireworks exhibit from a balloon was off, but that difficulties had arisen which might compel the cancellation of the event.

After a parade in which the entire city government will participate, together with the local legionnaires and ladies' auxiliary members, Mayor Perry D. Thompson will throw on a switch that will illuminate the hundreds of booths, tents, and the 18 huge Victory arches which workmen put the finishing touches today. The equipment of the personnel of Battery B, whose members will act as military escort in the parade, and subsequently will officiate as M. P. at the carnival, has been put in readiness, and they will take part in the parade uniformed and with their horses and field pieces, headed by Capt. W. C. Macfarlane, appointed by Gov. Cox as his official representative at the affair. Mrs. Mary Quinn Marx will lead the members of the ladies auxiliary of the legion in the line of march. The ladies will be attired in white dresses, and will cover the route to the carnival grounds.

CITY COUNCIL MAY HOLD MEETING IN HOSPITAL

If necessary, the municipal council can hold a meeting in St. John's hospital, where Commissioner John P. Salmon is now confined, it was learned today. If the council should do this, it will be the first time in its history that it will have met outside of city hall except when it met in Memorial hall a few months ago to give a hearing on the question of establishing a slaughter house in the former Harvard Brewing company's buildings in Payton street.

If such a meeting were held, it would have to be a special meeting, because the city charter specifically states that all regular meetings of the council shall be held in city hall. But so far as special meetings are concerned, there is no provision in the charter as to where they shall be held. The question was brought up this morning when City Treasurer Fred H. Rourke notified the members of the council that the $25,000 sewer loan proposed at last Tuesday's meeting and the $20,000 schoolhouse loan passed by the council on June 10 have been held up by the bankers who had been

PERSHING ACTS AS SECRETARY OF WAR

WASHINGTON, July 1.—Within a few hours after he became chief of staff of the army today, General Pershing was acting as secretary of war, visiting when City Treasurer Fred H. Rourke notified the members of the council that the $25,000 sewer loan proposed at last Tuesday's meeting and the $20,000 schoolhouse loan passed by the council on June 10 have been held up by the bankers who had been

Union Leaders Confer at Chicago to Decide Action to Be Taken by Men

CHICAGO, July 1.—One million, five hundred thousand railway employees went to work today at reduced wages, while 1000 of their union leaders assembled here for conferences that are relied upon to keep transportation channels open and to decide what action railway employees shall take regarding wage cuts.

While union leaders voiced general dissatisfaction toward the United States labor board's decision authorizing a wage cut, there were predictions that they would vote to abide by the order with some formal protest.

A decision on their part to order a walkout would, in any event, not be final as such an order would first be submitted to a referendum vote of many organizations that have not yet voted on the question.

Reject Wage Cut

CHICAGO, July 1.—Ninety-five percent of the membership of the International Brotherhood of Firemen and Oilers have voted against accepting the wage cut ordered by the United States Railroad labor board on all roads today. No Evidence Now Exists That Sacco and Vanzetti Were Law-Abiding

DEDHAM, July 1.—By agreement of counsel, District Attorney Katzmann today announced that the prosecution had assented to a request by both defendants that there be stricken from the record of the trial of Nicola Sacco and Bartolomeo Vanzetti for a double murder at South Braintree last year, all evidence that either Sacco or Vanzetti bore reputations of being peaceful and law-abiding. The reason for this request was withheld.

The jury was informed that by agreement of counsel no evidence now exists in the trial record that Sacco

An eleventh hour mixup in plans for the municipal display of fireworks on the South common on the evening of July 4th, next Monday, necessitated a special meeting of the city council this morning and threatened to cause the cancellation of the biggest feature of the municipal observance of the holiday.

As in previous years, Mayor Perry D. Thompson had been authorized to make arrangements for the pyrotechnical display and had turned over to James J. Gallagher the contract to secure the exhibition. Mr. Gallagher, in turn, negotiated with the National Fireworks Co., a firm which had given the city complete satisfaction in other years, and all the details had been completed.

However, Mr. Gallagher yesterday received word from the National company that the surety company to which it had submitted its bond, releasing

Lowell Radio Club Receives Prize Won In Nation-wide Aerial Relay Contest—Club's Activities

Expert Operator

The Lowell Radio Club, the first organization of its kind to stage a dance with music by wireless, has given ample evidence during the past week that it stands second to none among the amateur clubs of the country. Wednesday afternoon there was received at the headquarters of the club in the Dartmouth building a very valuable piece of apparatus known in the science of telegraphy as an enclosed spark gap which was awarded to the Lowell boys as a prize in a nationwide aerial relay contest. Tomorrow afternoon E. Sterling Pratt, an active member of the club, working in cooperation with the Chaffoux company, will announce to the assembled crowds in Merrimack square the details of the Dempsey-Carpenter bout at practically the same instant that they take place in Jersey City. The event for which the local boys were awarded the prize was a great free-for-all relay which was run throughout the United States and Canada on the night of Feb. 21. An actual count of the answers received showed that over 7240 amateurs sent in reports. The message was one from Mr. Harding, now President Harding. It consisted of 30 words and 14 of them came through from the Atlantic

He was in a sorry plight, bedraggled, with no shoes, and his clothes dirty and ragged. BERLIN CHEERS TAGORE

FAREWELL RECEPTION TO REV. AND MRS. DILTS

A reception by the parishioners of the Calvary Baptist church was given last evening to Rev. Asa Reed Dilts, together with Mrs. Dilts, who are soon to depart for Amherst, where Rev. Mr. Dilts will assume the duties of pastor of the Baptist church in that town. A purse of $300, the gift of the congregation, was presented to the resigning pastor, who has been at Calvary Baptist church during a period of nearly twenty-three years. There were speeches appropriate to the occasion by Rev. Charles H. Ellis, of Chelmsford, Centre, Rev. York A. King of Lawrence, and Dr. Edward Babcock of the First Baptist church. Many eloquent tributes were paid to the pastor by those who spoke, and he was hailed as a man of high character and a credit to the Christian ministry. Rev. Mr. Dilts responded simply but feelingly.

Somewhat more than 22 years ago, Rev. Mr. Dilts and his wife came to this city, after a call had been received from Northampton, where Rev. Mr. Dilts was at that time officiating as pastor. The church of the congregation was then the Branch Street Tabernacle, now the site of the Notre Dame de Lourdes church, at Branch and Middlesex streets. It is now 12 years since the present edifice was completed and occupied. The Amherst Baptist church, part of whose congregation consists of 1200 Amherst College students, and also undergraduates of the Agricultural college, will be the scene of Rev. Mr. Dilts' new pastorate. In the receiving line last evening with the pastor and his wife were: Deacons Eugene Morrill, William Morgan, Louis Browning, William F. Hills, Francis Fletcher and Richard Gumb. The last named later introduced the speakers. Rev. Mr. King, who made an address, is evangelistic secretary of the Baptist Home Missions society of New England. A feature of the program was the recitation of an original poem by Miss Florence M. Lalime. The composition related to the regret felt by the congregation because of the departure of the pastor. Mrs. Fred Harrison also read a poem. An autographed volume, containing the written signatures of every member of the parish was presented by Miss Collina L. Lalime. Deacon Gumb then presented the purse with a few words of sorrow for the pastor's going, and gladness that he is going into a larger field. On the platform were: Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Dilts, Dr. Babcock, Rev. Mr. Ellis, Rev. Mr. King, Edward Everett Adams, Gladys Green, Deacon Gumb, and Miss Florence and Miss Collina Lalime. The ushers were as follows: Lyman Morrill, Glen Holcomb, Anstett Noyes, Ernest Crist Jr., Herbert Kenyon, William Jones, Charles Lalime, Mrs. Albert S. Haynes, Jr., Elta Clement, Gladys Green, Ethel Gordon, Florence Lalime, Mary Gordon and Mrs. Charles Lalime. The committee in charge of refreshments was as follows: Mrs. Edmund L. Lalime, Mrs. William F. Hills, Mrs. Bowen, Mrs. Louis Browning, Mrs. William Morgan, Mrs. John Butcher and Miss Mattie Barron.

Started Working Too Soon After Wasting Illness

Dorchester, Mass., Man Had Hard Time Getting on His Feet Again.

"Two years ago," writes Mr. R. S. Collett, of 41 Lonsdale street, Dorchester, Mass., "I had influenza and started to work too soon. I always felt tired out. I tried all kinds of tonics to try and get back my strength, but without the results I hoped for. At last I got Wincarnis, and in my opinion it is the best health restorer and strength giver that can be gotten. It put me on my feet again, and I shall always swear by it. I will anyone else using it for they will soon know they have found just what they need."

had done for them when they were desperately trying to get back their strength after influenza or other wasting illnesses.

Wincarnis helps those who are sickly, weak and run-down, back to vigorous health, vitality and strength because it exercises a four-fold influence on the system. Being a tonic, a restorative, a blood-maker and a nerve-builder all in one, Wincarnis enriches the blood, invigorates the nerves, promotes nutrition and increases the forces of resistance to disease of the entire system.

Because of these virtues, Wincarnis has been recommended by more than 10,000 physicians. As Dr. G. M. Lipinsky, formerly of the Health Department of Philadelphia, has said, "It would be difficult to find a better preparation than Wincarnis for those convalescing after a wasting illness."

Wincarnis is put up in two sizes—$1.10 and $1.95. It is sold in Lowell by all first class druggists. Write for free instructive booklet, "Hundred Per Cent Health, How to Obtain It," Edward Lassere, Inc., Adv. Dept., 400 West 23d St., New York, U. S. Agents for Wincarnis.—Adv.

CITIZENS' MILITARY TRAINING CAMPS

The experience of England in its volunteer system in the world war was a sad one. The opposition against enforcing a draft was so great at home that the English government was compelled to recruit its army by volunteers. The results of this were that during the first three years of war more than 250,000 of the flower of the youth of England became casualties in battle; she gained recruits to maintain and increase the strength of her army by paying exorbitant bounties and by brow-beating individuals to force them to enlist. Her officer material constantly became less efficient because of the fact that the red-blooded young men from whom officers are developed and selected were the ones who had first rushed to the colors.

The citizens' military training camps provide for instruction in elementary military matters which is calculated to give the young man an equal chance in combat with an enemy.

One of these camps will be established for the First Corps Area at Camp Davens from Aug. 1 to Aug. 31. Any young man of good character, 16 years of age or over, is eligible to attend. There will be no expense to the individual, as the government pays for everything.

Application to attend the camp or for further detailed information should be made to First Corps Area headquarters, Boston, without delay, as the remaining vacancies are rapidly being filled.

PREDICTS GREATEST OF WORLD'S GOLD RUSHES

SEATTLE, July 1.—What old timers of the north here foresee as the greatest of the world's gold rushes awaits merely the lifting of political barriers from Siberia—a stampede rivaling at least Nome and Dawson with their hectic frontier life.

"The gold is there," asserts Captain C. I. Olsen, widely known soundough and explorer, "and the impending rush is as certain as man's lust for yellow metal."

"A great many American prospectors have been quietly searching the creeks, rivers and beaches of Siberia, and they have made big strikes. Some of the finds have been sensational—rich and as soon as the government of eastern Siberia is stable, the mines will be opened on a large scale."

"I personally know many of these prospectors. I have seen their metal, and can vouch for the truth of their statements."

"It also has the personal assurance of political leaders of northeastern Siberia that Americans will be given every right and privilege which they themselves enjoy."

Captain Olsen, 23 years prospector, hunter, trapper, and explorer in the Arctic, is outfitting for another of many voyages to the west shores of the Behring. Many of his adventurous fellows are also equipping themselves for a quick scurry to the Siberian gold and platinum fields when the propitious hour strikes.

They picture eastern Russia as the mecca for the hardy pioneer.

"Siberia has enormous, undeveloped resources in agriculture, stock raising, timber, fisheries, oil and mining of all kinds," says Capt. Olsen. "The southern part is particularly adapted to grains raised in Canada and northern United States. There are millions of acres of the finest grazing lands and immense tracts of fine timber—pine, spruce and hardwoods."

"The northern part is the natural home of the reindeer, of which there are millions. In some places they can be bought for a dollar each. Land in Seattle, the meat is worth about $50 a head."

"The waters of the whole Siberian coast are alive with food fish. The

AMUSEMENT NOTES

By Theatre's Own Press Agents
MERRIMACK SQUARE THEATRE

As delightful and beguiling a comedy as the screen has turned out in many months is "An Unwilling Hero," the new Goldwyn photoplay which is the feature attraction of the current program at the Merrimack Square Theatre. The star is Will Rogers and the play reveals the homely comedy-an in a role somewhat similar to his "Fubling" one of his greatest successes. "An Unwilling Hero" is a product of O. Henry's pen and Rogers plays the part of a hobo. "The Midlanders," featuring Bessie Love, is the other big attraction. This is a colorful romance of the Mississippi valley. A comedy and the International News complete the bill.

THE STRAND

June Elvidge is seen to particular advantage in "Fine Feathers," the spectacular story, a most interesting one and Miss Elvidge and the others of an all-star cast reflect real screen talent.
William Russell never fails to please and his work in "The Cheater Reformer" ranks with his best efforts. The comedy and Weekly are also good.
Don't forget that "It's Always Cool and Comfortable" at the Strand. One thousand seats at 10 cents each. It's money well spent these hot, sultry days.

STILLMAN SURRENDERS TO CAMERA

James A. Stillman took elaborate precautions to prevent the news photographers from snapping his picture when he went to court at Poughkeepsie, N. Y., to testify in his suit for divorce. He entered the building by a cellar passage leading through the boiler room, and he tried to get out unseen through an alley. But the camera men were too fast for him so he finally gave up and posed. Here's the picture.

BONAPARTE LAID AT REST PROMINENT MEN FOUND GUILTY OF RIOTING

Impressive Ceremonies at Baltimore Cathedral—Eulogy by Fr. Hafey

BALTIMORE, July 1.—Preceded by a brief service for the family at the country home where he died last Tuesday, a high requiem mass was sung over the body of Charles J. Bonaparte, former secretary of the navy, and former attorney general, at the cathedral here yesterday. The Rev. William Hafey was the celebrant of the mass and he also delivered a brief and eloquent eulogy.

Rear Admiral William L. Rogers and Commander William J. Rowell represented the navy department. Representatives of all classes of the people of Baltimore filled the edifice.

The honorary pall bearers were chosen from Mr. Bonaparte's associates of the local bar and the trustees of the Catholic university of Washington of which he also was a trustee. Interment was in Loudon Park cemetery.

D'ANNUNZIO ADHERENTS REORGANIZING FORCES

ROME, July 1.—Captain Gabriele d'Annunzio's adherents are reorganizing their forces into a contingent which will respond to any emergency which arises here. The war cry has gone out to former followers of the poet-soldier, and they are congregating here and have already organized a body called the "Servicio Trieste." d'Annunzio has sent out a message to his legionaries saying:

"This year is ours. It belongs to the legionaries and the Arditi and we again consecrate ourselves in one vast and solemn bond."

ROCKLAND, Me., July 1.—Ralph Starbuck, Harold Davis, Hartwell Davis and Virgil Weston of Friendship pleaded "not guilty" in the municipal court yesterday to the charge of participating in an alleged riot in Friendship Saturday night, and waived examination.

Judge Frank B. Miller rendered a verdict of "guilty" and sentenced the men to three months in jail, in addition to a fine of $250, the jail sentence to be doubled in default of payment. An appeal was taken and bail was furnished.

Mr. Starratt is postmaster of Friendship and the other young men belong to leading families. The alleged riot consisted of the smashing of a window of Mrs. Estelle Simmons' residence following an assault and battery trial in which the family had figured.

Citizens of Friendship to the number of 200 held an indignation meeting yesterday and addressed resolutions to Municipal Judge Frank Miller, in which it is denied that there has been any riot in the town and declaring that the trouble is due solely to unreasonable prejudice.

Difficulties arising between Mrs. Simmons and the Friendship Baseball association has been productive of litigation for more than 10 years, it was stated.

TO DUPLICATE BLOWS USED BY DEMP AND CARP

BENTON HARBOR, Mich., July 1.—Benton harbor fight followers probably will get a more realistic description of the international argument between Jack Dempsey and Georges Carpentier than anyone not actually at Boyle's Thirty Acres at Jersey City, for they will see a world's champion duplicating every blow delivered by Dempsey, with another fighter taking the part of Carpentier as the returns are received over a special wire from the New Jersey ring.

Benny Leonard, lightweight champion, here to defend his title against Sallor Freedman of Chicago Monday, will play Dempsey's part, and his brother, Charley Leonard, will duplicate Carpentier's moves.

MISSING TWO DECADES Men Like Water—Inasmuch as They Seek Their Own Levels

Man Identifies Body of "Wooley Jim, the Outlaw," As That Of His Father

PONCA CITY, Okla., July 1.—When Frank Thompson entered a carnival show here to view the remains of a man designated as "Wooley Jim, the outlaw," he experienced a shock. He identified the body as that of his father who had disappeared nearly two decades ago.

The body was bought by the carnival, according to the manager, from a Muskogee undertaker who claimed to have kept it 18 years in an effort to identify it after it was found on a freight train.

Thompson asked that the body be returned to him.

"FATHER OF DRY CELL" IS DEAD

LOS ANGELES, July 1.—Dr. Harry Barringer Cox, 57, noted electrical scientist, died yesterday. Known internationally as the "father of the dry cell," he contributed many electrical inventions to science, including the submarine signal system for coast defense, the electric push button, a system of wireless telegraphy using the ground instead of the air, and the device later incorporated in the railway block safety system.

In 1919 he announced the invention of an apparatus by which natural elements of the air could be converted into radio activity. Efforts to use radio and radio activity to save the life of the research worker who delved deeply into this field, failed. Death was due to a malady of the throat.

BY RUTH AGNES ABELING
That he was tired of "living with his equals" is what Mrs. Fifi Stillman is quoted as having said of her husband.

Men, like water, seek their own level. And, like water, they find it. You've watched it work out many a time, right in your own group of friends.

There was Alice for instance—Alice with the soft brown hair and the fine intelligent brown eyes; her fondness for good literature and her love of all things dainty.

Alice said when she married George that she knew they'd get along beautifully because they were so different. But the trouble of it was their difference kept increasing as their wedding day was put farther and farther behind them, until finally it seemed to build an insurmountable barrier.

Alice wanted to read, evenings sometimes she tried to read aloud to George. But George was restless. He wanted to go out with the crowd, seek out a jazz place, and dance.

Alice wanted to see only the best dramas; George couldn't appreciate anything without lively music and girls.

Alice liked plain, but well cut clothes; George wanted a great deal of flash and splurge.

And so it went. George was, as Alice had confided to her friends, before marriage, different, so different that soon he began to seek a place that was a little bit more like his own. And Alice herself was restless under the constant friction of tastes.

And pretty soon the inevitable came, they went their separate ways. As man and water will—they sought their own levels.

STANDARD OIL CO. CONFIRMS REPORT

NEW YORK, July 1.—Officials of the Standard Oil Co. of New Jersey today confirmed reports that that company had notified the shipping board it would no longer include Mexican Crude Oil in contract shipments, but would substitute American oil therefor. The company has contracts to supply the board with 13,000,000 barrels of fuel oil.

The change, it was said, resulted from the new Mexican oil taxes scheduled to go into effect today, which the company characterized as confiscatory.

WILL DEFY DEATH TO EXPLORE LAND OF ICE

BOSTON, July 1.—Donald Baxter MacMillan, noted explorer, with four of the five members of a hand-picked crew will sail out of Boston harbor Saturday afternoon aboard the "Dowd", 88-feeter, on the first leg of an expedition to Baffin Land. At the final jumping off place in Wisconsin, Me., toward the middle of next month the crew will be completed and the MacMillan expedition, seventh which the commander has taken part in, will be on its way.

MacMillan Tells Plans

The objects of the expedition, and its hazards, the hopes of its commander and the preparations and plans which have been so carefully made for the comfort of the crew were told by the explorer to a reporter last evening at the City club, where MacMillan is staying preparatory to the start. The expedition will be under the auspices of the MacMillan Arctic association, a society of the explorer's friends. Much of the work planned is on behalf of the Carnegie Institute.

No relief party has been arranged for. The Bowdoin's crew expects to do the work it will set out to accomplish within one year, and will be provisioned for two years. If failure comes instead of success, "for there will be no turning back," this sturdy New Englander declares there are strong possibilities that MacMillan and five others will perish, giving their lives for science in the frigid lands of the Arctic.

Two Boston men will be included in the party, comparative youngsters just out of college, and "green men" as Arctic travelers. Both are observers. One is Richard H. Goddard, graduate of Dartmouth this year; the other, Dawson Howell, Trinity college, '17, who has been trained at the Carnegie Institute, Washington, as an observer in terrestrial magnetism.

Others of the party, besides Commander MacMillan, include J. C. Small of Provincetown, who will be mate of the Bowdoin, a companion of MacMillan's on the 1912 trip and again on the four-year expedition from 1913 to 1917, and Harold Whitehouse of Booth-bay, Me., the engineer, and Thomas McCus of Briggs, N. F., the cook.

"The objects of the expedition," said MacMillan, "are to explore the western shores of Baffin Land for 1000 miles, all unknown country, and 150,000 sq. miles of the interior. Also to make observations in terrestrial magnetism for the re-discovery of the North Magnetic Pole, which was discovered by Sir James Ross 80 years ago."

In answer to queries, the explorer explained the difference between the North Magnetic Pole and the North Pole that is generally known as the one discovered by Peary. The former, he said, is the point toward which all compasses tip and is located at 70 degrees north latitude and 90 degrees west longitude. The latter is the end of the earth's axis at 90 degrees north.

"Provisions for six men for one year will be taken, generally speaking," declared MacMillan. "However, two years' supplies in flour, coal, oil, and dehydrated vegetables will be carried. When those are gone"—he paused, but without any display of pessimism—"we must rely on birds' eggs, seal meat, walrus, caribou and the like. At all events we'll get our meats in the north region from the game of that country."

After leaving Boston, the Bowdoin and her little party will head for Portland, there to take on oil, and from there to Wisconsin. Final supplies will be put aboard there, and on July 16 the expedition will bid farewell to the United States, and head toward the regions of snow and ice and low temperatures.

IF YOU ARE WELL BRED

In laying covers for dinner you will place the forks at the left of the plate and the knives and spoons at the right. Times of the forks should always be up and should be placed that the fork at the outside is the one used for the first course.

You will never put one plate on another as you finish eating. If an empty plate is in the way and there is no one to remove it simply move it to the side.

DROPPED $50,000,000

Gullible Investors Fell for Considerable Fake Movie Stock During 1920

NEW YORK, July 1.—Fake movie stock gobbled up $50,000,000 from gullible investors during 1920, says a report by the National Association of the Motion Picture Industry, which has a vigilance committee trying to stamp out promoters of wildcat film companies.

Hundreds of such companies, often organized by men who did not even know the difference between a cut-back and a close-up, not to mention the distinction between an ordinary platonic kiss and the lingering fade-away, were trumpeted by stock salesmen who pointed to great financial achievements by well-known film makers as an assurance that investors would soon receive gobs of dividend checks, the report indicated.

But the investigating committee discovered that most of these wildcat schemes died without leaving a foot of film to posterity. It then started a campaign of warning to the public.

This, the association claims, has been successful.

"The danger of this sort of investment has been called to the public's attention with such force," its statement said, "that very few, if any, producing companies have attempted to sell stock within the past six months."

PEACE TIME VALUE OF RADIO COMPASS

WASHINGTON, July 1.—A remarkable demonstration of the peace-time value of the radio compass, a war development, was furnished during the recent passage of the battleship Division Five of the Atlantic fleet from Hampton Roads to Boston, according to an announcement at the navy department.

The entire voyage was made in a heavy fog and navigation all the way was accomplished by shore radio compass stations, submarine bells and soundings, not a light or fixed aid to navigation being sighted on the trip.

"From the time departure was taken until Boston lights were seen, not a light vessel or lighthouse was seen," says a report from Vice-Admiral H. P. Jones, commanding the battleship force. "The fog was so dense that during most of the passage the ships astern of the division flagship were invisible. Had it not been for the radio compass situation, the arrival of battleship division five would have been greatly delayed. This practical demonstration of radio direction finding is a clear indication of the military value of radio compass stations and of the necessity for continued development along this line."

Radio compass stations have now been established along the coasts so that vessels at sea in foggy weather can communicate with the stations and in a few minutes establish their correct position. About 7500 ships now receive the service each month, it was announced.

ASKS FOR REPORTS OF ALL LAUNDRIES IN STATE

BOSTON, July 1.—Clerks at the offices of the commission on the necessities of life, at the state house, were busy yesterday sending out to all the laundries in the state requests for full information on their costs and their charges for service, and for any other information which will enable the commission to decide whether or not the public is paying too much for its laundry service.

In all, 150 letters were sent out in which Commissioner Hittman not only asks for information, but suggests that the prices charged throughout the state, as shown by an inquiry already completed by the commission, are "practically uniform," and that an investigation appears advisable. This is generally considered by officials at the state house to be an intimation of the possibility of conspiracy among the laundry owners, who are known to be closely organized.

The importance of this lies in the fact that while there is now no law, federal or state, against profiteering at the expense of the public, there is one against a conspiracy to maintain prices. The letter sent to the laundry men, however, only asks for information, a price list for laundry work in 1920 and 1921, and comparative costs of various elements entering into the service, such as labor, fuel, washroom supplies, boxes, paper, twine, etc., cost of delivery, service and "other items."

Commissioner Hittman, however, has made it plain that he intends to give the laundry owners every opportunity of meeting the situation voluntarily by a reduction in charges or by satisfactory proof that their present charges are fair on a basis of the cost of the service rendered. At the meeting of the commission held yesterday it is understood that some members urged immediate action in the form of a public hearing, but that Mr. Hittman insisted on following the precedent of the case of the Brockton coal dealers, where they were first given opportunity to justify their prices or to meet them.

It is expected that a decision as to future action will be made at the meeting July 12.

CARNEGIE ESTATE WORTH $25,933,014

NEW YORK, July 1.—The state controller's office yesterday appraised the estate of Andrew Carnegie at $25,933,014 gross and $22,151,011 net. The principal items are securities valued at $17,543,553.

Louise Whitfield Carnegie, the widow, was the chief beneficiary, receiving a total of $11,335,847. The Carnegie corporation of New York was bequeathed $10,662,550.

The will, which was made public in August, 1915, stated that Mr. Carnegie had made ample provisions in his lifetime for his daughter, Margaret Carnegie Miller, and provided that if she survived her mother, she would receive the principal of a trust fund of $1,443,750.

This trust fund, the appraisal revealed, was formed by the iron master with provisions that the income should be paid to himself for life, at his death to Mrs. Carnegie, and when she died, their daughter should receive the principal absolutely. The trust was so arranged that the principal could not be taken either by Mr. Carnegie or his wife while they lived.

HISTORY REPEATS ITSELF—IN PERIOD CLOTHES

BY ALICE ROHR
NEW YORK, July 1.—Period clothes, like period furniture, seem to be the final punctuation mark in fashions. History repeats itself in hats for the coming fall and winter. Already Joseph is showing the D'Arctagnan or the Musketeer hat of the historic period immortalized by Dumas in "The Three Musketeers." In these revivals there is apt to be a theatre background. While we scarcely look to Doug Fairbanks as an inspiration in ladies' styles, his appearing in "The Three Musketeers" has had something to do with the adaptation of this hat, which combines all the attractive features of a picturesque period of history with the practical. For every well dressed woman feels that she must have a black velvet hat in her wardrobe. The Musketeer hat, now on showing for fall, is simple in outline with the broad brim turned up on one side and a long plume curling around the crown and falling over the brim.

DECLARES JUDGE TOO IMPERIAL CONFERENCE LENIENT TO AUTOISTS

BOSTON, July 1.—Chief of Police Edward Leavitt of Ipswich will bring no more automobilists before the district court in that town because he believes that Judge George W. Hayes does not impose sufficiently severe penalties for violations of the automobile laws and town ordinances.

Chief Leavitt made this statement yesterday at a hearing before the department of public works, and said that in the future he will call automobile offenders before him and warn them that he will turn their cases over to the registrar of motor vehicles if they fail to comply with the law.

The hearing was on an appealed case of Lawrence P. Dodge, a Boston business man living in Newbury, who was notified by Registrar Frank A. Goodwin that his license has been suspended after a review of charges of speeding brought by Chief Leavitt.

According to testimony at yesterday's hearing, Dodge was discharged by Judge Hayes in the Ipswich court after a hearing on complaint of Chief Leavitt of driving at the rate of 35 to 35 miles an hour on the North Shore road from Hampton beach to Boston.

Chief Leavitt testified that of 19 cases of auto speeding before the Ipswich court in the past three weeks 12 of the defendants were let go with either 12 days or after their cases had been placed on file. In some of these cases, he said, the charge was that the automobile was being driven at 50 to 55 miles an hour.

Judge Hayes who was present at the hearing, told the commission that he took the word of Dodge that he was not exceeding the speed limit, against that of the police officer on the ground that it was up to the prosecuting officers to prove their cases conclusively.

John J. O'Connor, the police officer who made the complaint, said that according to his speedometer, Dodge was exceeding the speed limit, but Chairman John N. Cole of the public works department, after questioning the officer, said the testimony of O'Connor was not conclusive.

Chief Leavitt said Judge Hayes had only infrequently asked for his advice as to the filing of cases.

"I found," he said, "that the cases went along better for the prosecution when I did not object to filing," and he then declared that hereafter he will call in the offenders and warn them of his intention to turn their cases over to Registrar Goodwin.

Co. will shut down all its departments tonight, while the greater portion of the Hoots mills will also suspend work tonight. Most of the machinery of the Tremont & Suffolk mills will stop tonight, the remainder to operate until tomorrow noon. The Massachusetts and Appleton will keep on working until tomorrow noon.

IMPERIAL CONFERENCE

Final Discussion for Present on Question of Renewing Anglo-Japanese Treaty

LONDON, July 1. (By the Associated Press).—The imperial conference met again today for what it was hoped would prove to be the final discussion for the present of the question of renewing the Anglo-Japanese treaty.

A whole week has been consumed in the consideration of this question and the cases for an against renewal of the treaty have been stated with a frankness which is believed to be responsible for the government's refusal to publish the accounts of the proceedings. Some of the dominion premiers let it be known early in the discussion that they had not come to London to be treated "like schoolboys," as in pre-war days, and told by the "elder statesmen" of Downing street just what they should do.

The course taken by the representatives of the dominions at this conference was to state their cases with force and feeling and to controvert arguments advanced by Premier Lloyd George, Lord Curzon, the foreign minister, A. J. Balfour and other members of the British cabinet when the views of the London ministers were at variance with their own.

MAY BEAT JUNE ONE IN "JAG" CONTEST

The number of drunkenness arrests in Lowell has decreased! It wasn't so much of a decrease, however. During May there were 143 arrests, while June's record shows only 142. This is the first time that there has not been a jump since the first of the year. Maybe the bootleggers are going on their summer vacation. Anyhow, here's the official summary for the present year, displaying an unbroken climb, until last month's tally was made by Probation Officer Slattery:

January, 27 men and 7 women. Total, 104.
February, 115 men and 10 women. Total, 126.
March, 116 men and 10 women. Total, 126.
April, 122 men and 9 women. Total, 131.
May, 131 men and 12 women. Total, 143.
June, 125 men and 7 women. Total, 142.

Grand total for the first half of 1921: 772 drunkenness arrests.

Rev. Sister St. Ambrose received her early education in this city. Last March she left Lowell for Levis, where she entered the convent of the Missionary Sisters of Africa, and she took the holy habit a short time ago. She is expected to sail for Algeria, Africa, where she will complete her studies.

Hultman Urges Proceedings in Behalf of Mass. to Test Recent Penn. Law

BOSTON, July 1.—Proceedings in behalf of the commonwealth of Massachusetts to test the constitutionality of recent Pennsylvania laws which impose taxes on coal mined in that state and intended for shipment elsewhere, were recommended to Attorney General J. Weston Allen today by Eugene C. Hultman, state fuel administrator.

The taxes, the fuel administrator contends, would increase the cost to consumers in this state from 20 to 40 cents a ton. The attorney general was asked to consider also whether injunction proceedings might be brought by this state to restrain enforcement of the laws.

The motor chemical from Rockland, playing from an artificial pond, saved a further spread of fire. The loss on the building and contents was about $3500.

EXONERATED OF BLAME IN AUTO ACCIDENT

(Special to The Sun.) STATE HOUSE, Boston, July 1.—Fred H. Gilman of 12 E street, Lowell, has been exonerated of blame in connection with the automobile accident in which he was involved April 23, and which resulted in the death of Antonine St. George of Lowell.

Frank A. Goodwin, registrar of motor vehicles, has made a thorough investigation of all the circumstances attending the accident, and as a result of what he learned, has made a finding that the accident "occurred without serious fault on the part of the operator." Accordingly Gilman's license to operate as a chauffeur, suspended immediately after the accident, has been reinstated and returned to him.

The registrar has revoked both the operator's license and the automobile registration certificate of Ralph S. Gross of 205 Branch street, Lowell. This drastic action was taken because he learned that on June 15 Gross was convicted in the court at Palmer on a charge of operating while under the influence of liquor, and paid a fine of $100.

"CHINA AFTER THE WAR"

Comparison of Transportation Roadways in U. S. and China

PEKING, July 1.—President Hsu Shih-chang, discussing railways in his book recently issued, "China After the War," recites that China has 21 railway lines with a total mileage of about 7000, whereas the United States, with an area about the same as China, and with only one-fourth of the population, has 226,000 miles of railway, or sixty times as much. "Many of our lines," he continues, "were at first built with foreign capital. The diversity of foreign interests, has made it impossible to lay out our lines according to some comprehensive plan for the whole country. Such being the case part of the capital seems to have been invested in unimportant routes while many more important regions are without modern means of communication."

"Since the first construction of railways in China, 10 years ago, no less than $500,000,000 has been expended; yet trunk lines are found only north of the Yangtze river and east of Honan province, leaving the great plains to the south and west practically untraversed. This not only hinders the proper industrial development of the country, but it also sows the seeds of future international complications. Therefore in the interests of all concerned arrangements should be modified so as to preclude undesirable possibilities."

"In ancient China well constructed courier roads used to radiate from the metropolis to the provincial capitals and from these to other cities of the country. There were more than 50,000 miles of roads, but nowadays few of them are fit for traveling."

"The United States alone has more than 2,000,000 miles of highways."

"Sometime ago the ministry of interior promulgated a set of regulations for construction of highways. The program was an ambitious one. Although it is not easy to carry it out, a good beginning will have been made if the old courier roads are reconstructed so that there will be 10,000 miles of good modern roads radiating from the national capital and another 50,000 miles radiating from the provincial capitals."

"The mileage of rivers navigable by Chinese junks is over 20,000, and waterways navigable by steamers and steam launches another 1000 or 2000."

"As to telegraph lines, we have at present not more than 10,000 miles, whereas in the United States there are 1,629,000 miles. The proportion is therefore as 1 to 40."

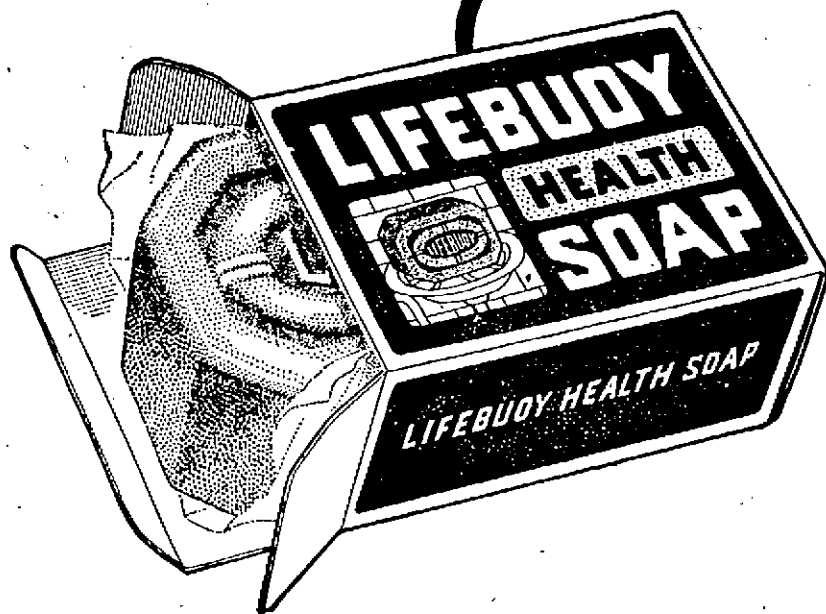

"Such then is the industrial backwardness of China. In order to remedy the situation we need to establish a stable government, revise the taxation system, encourage technical skill and get together a larger amount of capital. Above all the people should be taught to have a knowledge of international conditions, social, political and above all economical."

ASK PRES. HARDING TO SPARE THE OWL

WASHINGTON, July 1.—The owls can live. The John Burroughs club jury appointed by President Harding when visiting the White House some time ago to consider the question, says so and the jury so reported today in a memorandum filed by the youngsters with George B. Christian, Jr., the president's secretary. The finding of the jury is based upon the club's investigation and upon hundreds of briefs filed with the American Forestry association for the club from every section of the country.

"These briefs took up every phase of owl values as pest destroyers to their fabled influence on the lives of human beings. Some of the writers called upon President Harding to get rid of the owls at once if there are any in the White House grounds and predicted all kinds of bad luck for his administration. The John Burroughs club, however, considered only the economic value of the owls, for the question put to them by 'Judge' Harding was in regard to birds that preyed on other birds being allowed to live."

"The finding of the jury as filed at the White House today follows: 'In spite of the fact that these birds destroy others of their own ilk, they have to their credit and in defence of their lives the fact that they are of much economic value and have certain other qualities in their favor. 'We shall take for instance, the crow, whose value in lessening the number of harmful insects was so great that for a long time scientists working for the government were unable to say whether his bad acts counterbalanced his good deeds. 'Next we take the great horned owl, whose bad habits are well known, but even he kills rats, mice and other rodents. 'Finally we come to the coopers and sharp-shinned hawks, who, especially the coopers hawk, have brought wrath and hate upon the heads of even the less destructive birds of prey of the country. 'But then, can we convict a whole class of God's creatures because a few have been known to slaughter their own kind? Can that inexorable law of nature, 'the survival of the fittest,' which has been since the world began be broken by us who owe so much to it, even unto our very existence? Do we put a sentence of death on all bears because a few have been known to eat domestic animals? We kill them if we know they are guilty, that is all. If we destroy the feathered murderer we must also pass sentence on the parasitic vine, which encircles and saps the life from the sturdy forest tree! 'Nay, it is not for us to do these things, if it were God's will they should perish, it would be unnecessary for us to pit our puny selves against the countless flocks of our nation, therefore we, the John Burroughs club of Force school, wish to state to His Honor, the President of the United States, sitting as a judge in this case, that these birds should not die, but should be allowed to remain alive in their native haunts, with no legislative sentence hanging, a dread menace, over their heads. Signed: Harold V. T. Roach, Edward H. Tindell, Esther J. Rogers, Charles Keene Jr., Hamilton Bradley, Dorothy Sheekels, Merrill K. Clementson and James B. Bradley."

PLANS FOR RELIEF OF HOUSING SHORTAGE

CHICAGO, Ill., July 1.—Plans for relief of the housing shortage will be taken up at the annual convention of the National Association of Real Estate boards, convening here July 12. New federal tax legislation to stimulate building will be considered.

President Harding, in a recent conference with Fred B. Taylor, of Portland, Ore., president of the association, said he wished to send a message touching on economic problems. Herbert Hoover, secretary of commerce, who has been studying the housing situation and who will have in his department a bureau to investigate and make public building costs and labor wages, will address the convention. Senator William M. Calder, of New York, chairman of a senate committee which has been conducting hearings in reference to the housing and building situation, has accepted an invitation to lay some specific recommendations for legislation to help relieve the housing shortage before the convention. Charles T. Moffett, of Minneapolis, member of the national tax conference, and other nationally known tax experts are on the program.

Twenty topical conferences on specific subjects will be held the forenoon of July 13 and 14 in place of the usual

MORE ARRESTS BY LIQUOR SQUAD IN PROSPECT

More arrests by the local liquor raiding squad are said to be in prospect within the coming few days, as the result of evidence secured when officers recently descended on two Summer street places, and on premises at Sullivan's court. At one of the establishments on Summer street, it is stated, drinks were being served merrily, quite in pre-prohibition fashion. Headlong flight by occupants heralded the advent of Officers Cooney, Winn, Clark, Kivian, O'Sullivan, and Moore, the members of the vice and liquor squads who participated in the raids. All of these officers have been engaged at the superior court at Cambridge during the past few days, but renewed activity in ferreting out local bootleggers is promised when the liquor cases appealed from the local police court have been disposed by the higher court. Sensational developments, perhaps involving a number of local individuals, may be forthcoming, it is rumored.

MISSING MAN LOCATED

Peter Marshall, missing from his Graniteville residence since June 4, was found unconscious and suffering from a broken leg yesterday in Lawrence. The man, who is 55 years of age, left his home stating he was bound for Cambridge or Haverhill. He failed, however, to arrive at either place or to return, and word was sent out to the police of surrounding cities and towns. Yesterday news arrived at local police headquarters to the effect that Marshall was at the Tewksbury infirmary, suffering from a broken leg.

"For civil business, at Lowell, on the first Mondays of April and October, and at Cambridge, on the first Mondays of January, February, March, April, May, June, October, November, and December of each year, and at Lowell, on the first Monday of March and on the Tuesday after the first Monday of September of each year." The notice is based on the Acts of 1921, Chapter 27. These go into effect July 25, of the current year, and are said to place the courts of Middlesex county on the same basis as those of Suffolk county.

VALUABLE HORSE SHOT
Agent Charles Richardson of the Lowell Humane society was forced to shoot a valuable chestnut horse, property of D. W. Murphy, of Charles street, after the animal had slipped last night about 10:30 o'clock at a watering trough in Hosford square, and fractured its left hind leg. Thomas Dalton, son-in-law of the owner of the horse, was driving it when, after drinking at the trough, the animal slipped on the pavement and fell.

MATRIMONIAL MIXUP PUZZLES POLICE

A most complicated question arose in the local police court this morning, when Herve St. Marie and Addie Fisher appeared on charges of improper conduct. According to counsel for the woman, she had been granted a divorce decree nisi, and later went through the marriage form with another man at Nashua, N. H. However, it is understood that she could not legally contract a marriage at the time, as the divorce proceedings had not progressed far enough. Her counsel explained that she did not secure the license for this second marriage, but that the man who went through the form with her did so, specifying that it was her first plunge into the sea of matrimony. This man was with Officers Cooney, Clark and Prawlley, when they descended on a Hastings street abode, and it is stated, arrested the woman in company with a third man.

The case was held over until Wednesday, in order to ascertain exactly what is the matrimonial status of the woman, as the specific charge lodged against her does not hold if she is in fact married at the present time, and a new charge will have to be made. If she was not legally and completely divorced before she went through the marriage ceremony at Nashua with another man, she is not married now, and the present charge stands. But if she was legally single when she contracted a second alliance, it is understood that the second marriage was valid and she is now married, and may be charged with another offense only applicable to married persons. The numerous phases of the matter may be cleared up by Wednesday, when the defendants will again come before the court.

REMOVING TREE LIMBS

The heavy downpour of the past few days has overburdened the limbs and branches of many trees in the city with moisture and has caused them either to fall to the ground or to hang in a dangerous condition. Employees of the park department were engaged today in removing the broken limbs. Among the places where limbs have given way under the weight of moisture on the leaves are the following: 68 Mt. Washington street, 277 Summer street, Middlesex street in Middlesex Village, Stevens street, Fairmount street, Mammoth road and Mt. Hope st.

WHAT ABOUT

Meat

It must be confusing to the housewife to determine what she should pay for meats, especially now, because there are so many prices advertised, all of us claiming the finest quality.

The summer months is the time when cattle and lambs are turned out to feed themselves mostly on grass. Grass is not as good feed as corn by a long way, because it does not give the nourishment. So that we now have corn-fed meat and grass-fed meat, the latter being much cheaper in price.

World's Greatest Bridge to Span Hudson

This is how the world's largest bridge will look when completed. It is to connect New York City with New Jersey, running from 57th street, New York, to Weehawken. An office building, 350 by 400 feet, will be built as shown on the New York end. Vehicles will pass through a span 135 feet wide and 60 high. Two side arches for pedestrians and trolley cars will be 45 feet wide. On a lower deck will be 12 railroad tracks. G. Lindenthal is chief engineer and chief architect of the project.

BIG OUTING FOR ORPHANS

The orphans of this city, boys and girls, who will not be out of town Wednesday, July 20, will be given a bang-up time by the members of the Lowell Rotary club, who will entertain them at an outing to be held on the Martin Luther grounds in Tyngsboro. Nothing is being spared to make the event a notable one for the little folks and according to present plans they will be given a day of pleasure that they will not soon forget. Every orphanage in town has been visited by members of the committee and except in one or two cases where the children will be out of town on the date of the outing, committee members were assured that the children would be on hand for the big event.

The committee which is composed of Harry Pitts, chairman; William A. Mitchell, Harry G. Pollard, Alvah H. Weaver and Thomas Lees, held a meeting this morning to complete arrangements and according to a statement issued at the close of the meeting, the orphans of Lowell will be treated like princes on July 20. First of all it was stated that arrangements are being made for the accommodation of 528 children and 35 sisters and matrons, who will come from the following homes: St. Peter's orphanage, French-American orphanage, Ayer home and O'Leary home. About 100 automobiles will be needed to transport the excursionists to the outing grounds and members of the club have volunteered the use of their cars for the occasion, for although the affair is in the hands of a special committee, it is said every Rotarian is lending a hand.

Automobiles will go to St. Peter's orphanage, O'Leary home and Ayer home and at 11:30 o'clock all the machines will meet in front of the French-American orphanage in Pawtucket street, where a parade will be formed, headed by a brass band. The cars, with their happy youngsters, will be driven through Pawtucket street to Merrimack, to Central, to Middlesex and to the Princeton boulevard as far as North Chelmsford and then over the Nashua road as far as the outing grounds.

The wives of the Rotarians will also accompany the children and it is understood that each man and woman are to act as father and mother to the little ones they carry in their respective machines. Upon reaching the grounds the little guests will be treated to lollipops and tinsies and in the afternoon they will be entertained at a basket luncheon. In the course of the afternoon Punch and Judy shows will be given, magicians will perform and there will also be a number of pleasing juvenile acts. Through the courtesy of the park department arrangements have been made to transport some of the playground paraphernalia such as swings, etc. to the outing grounds for the day and instructors from the city playgrounds will be on hand to help in the entertainment of the little folks. The grounds will also be well policed during the afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Bill have donated enough popcorn for the event to keep the little ones nibbling all day, while 600 Moxie lollipops have also been secured. John McDougall, local representative for the Murray company of Boston, will supply 3000 drinks of the company's famous orangeade, with cups, and in addition there will be 20 cases of Moxie, so it is fair to assume that the children will not go dry. Each child will be supplied with a tag with his or her name on it so that the committee will be able to determine who is who. The homeward trip will be started at 5 o'clock, and the party will return via the Pawtucket boulevard.

IRISH SEND MESSAGES TO HARDING AND LODGE

BOSTON, July 1.—The state director of the Massachusetts council, A. A. R. R., yesterday discussed plans for the celebration of the Fourth of July, and John F. Harrigan, state president, sent the following telegram to President Harding and Senator Lodge:

"To Hon. Warren G. Harding.—On the eve of July 4, when we celebrate the greatest event in the world's history, the recognition of and adhesion to the fundamental truth of human liberty, no greater tribute to our forefathers and to the traditions and ideals which have made our country great can be offered to America and to the world than that, by the official recognition by our nation of the Irish republic, we are devoted to the great principles set forth in the Declaration of Independence.

"We urge you to heed this plea for justice to Ireland from American citizens. Thereby you place yourself on a plane with Washington, Jefferson, Webster, Franklin, Patrick Henry, Samuel Adams, Abraham Lincoln and all the other great Americans whose devotion to liberty has assured perpetuation to our great institutions and hope to all struggling and oppressed peoples.

"John F. Harrigan, state president."

"To Hon. Henry Cabot Lodge.—Massachusetts Council, American Association for the Recognition of the Irish Republic, representing more than 140,000 citizens of the old Bay State, urges immediate hearing and action on the Norris resolution, No. 26, on Irish atrocities and right of Ireland to recognition. No better opportunity than on the eve of July 4 is afforded America to prove her sympathy to our great principles of liberty.

"John F. Harrigan, state president."

GRADUATION EXERCISES

Wood's Business College Graduates Big Class—Exercises in Associate Hall

Six hundred people attended the graduation exercises of Wood's business college which were held last evening in the Associate hall. Miss Alice Marie Heslin, vice president of the class, gave the salutatory address in which she took for her subject the class motto: "Aiming to Reach the Goal." There were fifty-four graduates in all.

The principal speaker of the evening was R. McManis, Boston manager of the Gregg Publishing company. The part of his address which contains the kernel of his thought follows: "Keep working conscientiously and with a will for what you want to be and success will surely follow. Progress is made step by step, keep faith. The business man grows as he goes. The graduate still has a world to learn for he now faces the world of human beings. To understand those with whom you come in contact is the greatest thing in life. It is success. The next time you face a mirror look into your soul and ask, 'Am I the man I should be?' The greatest discovery in the world is the discovery of oneself. Have confidence in yourself and the business man will have confidence in you. If you haven't it, get it. Do not let your studies and with your graduation; the man who studies progresses. You are now going out to make good. Work—and your success is assured."

The class gift, a beautiful picture of the capitol at Washington, was presented to the school by Henry Edward Blackburn, president of the class, and was accepted on behalf of the institution by Principal Elliot F. Wood. Mr. Wood then presented the prizes which consisted of silver key-rings and certificates for proficiency in typewriting. In the day class the first prize went to Miss Madeline A. Paradis, and the second award to Miss Helen J. Meehan. The awards in the evening division were: Miss Ruth J. MacLean, first; Miss Anna M. Lawler, second; and Miss Dora C. Marchand, third. The winners in the typewriting contest were announced as follows: Madeline A. Paradis, 66 words per minute; Mary F. Cullinan, 53; Alice M. Boyle, 49; William J. Dore, 48; Cecile M. Desmarais, 47; Margaret M. Murphy, 45; Florence M. Gleason, 42; Alice M. Heslin, 41; Elizabeth B. Wallace, 41; and Helen G. Clifford, 40.

A short speech of congratulation was then given by Mayor Harry D. Thompson, after which Mr. Honor presented the diplomas. The names of the graduates have already been published in these columns.

IMPROVEMENT ASSOCIATION

Plans for the formation of an improvement association for the Centralville district were discussed at a meeting held last evening at the Centralville M. E. church. Invitations to attend the meeting had been sent out by the pastor of the church, Rev. Karl P. Meister, and several residents of the district responded. After considerable discussion it was voted to hold a public meeting at the Greenhalze school next Wednesday night at 7:30 o'clock and the residents of Centralville who are interested in the advancement of their district are invited to be present. Those who spoke at last evening's meeting were Rev. Mr. Meister, Thos. R. Delaney, George H. Taylor and A. L. Hiser.

An investigation will be made into conditions at his home.

"My father looks me in the morning," said the little chap, whose teachers at the school he attends declare he is one of their brightest pupils. "and he says he'll give me more when I get home. He hung me up by the feet and wouldn't let my mother take me down. My mother had to give me something to eat while he wasn't looking." The little fellow said that he didn't mind his sleeping quarters in one of the conduits used for sewer repairs, preferring this location to his home. But when it grew chilly the other night, he said "it was pretty cold sleeping in that pipe." He had for food hot dogs purchased in lunch carts with pennies given him by kind-hearted people, he told his new-found protectors. He has run away from home several times. "This time father will kill me," he declared, and asked that some one hide him if his parent should come around.

MESSANGER SHOT, SAFE SEIZED

Safe Thrown Off Near Cov-

Messenger Found Shot
Through Hip and Leg Under Pile of Packages

Man Found Beating His Way On Train Shot During Search

DANVILLE, Ill., July 1.—Big Four passenger train No. 44 was held up early today near Covington, Ind., the messengers shot and the safe thrown from the train.

The train was robbed by two men who boarded the express car as the train started from Covington at 1:45 this morning. At Vanderburg, the first stop, 12 miles east, Frank Beckman, the express messenger, was found shot through the hip and through the leg with packages of express matter piled upon him. A steel safe weighing about 150 pounds, was slung and had been thrown off about half way between the two stops.

The robbers jumped off when the train slowed up in passing through Vanderburg.

Alexander Fortner of Indianapolis, who is said to have been beating his way on the train was shot and wounded during the search conducted after the robbery. According to police, Fortner was seen running from the train and when he refused to obey a command to halt, one of the officers opened fire. He was held pending investigation.

No Money Obtained
INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., July 1.—No money was obtained by the bandits who early this morning held up and robbed Big Four passenger train No. 44 near Covington, Ind., according to officials of the American Railway Express Co.

The robbers obtained a number of railroad bank drafts and non-negotiable securities, but there was no money in the safe, the officials said.
The bank drafts had not been completely filled out.

The officials said the safe was not thrown from the train as first reported, but left in the express car after its contents had been ridded.

NAVY WITHOUT FUNDS

Beginning of Fiscal Year Finds Senate and House Still Deadlocked on Naval Bill

WASHINGTON, July 1.—The beginning of the new fiscal year today found the senate and house still deadlocked on the annual naval appropriation bill and the navy technically without funds to "carry on." Senate leaders yesterday decided to accept the house reductions in the bill but prospects for an immediate settlement faded when they later experienced a change of heart and decided to bring the whole matter to the floor of the senate today.

With the result of this move in doubt, leaders of both houses were prepared to resort to an emergency resolution continuing appropriations of the fiscal year ending last midnight.

MAY ELECT STREET SUPERINTENDENT

One of the important matters which may come up at next Tuesday's meeting of the municipal council is the election of a superintendent of streets to succeed John B. Blessington, who is at present on a 30 days' leave of absence.

Despite reports to the contrary, executive officials at city hall insist that Mr. Blessington's resignation has been received, that they have seen it and that it is now pending in the desk of a city official pending the time that it shall be formally presented to the municipal council. They refrain from coming out openly with details of the resignation because of an agreement entered into when it was received. However, it is candidly admitted that the resignation has been received.

Commissioner Dennis A. Murphy, head of the street department, is expected to be present at Tuesday's meeting and to take part in the proceedings. Mr. Murphy has maintained a wholly uncommunicative attitude on the matter since its inception but is expected to make a statement at next week's meeting. A number of candidates for the position have been mentioned, most prominent among them being Eugene Toomey, at present storekeeper of the street department, and Henry J. Bowers of the city engineer's office.

STATE AID PAYMENTS
The following amounts were paid out today, the first of the month, at the state aid office in city hall: Soldiers' relief, $3990; state aid, $614, and military aid, $997. The total was $5601.

The first postoffice in America was opened in 1710.

Relieves Maj. Gen. March,
Who Was Given Leave
Effective Until Retirement

First Assignment to Definite
Duty Since Relinquishing
Command of A. E. F.

WASHINGTON, July 1.—General
John J. Pershing today became chief of staff of the United States Army, relieving Major General Peyton C.
March, who was given leave of absence effective until his retirement from active service in November. It was the first assignment to definite duty given the general since he relinquished command of the American Expeditionary Forces in France. Major General James G. Harbord, who

GEN. JOHN J. PERSHING

was his principal staff assistant in France, is his assistant in the new office.

Under plans approved by Secretary Weeks, General Pershing will be relieved by his assistant of all routine duties and will be free to direct the larger operations, particularly the organization and training of the national guard and civilian reserve forces, and be prepared personally to assume command of field forces in case of emergency.

HELD LADIES' AND CHILDREN'S DAY

After two postponements because of inclement weather, the ladies' and children's day of the Vesper Country club was held at the club grounds in Tyngs-boro today and despite the almost unrelenting drizzle which fell, there was a fair-sized crowd on hand to enjoy the various attractions arranged by the committee in charge.

Canvas was used in generous quantities to shelter the various attractions on the grounds, so that the could be enjoyed just as though it were a fair day. There were all sorts of amusements for the children this afternoon. This evening there will be a dinner for the adults and later general dancing will be enjoyed.

Clothesline Thieves Active valued at $2. The case was put over to July 7.

According to the story of Officer
John Murphy, who made the arrest in the small hours of this morning, he saw the man park his bicycle at the curbing near Nesmith and Rogers streets, and go behind a garage into a yard. A clothesline reel was then seen spinning around by the officer.
Murphy accosted the man as he came out again to the sidewalk, asking him what he had under his vest. The reply was: "Nothing. I'm just going home."

Officer Murphy says that he then pulled open the stranger's vest and found a pink silk garment secreted there, with four clothespins attached to it. He took the man into custody, but he was bailed out again.

The narration of the defendant varies considerably from this interpretation.
He says that while he was riding homeward from his evening's work, the garment blew against the wheels of his bicycle. He stopped to examine it, and when the officer appeared he became confused and hid it under his coat. Officer Arthur Kelley is also credited in connection with the arrest.

During the past two months complaints have been coming in at headquarters relative to losses of expensive clothing from clotheslines. The officers on the night routes have been warned to keep a careful lookout for sneak thieves, and Officer Murphy states that his suspicions were immediately aroused when he saw a bicycle parked by the sidewalk at 2:15
a. m. He says the vehicle was directly under a street light.

A woman on Huntington street reported a few days ago that two pairs of silk stockings had been taken from her yard, while another instance was reported at The Sun office about two weeks ago, when several expensive silk shirts were taken from a linen store in the Revere district. Some time ago the story of widespread clothesline deprecatations was discredited at police headquarters, but it is known, nevertheless, that several have occurred.

asked to supply the money or who will be asked to supply it in the case of the sewer loan. The bankers balk because the finance laws of 1913 say that every loan must be authorized by a two-thirds vote of the entire city government. In Lowell this would mean a fraction over three votes out of four.

Commissioners Murphy and Salmon have not attended any meetings of the city council for several weeks and inasmuch as the money under both loans will be needed at once, the other members of the council were wondering just what steps could be taken to get four votes.

STORM NETS MORE THAN THREE INCHES OF RAIN

The officials of the Locks and Canals announced this morning that the rainstorm which started Tuesday evening and which has continued intermittently until today has resulted in the second largest fall of rain in years.

The actual figures compiled at the office of the company show that 3.018 inches of moisture has fallen upon the parched earth since Old Jupia Pluvius first got busy with his watering can four days ago. Folks who were holdering for rain a week ago are now beginning to wish for a stop. Meanwhile, the farmers are joyously welcoming the downpour for it brings much needed relief to the crops, which had suffered grievously for weeks under the torrid glare of the withering sun.

At the Pawtucket dam the water stands five and a half feet above the stone part of the structure, which is quite some record, although nothing approaching the freshet proportions.
Temporary floodboards have been put into place which will hold the water in check.

PAUL KITREDGE COUNCIL

A committee from Paul Kitredge council, A.A.R.I.R., met at the home of Mrs. John O'Neill in Concord street last night to make arrangements for an automobile trip to the beach in the near future. After the business part of the meeting, refreshments were served and a general good time followed. This council is very busy and will play a prominent part in the field day which will take place under the auspices of the local council of the association in September. Mrs. Craven was elected chairman and Miss Clark secretary of the committee at last night's meeting.

LEATHER SEATS LOST

Richard S. Phillips, of Pine street, reported last night at police headquarters that two black leather seats had been taken out of the rear of his Studebaker six machine near John street, between 11 and 11:30 o'clock yesterday. The seats were found and returned to their owner. They had apparently been abandoned by the culprits.

HARRY KOPP DEFAULTED

Harry A. Kopp, charged with unlawfully conveying an automobile, failed to put in an appearance in the police court this morning when his case was called, and was defaulted by order of Judge Thomas J. Bright. A capias warrant was issued for his arrest.

Evidence Is Stricken Out or Vanzetti were peaceful and law-abiding.

Yesterday the defense introduced character witnesses for both men.
The chief of police of Plymouth and a patrolman there testified that Vanzetti was regarded as peaceful and law-abiding, and two former employers of Sacco testified similarly for him.

The district attorney objected to the character witnesses, whispering to Judge Thayer his grounds for objecting, and long conferences of counsel and court followed. The result came today when all this character testimony was ordered stricken out.

Giuseppe Andrower, a former employee of the Italian consulate at Boston, in a deposition read out by the defense today, declared that Nicola Sacco appeared at the consulate between 2 and 2:15 p. m. April 15, 1920, the day of the double murder at South Brain-tree for which Sacco and Bartolomeo Vanzetti are on trial. The murder was committed about 3 p. m.

Murder Defense Broke

DEDHAM, July 1.—Announcement that the organization defending Nicola Sacco and Bartolomeo Vanzetti, on trial for a double murder at South Braintree last year, was flat broke has brought in two days' advances of nearly three thousand dollars from Mrs. Elizabeth Glendower Evans, a wealthy resident of Brookline, who has been active in labor and social welfare work.

Fred H. Moore, chief counsel for the defendants, made known last night that Wednesday, with only one dollar left for expenses, Mrs. Evans gave him two checks totalling $1500. Yesterday she provided an additional $1250. Mrs. Corliss Carmen Jack of Waltham added her check for another $100.

The reason for the heavy drain on funds, Mr. Moore explained, was the fact that the defense was summoning its own witnesses and paying their expenses and regular fees without recourse to the court agencies available. provided the defense would give the clerk of the court the names and addresses of the persons wanted. Judge Webster Thayer made known that the court stood ready to add the defense financially if it would declare itself destitute. In that event, he said, it would approve a reasonable bill for witness fees and expenses, including a moderate amount to cover expert testimony. The law says that no blank summonses shall be issued by the court, he said.

the city from liability in case of accident or injury, had refused to accept the bond because it was not signed properly by certain officers of the company. Accordingly, the National Fireworks Co. cancelled its contracts for municipal displays all over Massachusetts and Lowell was one of the cities affected.

Mr. Gallagher immediately went to Boston and got in touch with the American Fireworks Distributing Co. and this firm agreed to furnish a display here Monday night, but it insisted that a contract between a representative of the city government and itself be drawn up rather than between Mr. Gallagher and the company. The National Co. had always been willing to do business with the city indirectly through Mr. Gallagher as an agent, but the other concern wanted to do business directly.

Mayor Thompson was notified and this morning he called the city council into a special session to authorize him to enter into a contract with the American Co. the cost of the display to be $1000. Accordingly, the fireworks exhibition will be given as per schedule Monday evening and a most elaborate program is planned. Mr. Gallagher has directed the company not to overdo the noise-making pieces but rather to give more of the colorful set pieces which make an exceptionally pretty and attractive display.

Suspend Senate Probe of R. R. Situation

WASHINGTON, July 1.—Senate investigation of the railroad situation was suspended today by Chairman Cummins of the Interstate Commerce committee until the middle or latter part of August. This was taken to mean that there would be no railroad relief legislation at the present extra session of congress. Chairman Cummins said suspension of the inquiry was deemed advisable in view of the inclination of the senate to take a summer recess. The investigation to date has developed the views of the railroad executives and security owners, though the latter have not completed the presentation of their case. Representatives of labor and shippers are yet to be heard from. The original plan contemplated a committee report and possibly the proposal of legislation for consideration at the present session of congress.

To Decide Action to Take On Wage Cut

CHICAGO, July 1.—Final decision whether the railway employees of the country shall accept or reject the wage decrease which went into effect today will be referred to a committee of five representing the 16 railroad unions. Executives of the unions reached this decision today and instructed the committee to receive reports from the various group meetings now in Chicago and formulate general recommendations to the union membership.

Demand Retraction By V. Pres. Coolidge

BISMARCK, N. D., July 1.—The state board of administration has wired Vice President Coolidge demanding retraction of statements in an article "Enemies of the Republic" published under the vice president's name in the June issue of the Delineator. The message declared the vice president had made an untruthful and unwarranted attack upon the board of administration of North Dakota and offered to furnish testimony taken under oath to contravene statements made in the article.

Daugherty Not To Attend Fight

WASHINGTON, July 1.—Attorney General Daugherty announced today that he would not attend the Dempsey-Carpentier fight because he "had too much respect for the opinion of people who disapprove of prize fights and of whom I must be a sort of unofficial representative."

cepted a civil service position previously, due to the fact of family responsibilities. She and her husband reside in this city and have two children. Consequently she was unwilling to accept work which would require her to live elsewhere than in Lowell.

At the present time, Mrs. Leary is taking a university course in practical sociology, and is glad to combine the duties of her new position with the theoretical studies in which she is engaged. She has completed a university course in civics, and at present is taking a special course in advanced civics, under the personal supervision of Mrs. Trueworthy White, of Boston, clerk director for the Massachusetts League of Women Voters. This course is especially designed for women dealing with the problems of woman and child welfare. It is also concerned with welfare measures and bills now before the legislature.

YOUNGSTERS FACE SERIOUS CHARGE

Two fourteen-year-old youngsters were arrested last night at the Wigan-ville railroad station by Officers Clyde Aldrich and Nelson, charged with tampering with railroad signals, which it is understood is a state's prison offense. This morning the pair were heard in the juvenile session of the police court, and their cases continued to July 8, when their parents, realizing the serious nature of the charges, asked for time to secure counsel. Officer Aldrich stated that he accompanied by Officer Nelson, visited the station last evening disguised in plain clothes, as a result of complaints that hoodlums were causing damage and disturbance there. The officers watched while there was an effort made to fool with the signals, they declared, and one of the young defendants is said to have been at the top of a ninety-foot pole unkinking with the mechanism when arrests were made. According to Officer Aldrich, the two defendants adopted a defiant and carefree attitude when taken into custody, but it is understood that this nonchalant behavior underwent a sudden change when it was appreciated that the gravity of the offense warranted a term at the state's prison. It is also stated that the defendants, with others, are held responsible for committing nuisances at the station, and otherwise making themselves objectionable.

JURORS THANKED

BY JUDGE COX

EAST CAMBRIDGE, July 1.—Judge Louis S. Cox, after completing a year's service as presiding justice of the superior criminal court at East Cambridge, thanked the jurors for the efficient manner in which they had deliberated over the cases which had been presented to them and also spoke feelingly of the death of Clerk William C. Dillingham who had rendered efficient service in the capacity as clerk of courts for a great many years. He stated that the County of Middlesex is to be congratulated upon having so able a successor in the presence of Ralph N. Smith, and thanked the district attorney and his assistants for the courtesy that had been extended to him by the office, the sheriff, his deputies and court officers and James P.
Ramsay, the probation officer. He commented upon the arduous task which confronted the district attorney and his assistants and said that the work of the office during his term had been exceptionally well performed.

Another feature of the municipal celebration will be the ringing of chimes and bells at sunrise, noon and sunset on the Fourth of July. The bells of all the local mills will be tolled and arrangements for this part of the celebration have been made through the courtesy and co-operation of Agent A. D. Milliken of the Hamilton Mfg. Company. The chimes in St. Patrick's and St. Anne's churches will be rung through the courtesy of the pastors of those churches.

Then on Monday night will come the big fireworks display on the South common at 8 o'clock. The city has made no arrangements for band concerts in connection with this year's celebration inasmuch as the carnival committee of the American Legion is planning six or seven concerts here.
Mayor Thompson believes that under the circumstances the municipal concerts will be more appreciated if given later in the summer.

TAFT CONFIRMED CHIEF JUSTICE

Senate Approves Pres. Harding's Nomination to U. S. Supreme Court

Four Members Opposed Nomination — Taft Declares Life's Ambition Realized

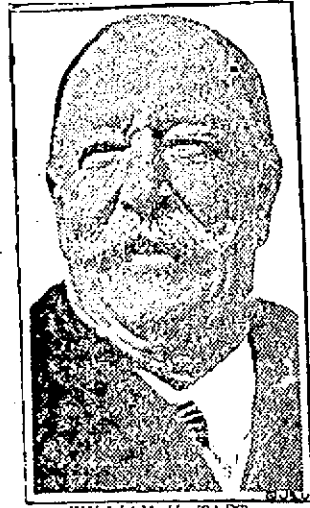

WASHINGTON, July 1.—Former President William Howard Taft was nominated late yesterday by President Harding to be chief justice of the United States and his nomination was confirmed by the senate in executive session.

The nomination was not confirmed without opposition, however, and a roll call was demanded. The opposition was understood to have been voiced by Senators Borah, Johnson, California, and La Follette, Wisconsin, all republicans, who were said to have criticized Mr. Taft's record and his nomination.

On the roll call, however, only four votes were cast against confirmation. These were by Senators Borah, Johnson and La Follette, and Senator Watson, democrat, Georgia.

The final vote was 69 to four. An agreement was reached not to make public the roll call.

It was indicated that President

WILLIAM H. TAFT

Harding had acted so far in advance of the winter term of the court because he felt that the new chief justice should have ample time to reorganize the court's business before the reconvening, Oct. 1.

Mr. Harding is understood to have been advised by legal officers of the

GOLD RUSH STARTING IN NORTHERN CANADA

THE PAS. MAN., July 1.—Gold fever has temporarily displaced excitement here incident to the rush to the oil fields, and prospectors are leaving daily for the scene of the reported rich mineral strike.

Reports of ore bodies rich in gold content having been uncovered from several sections, but the richest is reported at Elbow Lake in the Athapapuskow Lake mineral area and east of the famous Gordon Dyke, discovered last summer. Elbow Lake is about 200 miles northeast of The Pas.

Mining men who have visited the spot have returned here with an account of a vein sixty feet wide, wherein free gold is freely seen. Until it is stripped, they declare, however, it is possible only to approximate the value and tonnage.

Other prospectors who visited the region following the report of the strike declare that a mineral body 40 feet wide and traced for 350 feet in length has been uncovered, through-out which free gold is heavily deposited. One prospector had two pounds of ore, of which the gold content was estimated at not less than 2 per cent. These samples are considered the richest ever brought here.

Another strike, the exact location of which is vague, also has thrown "Peace river into the throes of gold fever. The cause of the excitement was the recent arrival of a party who investigated a claim which furnished an old Indian trapper, about 70 miles northeast of here, with a number of small nuggets.

EDMONTON, Alta., July 1.—A geological party has left Edmonton for the northwest territories to make a thorough examination of the structural formations of the north in the interest of a big syndicate representing British, Canadian, American and European capital.

The services of a topographer, surveyor and the necessary assistants to carry out a schedule of research work which has been mapped out have been secured, but no details are available regarding the destination of the party.

Dr. J. J. O'Neill, well known geologist, who recently returned to Canada from Burma, accompanied the party.

MERRIMACK PARK

"One Grand and Glorious Fourth" Planned at Merrimack Park on the Banks of the Merrimack

Merrimack park, the new amusement resort located on the boulevard just half way between Lowell and Lawrence, announces one grand and glorious Fourth of July celebration with something doing every minute from midnight July 3, until 11:30 p. m. the night of the Fourth. The Fourth will be ushered in with a monster bonfire at the park which will be set off at midnight of the 3d. A band will provide music for the occasion and numerous novelties will be introduced which will prove new and entertaining. Quite a program has been arranged by the park management for the Fourth. There will be boat races for both motor and canoes and there will also be jumping, running and the old-fashioned sack races during the day and at night a grand display of fireworks, said to be far greater than any display of pyrotechnics that has been seen in this section in many a day will be the big feature. Prof. John Broderick's famous 10-piece orchestra will furnish a program of snappy dance music with just enough of the jazz element in it to make dancing a pleasure. The street car company has promised ample transportation and you can buy a special round-trip ticket for 25 cents which will carry you to the gates of Merrimack park and are now on sale at Green's drug store, the Crown Confectionery and at the Bay State shoe shining parlor.

DISCARDED DIRIGIBLES ARE GOING BEGGING

LONDON, July 1.—Dirigible airships appear to be in little demand here. A number of them that cost the British government a mint of money to build are now practically going begging. The air ministry announced some time ago that it was prepared to give up airships if they were not taken over by private persons for commercial purposes. It now states that it has been decided that unless an offer is made to something in the airship line, the airships will be discarded. The airships, stations and material will then be handed over to the disposal board to get rid of, as the air ministry is stated in the official report. "We are not justified in continuing expenditure on this service." The air ministry offers to sell the R-60, R-59, R-58, R-57 and the former German airship L-71 and L-74.

ALASKA HERRING

ALASKA UNSPLIT FAT HERRING

There is as much difference between the qualities of Herring as there is between Beef and Lamb.

In all the world there are no finer Herring than are found in Alaskan waters. Alaska Herring are especially plump, tender and flavory.

Here you have a large can at 23c of the choicest Alaska Herring prepared, cooked and packed in all of their exquisite freshness, right in Alaska where they are caught.

In our preparation of these fish we never split them to make them appear dressy, but rather we keep them in their whole round shape in order to preserve their natural tenderness and succulency.

The rich and savory oil found in this tin comes from the fish itself. No foreign oil or sauce of any kind is used to "GIVE FLAVOR," for these fish are possessed of so fine a natural flavor that it cannot possibly be improved upon.

We send to your table as fine a fish product as Science, Conscience and Money can Produce.

20,000 Ex-Service Men Cannot Vote

MOBILE, Ala., July 1.—Approximately 20,000 ex-service men in Alabama, it was estimated today, are disqualified from voting and rendered ineligible to hold positions under state, county and municipal governments by a decision of the supreme court at Montgomery. The court held yesterday that the voters of Alabama never legally ratified the constitutional amendment exempting soldiers and sailors of the World war from payment of poll taxes if they served four months or more.

that he might some day become chief justice is said by Mr. Taft's friends to have been the aspiration nearest his heart. It is said that he always has felt himself better fitted by temperament to serve in the judiciary than in the executive branch of the government and that when in 1910, fortune brought him the opportunity to appoint a chief justice he would gladly have changed places with the man he selected and now succeeds.

It also is told of Mr. Taft that he hesitated several times at what he considered the parting of ways that led in the opposite directions of the presidency and the chief justiceship. When he was secretary of war under Roosevelt he is said to have been offered a choice between remaining in the cabinet and taking a vacancy on the court, an alternative that caused him many hours of anxious consideration. President Roosevelt is understood to have counseled against acceptance of the justiceship, feeling that his secretary of war would become a logical successor to the presidency.

As president, it became Mr. Taft's duty not only to choose a chief justice, but to make five other appointments to the highest court. Of the men he selected, only two, Justices Vandewater and Pitney, remain to serve with him on the bench.

Although he came to the presidency as a citizen of Ohio, he now is selected chief justice as a citizen of Connecticut. Soon after he left the White House he made New Haven his legal residence, accepting a position he still holds as professor of law at Yale university from which he was graduated in 1878. He prepared for the practice of law at the Cincinnati law school, where he was graduated two years later.

All of his earlier traditions pointed to a legal career. His grandfather, Peter Taft, left the bench to serve as attorney, general in the cabinet of President Grant. At the age of 23, the future president became assistant prosecuting attorney at Hamilton, O., and after that for 32 years he was given a succession of public offices which left him little time for the practice of his profession.

Among the prominent cases in which Mr. Taft will not participate follows: Colorado Coal case in which the United Mine Workers of America are appealing from a verdict holding that organization liable under the Sherman laws, for $500,000 damages resulting from a strike. The legal issue involved—whether a national labor organization can be held liable for damages caused by the activities of an affiliated local—has been declared by labor leaders to be the most important in the history of organized labor.

The child labor case involving the validity of sections of the 1919 revenue act imposing a special excise tax on profits derived from the product of labor of minors.

American hardwood case, involving the right of some 400 lumber dealers to continue co-operative selling methods, with exchange of production and sales data.

The Wisconsin rate case which with other suits now pending in the lower courts, will determine the authority of the interstate commerce commission to supervise state rates over common carriers.

Life's Ambition Realized

MONTREAL, July 1.—"It has been the ambition of my life to be chief justice," William H. Taft declared last night, "but now that it is gratified I tremble to think whether I can worthily fill the position and be useful to the country."

"I have received telegrams announcing that the president has nominated me to be chief justice of the United States and that the senate has, at once, confirmed the nomination," said Mr. Taft in a signed statement, commenting on his appointment as chief justice. "I am profoundly grateful to the president for the confidence he has thus shown that I can discharge the important duties of the exalted office. I sincerely hope and pray that I may be able to show that this confidence has not been misplaced. I highly appreciate the immediate confirmation by the senate."

"The argument in the Grand Trunk arbitration in which I am one of the arbitrators, will be concluded Wednesday, July 6th, and I expect to be in Washington on July 7th to take the official oath, to confer with the attorney general and to pay my respects and thanks in person to the president."

"The supreme court adjourned on June 5th until Oct. 3rd, so that I shall have no court duties until October. After my visit to Washington when I plan to look about for temporary quarters for next year, I expect to visit New Haven to make arrangements for closing up my connection with Yale university. Then I shall return to Canada at Murray Bay, Que., to study the record of the Grand Trunk arbitration proceedings with a view to joining in an award in August."

"I shall have in the near future to resign my professorship of federal constitutional law at Yale; the presidency of the League to Enforce Peace and my position as occasional editor on the staff of the Public Ledger of Philadelphia."

COLORADO GIRL HEADS
CLASS AT SIMMONS

BOSTON, July 1.—Miss Constance Bouck of Leadville, Colo., a freshman at Simmons college, is announced as head of her class in general intelligence. The decision was reached through the application of mentality tests originated by Dr. A. A. Roback, instructor in physiology at Harvard university and at Simmons.

"The 12 parts of the Roback tests, with the exception of the analogy, hard opposites and direct tests, which were based on familiar principles, were devised by Dr. Roback with the college student in mind." It was explained in announcing the award.

"One of the most interesting of the test questions is the problems test, designed to range rapidly to grapple with a practical situation. One of the problems, for example, asked: 'If you were on the seventh floor of a department store in a hurry to get to the ground floor and two elevators came at the same time, one attracting a large crowd and the other only two passengers, which would you take and why?' The person of under-average and some of average intelligence answered at once, 'The elevator with two passengers, because it is easier to get in and out of.' It takes the superior intelligence to reason that the full car will in all probability express to the ground floor, whereas the almost empty one would stop on the way down at each floor to take on more passengers.

"The relations test was another poser. 'If two first cousins were to marry,' what would be the former and the new relationship of Miss A's sister husband to Mr. X's? Answer, former relation, first cousin by marriage; new relation, brother-in-law. Of Mr. X to Miss A's mother? Answer, old relation, nephew; new, son-in-law. Of Miss A's brother to Mr. X's sister? Answer, first cousin and brother's brother-in-law. Of Mr. X's father to Miss A's brother? Answer, uncle and sister's father-in-law. Mr. and Mrs. X's child to Mr. X's brother's child? Answer, second cousin, first cousin.

"There were ten others besides the relations and the problems tests to be answered inside of three hours.

"The six highest scores were obtained by American girls of American parentage. It was added.

A green parrot, swinging in a tree in Evanston, Illinois, jammed traffic for blocks by calling out, 'Not so fast—go slow! Stop!' The same squad of officers who captured the parrot rounded up an organ grinder who had a monkey trained to climb into second-story windows and pass out articles of value. When captured, the monkey had a valuable vase and lavalliere which he had stolen from a bedroom.

EXPERTS IN LOWELL

Demonstrate the Famous
Rice Method Free
To Callers at Hotel

If you are ruptured, your big opportunity has now arrived. You would like to be free from the slavery of gougling, pinching, chafing trusses that make life a burden, then HERE and NOW is the time to act.

A. S. Dewar and Mrs. M. J. Hudson, experts in rupture cases, trained under the personal direction of W. S. Rice, of Adams, N. Y., the famous discoverer of the Rice Non-Surgical Rupture Method, will be at the Richardson Hotel, Lowell, Mass., July 5 and 6.

Mr. Dewar and Mrs. Hudson are here to personally demonstrate to all ruptured people what the Rice Rupture Method can accomplish. You have, no doubt, heard and read much about this famous method and the cures which thousands have reported from it. Now you have the chance to find out all about it—have it demonstrated to you and to see what it can do in YOUR OWN case. Just call at the hotel and these experts will give you their personal attention, best advice and complete demonstration absolutely without charge.

Are you tired of that binding, hampering, uncomfortable truss? Would you like to be free from it forever? Then investigate this Rice Method and find out the possibilities it holds out. Surely a Method that could cause so many thousands of former rupture sufferers to report cures must be worthy of your full and complete investigation.

The Rice Method is different from anything else. It is modern, up-to-the-minute, abreast of the latest scientific developments. It is the one Method that you are not asked to take on faith, alone—the one Method that is positively demonstrated to you, right on your own person, without any charge whatever. You do not spend a penny unless, after having a full and complete demonstration, you decide that this is the Method for you. And you—you alone—are the sole judge of that.

In justice to yourself, come in and see Mr. Dewar. Remember, he will be here only two days, then your opportunity will be gone. Grasp it NOW. It may prove to be the wisest thing you ever did, and anyway, it costs you nothing to find out.

Remember, come to the Richardson Hotel, any day from 9 to 12 forenoons, 2 to 5 afternoons, or 7 to 9 in the evenings. The dates are July 5 and 6.

MODEL COAL MINE AT EXPOSITION

CHICAGO, July 1.—A model coal mine built under the supervision of government experts and illustrating the very latest form of labor-saving mining machinery, will be one of the unique features of the National Exposition of Mines and Mining equipment arranged for by the American mining congress in connection with its 24th annual convention to be held in Chicago, Oct. 17-22.

From the cutting machines to the ventilating fans keeping the air fresh and free from gas, every form of modern coal mining machinery will be seen operating under actual working conditions.

The visitor will have an opportunity of seeing a real coal mine and of exploring its recesses. He may come to an open shaft, enter an elevator, and slowly go down seemingly hundreds of feet. At the bottom he may step out into a black tunnel with miners' lamps flickering here and there. Farther on he can enter into a mine room to observe the cutting machines at work, watch the loaders pick up the mined coal, place it into dump cars and see an electric locomotive hook up the cars and pull them up to the conveyor which lifts the coal to the mouth of the mine.

According to Secretary John Burns, the American Mining Congress at its exposition with the help of the United States government and through the construction of this model mine, hopes to be able to bring about a better understanding on the part of the public of the various cost factors entering into the production of coal and at the same time to give to the mine operator a chance to study improved methods which will assist him in bringing about a lower price at the mines.

CLIFF DWELLERS

Did Not Come Northward
From Mexico

CANTON, Tex., July 1.—That the Pueblo cliff dwellers of New Mexico were originally buffalo hunting and nomadic Indians of western Oklahoma and northwestern Texas and that they gradually developed their architecture and their arts as they moved westward, finally settling down to permanent habitations in New Mexico, has been definitely established by archaeological investigations made in Texas Panhandle and Eastern New Mexico by Warren K. Moorehead, geologist of Andover, Mass., and J. T. Thorne, representing the Oklahoma Historical society.

This is an announcement important to science, as formerly it was generally supposed that the cliff dwellers came northward from Mexico.

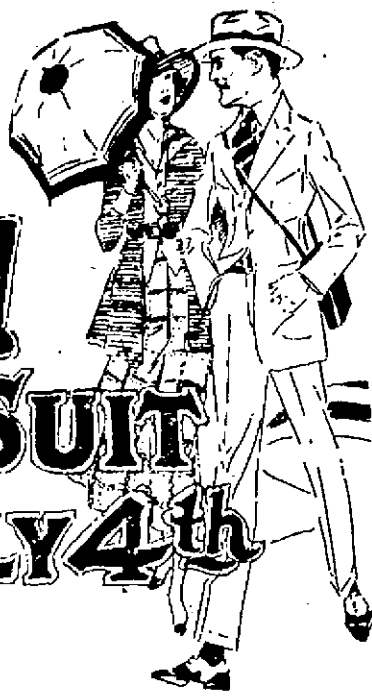

The explorations of Mr. Moorehead and Mr. Thorne carried them along the courses of the Canadian and Cimarron rivers in the Panhandle of Texas and thence eastward into New Mexico

as far as the Mora valley. In Mora valley eight or ten typical Pueblo ruins were found in a fairly good state of preservation. From the Mora valley eastward to the Oklahoma line the stone buildings of the Indians become smaller, more primitive and less important until they finally disappear.

Upon completion of the work preparatory to this announcement Mrs. Moorehead and Thorne delivered addresses on the subject before the West Texas Normal school at Canyon. It was here that the first detailed announcement of this important discovery was made.

This was the second archaeological exploration trip Mr. Moorehead has made to this part of the country in connection with the tracing of the origin of the cliff dweller culture.

SCIENCE SERVICE

Astronomy Has Telegraph Service Of Its Own

BY CALVIN FRAZER

The outcome of a baseball game or a prize fight is promptly made known to millions of people through the telegraphic service of the newspapers. News of important scientific discoveries generally travels by much more deliberate and uncertain methods to the minority of the human race that takes an interest in such matters.

Only one branch of science enjoys a well-organized telegraphic news service, and considering the fact that this service has been in successful operation for half a century it is remarkable that public attention has seldom been directed to it.

Astronomical discoveries of several kinds need to be promptly followed up by observations in various parts of the world in order to yield a maximum of scientific knowledge. The discoverer of a new comet, for example, may be prevented by cloudy weather from observing the movements of the celestial visitor long enough to compute its orbit.

Some of the astronomical observatories of Europe had been exchanging news of their discoveries by telegraph for several years when, in 1873, the Smithsonian Institution inaugurated the first transatlantic service of this character.

This valuable service was gradually enlarged.

Cablegrams announcing astronomical discoveries, new calculations of orbits, and other data of urgent importance, are now regularly exchanged throughout the world.

NICE LITTLE FAUNT

LONDON, July 1.—Nowadays lady slips away after breakfast, goes to Paris to buy a new gown and gets back in time to get hubby's evening meal. That's possible because there are airplane excursions to Paris and back daily this summer.

SHOWERS OF FROGS; NOT BLESSINGS

GIBRALTAR, July 1.—After enjoying a big dinner of frogs' legs, British soldiers here are proceeding to clean out the barrels of cannon and "police up" the fortress streets.

The cannon muzzles are stuffed full of frogs. And there are frogs, frogs, everywhere!

During a thunderstorm, a shower of frogs fell from the sky. That's not unusual here. Scientists can't explain it.

ULTIMATUM TO LEPROSY PATIENTS

HONOLULU, T. H., July 1.—Some of the patients released on parole from the leprosy investigation station and hospital at Kalahehi, Honolulu, have failed to report at regular intervals, as they are required to do by the terms of their parole, and the board of health of the territory has issued an ultimatum that if this continues they will be brought back to the station and their permits to live at home cancelled.

While not a single patient out of the scores paroled from Kalahehi has been returned going to recurrence of the disease, the authorities insist on keeping a strict check on those released.

GIRLS! BLEACH SKIN WHITE WITH LEMON

Squeeze the juice of two lemons into a bottle containing three ounces of Orchard White, which a drug store will supply for a few cents, shake well, and you have a quartet pint of harmless and delightful lemonbleach. Massage this sweetly fragrant lotion into the face, neck, arms and hands each day, then shortly note the beauty and whiteness of your skin.

Famous stage beauties use this lemon lotion to bleach and bring that soft, clear, rosy-white complexion, also as a freckle, sunburn, and tan bleach because it doesn't irritate.—Adv.

Board of health officers point out that, while the chaulmoogra oil treatment, as administered here, has proved that leprosy can be checked, time alone can establish whether a definite cure has been involved.

In all their statements given to The Associated Press, Dr. A. L. Dean, President of the University of Hawaii, and the other scientists waging the battle against leprosy here have specifically said that the chaulmoogra oil treatment will check leprosy, and, while expressing the confident hope that it will ultimately result in a definite cure, they have carefully pointed out that this hope can be realized only by the test of time.

Following the resignation of Dr. J. T. McDonald, who has given years of his life to the fight against the disease, Kalahehi hospital now is in charge of Dr. H. E. Hasseltine, a biological expert sent out from Washington.

GETAWAY DAY FOR DEMPSEY

Before Nightfall Champion
Will Be Secluded In Private
Residence In Jersey City

Photographic Music to Keep Carp's Mind Off Tomorrow's Battle

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., July 1.—This is getaway day for Jack Dempsey, world's heavyweight champion. Before sundown this evening, the grim, determined Dempsey will be sequestered in a private residence in Jersey City, perhaps to face a night that may seem endless; there to remain until he faces Georges Carpentier in the battle of his life tomorrow afternoon.

Everything is in readiness for the champion's departure. The exact hour, however, has not been divulged, nor has Jack Kearns, Dempsey's manager, revealed the railroad over which the champion and his party will travel. Where Dempsey will sleep in Jersey City tonight, also is a guarded secret. That local he will be revealed even to Dempsey himself, as Manager Kearns is taking every precaution to have him rest in absolute quiet, away from the eyes of the curious thousands.

Released from the close confinement of two months' training, the titleholder is happy in this liberation, and more like a boy brimming over with anticipation than a heavyweight champion facing the most important battle of his career.

Dempsey revealed his happy, carefree state of mind yesterday when he sat on the front porch of his house and for more than two hours took part in a conversation that included a variety of subjects. While a driving rain beat down on the huge field surrounding his camp, Dempsey laughed heartily and joked with a small circle of friends, frequently taking a friendly nap at whatever might be within range.

Yesterday the driving rain prevented all exercise except a long walk in the morning with "Mike" Trant, the Chicago detective sergeant, who will act as his body guard in and out of the arena tomorrow.

Dempsey went to bed at 9:30 o'clock and Trant is authority for the statement that the champion slept soundly for nearly nine hours. Heavyweight Dempsey is an unusual champion in at least one conspicuous respect. Virtually on the eve of his engagement with Carpentier, he is displaying none of that grouchiness and unapproachability that traditionally has come to be regarded as the conclusive proof of a fighter being on "edge" for an important battle.

Yesterday, Nelson, who predicted the downfall of Jess Willard at Toledo two years ago, predicts that tomorrow's contest will be the shortest and most vicious fought in the heavyweight history. Nelson will not be surprised if Dempsey wins in the first round.

"I look for the battle to end before either Dempsey or Carpentier gets warmed up," Nelson said today. "They are terrific hitters, and one of them will drop in short order. Of course, I am siding with Dempsey. He looks better to me than when he fought Willard. He's got more class,

LYNCH MEETS YOUNG MONTREAL JULY 4

WOONSOCKET, R. I., July 1.—Nathan Champion Joe Lynch and Young Montreal of Providence have each posted $500 as a guarantee for weight and appearance in connection with their 12-round whirl here Monday afternoon. The weight is to be 115 pounds at 3 o'clock. Kettled by his setback at the hands of Abe Friedman in Boston last Monday, Montreal is working union hours at his training camp at Spring Lake, 10 miles from here, and promises to win back his lost prestige by decisively beating the champion. It will be their third meeting, the first going to an even break, while sport writers gave the second to Montreal.

N. Y. HOTELS CROWDED WITH FIGHT FANS

NEW YORK, July 1.—New York hotels were crowded today and, in the city, there was a buzz of conversation in which the words "Dempsey and Carpentier" predominated.

Fully 5,000 out-of-town golfers registered yesterday who announced their intention of seeing the championship bout tomorrow at Jersey City, and some 20,000 were expected to flow in today from every quarter of the continent. Those arriving yesterday included residents of cities from Medicine Hat to Miami and from Bangor to El Paso.

BRAYES SEEK NEW PLAYERS

BOSTON, July 1.—The Braves, third in the National League race, are leaving no stone unturned in their effort to obtain greater strength. Jack Barry, Harvard baseball coach, has been engaged to tour the southern states during the next few weeks on a scouting trip for players. A left handed pitcher and a reserve infielder, are especially sought.

Barry knows "stiff" and is a better and more polished boxer.

Day of Peace For Carp

MANHASSET, N. Y., July 1.—Only light exercise was on the work program of Georges Carpentier today, and to keep his mind on tomorrow's battle. Trainer Wilson prescribed phonographic music, a walk through the woods and a long automobile ride.

This of all days, Trainer Wilson said, was to be a day of peace for the challenger and he was not to be bothered even by personal friends.

All members of the camp were busy getting things in order for tomorrow. Everybody was impatient but the only display of real nervousness was on the part of Manager Desamps. He appeared to be "up in the air" because of a number of telephone calls. He said there had been no less than 75 up to noon, and that he had been asked all the foolish questions imaginable.

Some fellow who said he was going to bet on Carpentier wanted to talk to the challenger himself, and ask his advice. A woman thought Desamps rude because he refused an invitation for the challenger to attend an ice cream social tonight.

Although he declined to say what plans had been made for after the fight, Desamps intimated that the camp here would be retained. Trainer Wilson will be placed in charge and will condition Charles Ledoux, the French bantamweight champion, and Paul Journee, the big French heavyweight. It is almost certain that Dempsey will come to this country later and make Manhasset his headquarters, if only temporarily.

POLICE TO PROTECT FIGHT SPECTATORS

NEW YORK, July 1.—The crowd attending the Dempsey-Carpentier bout, the largest in the history of the sport, also will be the most orderly that has witnessed a heavyweight title bout, police officials of the Metropolitan district promised today.

Elaborate preparations for the protection of spectators from pickpockets have been made by Jersey City police.

Most novel is the plan to prevent confusion with the establishment of a "dead line" extending approximately four blocks on all sides of the arena. Bluecoats stationed at intervals of a few yards on this boundary will bar admittance to all persons who do not possess tickets or other proper credentials.

The issue of bogus tickets in many sections of the country, has added to the problem confronting Promoter Tex Rickard and the police authorities. Persons presenting such tickets will be held in the effort to chase down the counterfeiters. A court of last appeal composed of a dozen or more engravers will be furnished by Rickard, before which persons with counterfeit tickets will be taken for expert decision as to the worth of the questioned "passbooks."

JOSH WISE ON THE BIG FIGHT

BY JACK RAPER

A word from Josh Wise: A lot of fighters know the ropes from hanging on 'em.

You hear so much about Carpentier's "scout legs" that it is even a surprise if Flo Ziegfeld signed him.

One of Dempsey's friends says Jack knows he never will be as popular as John L. Sullivan was. Hump! Even Napoleon was never that popular.

Jess Willard says he is too busy to go to the fight. So is John D. Rockefeller.

Some New Jersey folks gave a loving cup to Dempsey. Giving a loving cup to anybody these days is like giving a comb and brush to a bald-headed man.

A Hoboken astrologer says the stars are picked up before. He added dignity to baseball and he might add a little to prizefighting.

We had hoped Judge Landis would be picked as referee. He added dignity to baseball and he might add a little to prizefighting.

We jump in one of the public prints that a sport ed says Dempsey is a polished gentleman. He may be, but the most highly polished gentleman we ever heard of was Jess Willard at the end of the Toledo fight.

All the big bugs use heavy sparring partners—heavy on their feet.

GAME ON NORTH COMMON

A strenuous game is scheduled for the North common tomorrow afternoon at 3:30, when the snappy Fletcher Reds and the Lamson company teams clash. The Fletcher Reds will rely upon Curry and Farrell for their battery, while the Lamson company management has decided not to announce theirs until play is called. Bob Ganley will officiate as umpire.

The world's heaviest brain was said to be that of the Russian author, Tolstoy. It weighed 2012 grams.

WAR VETERANS HISS DEMPSEY'S NAME

DETROIT, July 1.—San Francisco was chosen as the 1922 meeting place of the Disabled American Veterans of Foreign Wars at the final session of the organization's first convention here today. Cincinnati was named as the permanent headquarters of the organization and Judge Robert S. Marx of Cincinnati was re-elected national president.

A resolution condemning expressions attributed to members of the socialist party, that Wednesday ended its national convention here, was adopted here yesterday at the convention of disabled veterans.

The resolution, drafted by Ralph A. Horr of Seattle, who Wednesday accompanied a delegation of veterans to the socialist convention and addressed it, placed the veterans on record against a statement said to have been made by certain delegates to the socialist convention to the effect "that as for the communists we will fight only under the red flag of international socialism."

Col. C. R. Forbes, director of the Bureau of War Risk Insurance, told the convention today that all "red tape" was to be eliminated from his bureau and that the bureau would be on a current basis by July 21.

Samuel D. Lamkin, who retires today as director of the federal board for vocational training, advocated that all wounded naturalized American citizens who served in allied armies and widows and children of war dead be given vocational training. He also advocated a plan to give all ex-service men and women, whether wounded or not, an opportunity to obtain training.

The name of Jack Dempsey was greeted with hisses when it was mentioned on the convention floor by Judge Marx. Declaring he understood Dempsey was an honorary member of the western organization of veterans, Judge Marx said:

"Dempsey is the last man we would want as an honorary member of this organization."

COLLEGE STUDENTS TO WORK AS LABORERS

PRINCETON, July 1.—Twenty undergraduates of Princeton university will spend their summer vacations or part of them in attending the great university of American industry—that is they are going to work wherever they can get a job in order to study the conditions of wage earners and their relations with their employers.

They intend to live, eat and sleep as other laborers and wage earners. Every week they will meet in groups to discuss the things they have learned and prepare a report to be given to other college men and future employers. One of the purposes is to see if they can discover means of improving the conditions of the wage earners.

For six weeks before the university closed, 60 Princeton men voluntarily attended a course of lectures in which they listened to speakers alternately representing the standpoint of labor and capital. They studied books on industrial conditions to equip them for their effort to deal with what they regard as perhaps the greatest problem facing America and Europe today.

They say they do not hope to revolutionize the conditions of the wage earners but they do hope to be able to make to employers and capitalists a few suggestions gained from first-hand knowledge of conditions in American industries.

The plan was suggested by Sherwood Eddy, a Young Men's Christian association secretary, who lectured here on social problems.

Some of the Princeton men already are at work in New York, Philadelphia, Denver, Minneapolis and other cities. They agreed that none of them should accept a job if by so doing he threw out of employment another man. The committee in charge secured positions for more than one-half of the applicants and these were given to men who were working their way through college. The rest are seeking their own places.

Princeton is not the only college to adopt the plan but is taking one of the most active parts in carrying it out. Last summer a group of California students worked in Denver, following a plan something like that which the Princeton men will attempt.

PAL REED WINS DECISION OVER TOMMY ROBSON

BOSTON, July 1.—Pal Reed, the Natick middleweight, won the decision over Tommy Robson of Melton in their 10-round bout at the Armory A.A. show in Mechanics' building last night. Robson did too much stalling, and in a number of the rounds he made little effort to stop Reed's punches.

In the first couple of rounds it looked as if Robson was going to be the winner. He jabbed Reed often in the face with his left and stepped away from the aggressor about all the time and he caught Robson some stiff left hooks in the stomach and face, and a number of times landed the right on the head.

Robson in most of the rounds during the latter part of the battle made no attempt to do any fighting till the last minutes of the rounds. Then he would cut loose with rights and lefts on the jaw. In few of those rounds he had Reed a bit wobbly. Reed, however, always made an effort to land counters on the face and body.

In a few of the other rounds Robson landed the right on Reed's jaw and staggered the latter. Then Robson would start stalling. Instead of following up his advantage, Robson had a few pounds weight on Reed. They had several to weigh 155 at 3 o'clock. Robson was at 152, while Reed was 162. Reed was a 2 to 1 favorite.

Several times Reed complained that Robson was stepping on his right foot, but it did not look intentional. Harry Silva won the decision over Billy Woods in 10 rounds. Denny Glavin won from Newman Reagan in eight rounds. Lenny Mullins stopped Joe Reardon in three rounds. John Brasili was referee, Jimmy Winston and Louis Sullivan, judges, and Snap Cohen, timer.

American Woman On Way To Be Cannibal Isle Queen

MRS. LOUIS LANDROCK, A VIEW ON HER ISLAND IN THE FIJIS.
AND MAP SHOWING ITS LOCATION

(By Newspaper Enterprise)
OMAHA, Neb., July 1.—From civilized life in an American city to "queen" of a "musical comedy island," with cannibals as next door neighbors! It would be a startling change—even in fiction.

But Mrs. Louis Landrock of Omaha is making the jump. She is on the Pacific ocean, en route to Neau, one of the Fiji Islands, and the town of Pontianak, in Dutch Borneo.

She expects to settle down, almost in the center of the Fijis, as part owner of a $10,000,000 estate.

One of the most eccentric wills in history is responsible for it all.

Way back in 1854, Prince Wolfert Wehbert of Holland became disgruntled with his daughter, Princess Anneke, for marrying out of royalty. He willed her share of his extensive island holdings to the seventh generation of her descendants.

Heir In Trust

The Dutch government has held the property in trust since that time, waiting for Anneke's great-great-great-great-grandchildren to put in an appearance.

The princess, in the meantime, moved to New Amsterdam, where she told the story of the island kingdom to her children. They repeated it to their children and their children's children.

From the princess there were two distinct lines of descent, for after her first husband was lost at sea, she married Evardus Bogardus, second pastor of the New Amsterdam church in New York.

Some of the descendants preserved complete records of their lineage.

Mrs. Landrock, daughter of Mrs. Augusta Gardner Keeline, only child of the almost "run out" family, was taught from early childhood that she, with her sisters, Nona and Lillian, was to have the promise of wealth fulfilled.

Her Life Secret

All through her life Mrs. Landrock guarded the story well.

"This is America," she said, just before sailing. "People would only have tapped their heads, had I told them of it."

The lineage chart, which Mrs. Landrock has kept complete, has traveled back and forth between Holland and Omaha dozens of times, and was drafted in its final stage at a cost of $4000. It dates from 1654 to 1915.

For five years Mrs. Landrock has had a representative in Dutch Borneo and the Fijis. He has been kept busy, she says, looking after crops of coffee, pineapples, coconuts, rubber, etc.

In a recent letter this representative told of a man in his employ who had been killed by cannibals.

But Mrs. Landrock—with a dictionary of the Malay language under her arm—is soon to set foot in the Fijis as the seventh descendant of Princess Anneke.

R. R. MEN WON'T DO ANYTHING RASH

CHICAGO, July 1.—Hundreds of railway union leaders gathered last night in preparation for meetings today, which will take up the acceptance or rejection of the wage reductions ordered by the railroad labor board, which are effective today.

Votes have been taken by a number of the organizations, and while no official announcement will be made public until today or Saturday, it has been unofficially reported that the votes in some cases show a majority against acceptance of the cuts.

The stationary engineers and others have voted 94 per cent against acceptance of the wage cuts, declared Timothy Healy, international president of the organization.

"There will be no nation-wide strike unless the men are forced into it," said E. Jewell, president of the Railway Department of the American Federation of Labor. "Our men will accept any reasonable adjustment. They are not going to do anything rash or unreasonable."

"There is nothing to be alarmed over in the situation," said W. S. Carter, president of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen.

L. J. Luhrs, president of the American Train Dispatchers' Association, said his organization had not taken a vote on the wage reduction. "To the members of our organization it has seemed to be simply a question of obeying the law as declared by the labor board," he said.

T. C. Cashen, new president of the Switchmen's Union of North America, also expressed optimism regarding the situation. "We are not looking for trouble," he declared. "The rank and file of our organization is taking a level-headed view of the labor board's decision. They will do what is right."

The union leaders, most of them general chairmen of the four big brotherhoods, probably will be in session several days.

COMMONS VOTES GRANT TO COAL MINERS'

LONDON, July 1.—The house of commons today approved the plan submitted by Prime Minister Lloyd George for a grant of £10,000,000 to the coal miners in pursuance of the strike settlement program. The money will be applied in helping tide the men over the next few months, during the process of wage reduction.

The passage of this legislation complements the action necessary to make effective the settlement of the coal strike reached early this week.

NEW TRIAL FOR MAN CONVICTED IN 1920

PORTLAND, Me., July 1.—A law court rescript handed down by Associate Justice Charles Dunn yesterday granted a new trial to Jesse C. Scott, who was found guilty, with William Pomeroy, of the murder of Robert C. Moore in Piscataquis county.

The two men were convicted in September, 1920. A motion for a new trial for Scott was made following the conviction, but was denied by the presiding justice, and then an appeal was taken.

Associate Justice Dunn in the rescript held that whatever the relation of Pomeroy to the crime, Scott was in no way relieved, except by his presence in the house at the time.

He reviewed the flight and silence maintained by Scott after capture, and said that silence was but a circumstance and flight might weigh with other evidence.

Scott had claimed that what he had was through fear of Pomeroy. Justice Dunn held that Scott's guilt was not established beyond a reasonable doubt, and that his conviction, therefore, constituted an injustice.

The bridesmaid was Miss Eleanor Ripley of Long Island, while the best man was Dr. Grant P. Fennoyer of New York. The couple will make their home at Morristown, N. J.
